The Nationwide Television Studies Charlotte Brunsdon, David Morley, 2005-07-15 This book brings together for the first time David Morley and Charlotte Brunsdon's classic texts Everyday Television Nationwide and The Nationwide Audience Originally published in 1978 and 1980 these two research projects combine innovative textual readings and audience analysis of the BBC's current affairs programme Nationwide In a specially written introduction the authors trace the history of the original Nationwide project and clarify the origins of the two books Africa, Cultural Studies and Difference Keyan Tomaselli, Handel Kashope Wright, 2013-12-16 Cultural Studies has evolved and continues to evolve primarily along regional lines However uncomfortable this might be the genie of British cultural studies cannot be returned to the bottle of history Thus national versions of cultural studies have arisen in a few African countries This book engages two critical and seemingly contradictory tasks i to contribute to the development of cultural studies from the perspectives of African experiences and indigenous frames of reference and ii to examine these in terms of transnational trajectories of the field in ways that do not reduce them to one or other context Much cultural studies remains concerned with Texts often disconnected from their contexts For the authors published here the contexts include African philosophies cosmologies and ontologies It includes the writings of both residential natives and those who have re located to the diaspora a spread that opens conversations with international approaches that both include and exclude African experiences and work This anthology juxtaposes many different kinds of cultural studies done in different parts of the world as a means of creating a global dialogue around the signifier of Africa This book was published as a special issue of Cultural Studies The Handbook of Language and Globalization Nikolas Coupland, 2012-09-17 The Handbook of Language and Globalization brings together important new studies of language and discourse in the global era consolidating a vibrant new field of sociolinguistic research The first involves a landscape including the landscape of a given audience situated and territorializing features of any way of seeing and defining the world. It acknowledges in the face of conventional discourse analysis the contextual features of discourse to produce complex and textured understanding of the concept of audience. The book will speak to students of rhetoric, mass communication, cultural studies, anthropology and sociology alike. This book offers a major reconceptualization of the term audience including the landscape of a given audience, the situated and territorializing features of any way of seeing and defining the world. Given de Certeau's hypothesis that listening, watching and reading all occur in places and result in producing transformed paths or spaces, the contributors to this landmark volume have provided innovative essays analyzing the transformations that take place in the geography between sender and receiver. The book acknowledges in the face of conventional discourse analysis the contextual features of discourse to produce a complex and textured understanding of the concept of audience. The Audience and Its Landscape presents the work of a vital cross section of international scholars including Sweden's Karl Erik Rosengren, the UK's Jay G. Blumler and Roger Silverstone, Australia's Tony Bennett, Israel's Elihu Katz, Canada's Martin Allor and the United States' Janice Radway, Byron Reeves and John Fisk, to name a few. This book is truly groundbreaking in its depth and scope and will speak to students of rhetoric, mass communication, cultural studies, anthropology and sociology alike.

Regarding Television E. Ann Kaplan, 1983 Talk on Television Sonia Livingstone, Peter Lunt, 2002-09-10 Not only is everyday conversation increasingly dependent on television but more and more people are appearing on television to discuss social and personal issues. Is any public good served by these programmes or are they simply trashy entertainment which fills the schedules cheaply? Talk on Television examines the value and significance of televised public debate. Analysing a wide range of programmes including Kilroy Donohue and The Oprah Winfrey Show, the authors draw on interviews with both the studio participants and with those watching at home. They ask how the media manage discussion programmes and whether the programmes really are providing new spaces for public participants. They find out how audiences interpret the programmes when they appear on the screen themselves and they unravel the conventions, debate, romance, therapy which make up the genre. They also consider TV's function as a medium of education and information, finally discussing the dangers and opportunities the genre holds for audience participation and public debate in the future.

Rhetorical Audience Studies and Reception of Rhetoric Jens E. Kjeldsen, 2017-11-10 This book examines the reception of rhetoric and the rhetoric of reception By considering salient rhetorical traits of rhetorical utterances and texts seen in context and relating this to different kinds of reception and or audience use and negotiation the authors explore the connections between rhetoric and reception In our time new media and new forms of communication make it harder to distinguish between speaker and audience The active involvement of users and audiences is more important than ever before This project is based on the premise that rhetorical research should reconsider the understanding conceptualization and examination of the rhetorical audience From mostly understanding audiences as theoretical constructions that are examined textually and speculatively the contributors give more attention to empirical explorations of actual audiences and users The book will provide readers with new knowledge on the workings of rhetoric as well as illustrative and guiding examples of new methods of rhetorical studies
