Anthropologists, Indigenous Scholars and the Research Endeavour Joy Hendry, Laara Fitznor, 2012-11-27 This collection offers the fruits of a stimulating workshop that sought to bridge the fraught relationship which sometimes continues between anthropologists and indigenous native aboriginal scholars despite areas of overlapping interest Participants from around the world share their views and opinions on subjects ranging from ideas for reconciliation the question of what might constitute a universal science indigenous heritage postcolonial museology the boundaries of the term indigeneity different senses as ways of knowing and the very issue of writing as a method of dissemination that divides and excludes readers from different backgrounds This book represents a landmark step in the process of replacing bridges with more equal patterns of intercultural cooperation and communication

Aging and Loss Jason Danely, 2015-01-02 By 2030 over 30% of the Japanese population will be 65 or older foreshadowing the demographic changes occurring elsewhere in Asia and around the world What can we learn from a study of the aging population of Japan and how can these findings inform a path forward for the elderly their families and for policy makers Based on nearly a decade of research Aging and Loss examines how the landscape of aging is felt understood and embodied by older adults themselves In detailed portraits anthropologist Jason Danely delves into the everyday lives of older Japanese adults as they construct narratives through acts of reminiscence social engagement and ritual practice and reveals the pervasive cultural aesthetic of loss and of being a burden Through first hand accounts of rituals in homes cemeteries and religious centers Danely argues that what he calls the self in suspense can lead to the emergence of creative participation in an economy of care In everyday rituals for the spirits older adults exercise agency and reinterpret concerns of social abandonment within a meaningful cultural narrative and by reimagining themselves and their place in the family through these rituals older adults in Japan challenge popular attitudes about eldercare Danely's discussion of health and long term care policy and community welfare organizations reveal a complex picture of Japan's aging society

Methods, Moments, and Ethnographic Spaces in Asia Nayantara Sheoran Appleton, Caroline Bennett, 2021-04-15 Asia is changing Socio political shifts in the world economy technological advances of monumental scales movements of people and ideas alongside ongoing post colonization projects across the region have created an emerging Asia one confident and assertive of its place in the contemporary geopolitical sphere As political and economic powers reassert Asian sovereignty in opposition to perceived Northern dominance and dramatic and rapid development in the region shift the relationship between the centre and the periphery new renderings and imaginations of hierarchies of identity and power come to the fore This changing environment leads to emerging challenges for anthropologists working in the region both those who have been working there for years and new scholars entering the field

how black authors and folklorists were active participants rather than passive observers in conversations about the politics of representing black folklore Examining literary texts folklore documents cultural performances legal discourse and political rhetoric Black Folklore and the Politics of Racial Representation demonstrates how folklore studies became a battleground across which issues of racial identity and difference were asserted and debated at the turn of the twentieth century The study is framed by two questions of historical and continuing import What role have representations of black folklore played in constructing racial identity And how have those ideas impacted the way African Americans think about and creatively engage black traditions Moody Turner renders established historical facts in a new light and context taking figures we thought we knew such as Charles Chesnutt Anna Julia Cooper and Paul Laurence Dunbar and recasting their place in African American intellectual and cultural history
