Nato Communiques And Statements 1998:

NATO and the Former Yugoslavia Joyce P. Kaufman, 2002 Focusing on NATO's continued crisis of identity Joyce P. Kaufman argues that the conflicts in Croatia Bosnia Herzegovina and Kosovo have proven to be critical to an alliance that has not been able to define its roles and missions in the post Cold War world While on the one hand NATO was enlarging by inviting former adversaries in Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union to join on the other hand it has been woefully unprepared to deal with the ethnic conflicts that erupted on its borders and that could undermine the peace and stability of Europe The author contends that the conflicts in the former Yugoslavia have potentially threatened the essence of NATO by forcing the alliance to take on the new role of peacekeeper without adequately allowing the members to examine the role the alliance wants to or should play in a largely postcommunist world Despite ongoing discussion in NATO ministerial summits the alliance has made little progress to date and public questions about the role and even the viability of NATO after the Cold War continue to grow The inability to address these issues leaves NATO facing a number of pressing questions that this book tries to answer What role can and should the alliance play in the future And why have the ongoing conflicts in the Balkans proven to be a challenge that the alliance has been unwilling or unable to resolve

NATO and Peace Support Operations, 1991-1999 Henning Frantzen, 2004-12-17 This new book addresses the key question of how NATO and three of its member states are configuring their policies and military doctrines in order to handle the new strategic environment This environment is increasingly dominated by new wars more precisely civil wars within states and peacekeeping as the strategy devised by outside actors for dealing with them The book seeks to explain how this new strategic environment has been interpreted and how the new conflicts and peacekeeping have been fitted into defence and war key concepts in the field of security studies

The EU-NATO Relationship Martin Reichard,2016-02-17 The EU

NATO relationship continues to develop at a time of significant change for both organizations Post 9 11 NATO embarked on a fundamental transformation recasting itself as an organization with global strategic reach and interest focused less on Europe than ever before At the same time the EU is also becoming a more global political actor Consequently there is growing evidence that over time the EU will take the primary place in providing military security in Europe This volume combines political and legal methods to provide a comprehensive analysis of the current and likely future relationship between the EU and NATO The work will be of interest to all those interested in the development of these two major organizations and international security more generally whether from a political or legal perspective

Democracy, Ethnic Diversity, and Security in Post-Communist Europe Anita I. Singh,2001-06-30 Inder Singh examines why international organizations including the UN OSCE and Council of Europe advocated democratic governance based on the rule of law and respect for human and minority rights as the method by which states should try to accommodate their ethnically mixed populations She discusses how realistic this advice has been given the tension between the principle of the sovereignty of states and their international obligations and the extent to which democratization had made for ethnic and political stability in post communist Europe Inder Singh demonstrates that this advocacy of democracy to handle ethnic diversity questions the perception of nationalism as a cause of war and disorder This pathbreaking study will be of appeal to academics and policy makers interested in how the management of ethnic diversity through democracy can enhance domestic and international security
