Our Coastal Seas:

Our Coastal Seas Anthea Brooks, Wayne Harrell Bell, Jack Greer, 1996 Poison Roams Our Coastal Seas Robert H. Boyle, 1970 Coastal Waters of the World Don Hinrichsen, 2013-03-19 Nearly 60% of the world's population lives and works within 100 miles of a coast and even those who don't are connected to the world's oceans through an intricate drainage of rivers and streams. Ultimately the whole of humankind is coastal. Coastal Waters of the World is a comprehensive reference source on the state of the world's coastal areas. It focuses on the tremendous pressures facing coastal areas and the management systems and strategies needed to cope with them. Don Hinrichsen explores the origins and implications of three related issues: the overwhelming threats to our coastal resources and seas from population and pollution; the destruction of critical resources through unsustainable economic activity and the inability of governments to craft and implement rational coastal management plans. Introductory chapters present a concise summary of our coastal problems including coastal habitat degradation and the fisheries crisis along with a discussion of better management options. Three case studies of successful coastal governance focus on some of the problems and bring to life potential solutions. Following that are regional profiles that provide detailed information on the main population resource and management challenges facing each of the world's thirteen major coastal waters and seas. The profiles are presented in a standard format to allow for ease of comparison between regions and accessibility of information. The book ends with a realistic and practical agenda for action that can be implemented immediately. Safeguarding these complex interlinked ecosystems is humanity's most challenging management job. Coastal Waters of the World will help raise our awareness of coastal area concerns and provide a constructive contribution to the ongoing debate over how to manage these ever-changing areas both for ourselves and for future generations. It will serve as a valuable reference tool and an up-to-date resource for policymakers, management specialists and students interested in sustainable coastal governance. The Nordic Council's International Conference on the Pollution of the Seas, 1990 Sea grant programs United States. Congress. House. Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries. Subcommittee on Oceanography, 1976 The War at Sea, 1939-1945: The defensive Stephen Wentworth Roskill, 1961 Our Common Seas Don Hinrichsen, 2016-07-22 Most of the world's population lives on or near the coasts. Every nation not completely landlocked has used the sea as its supposedly self-cleansing garbage dump. Now the effects are being felt. There is not a coast in the world which is not dangerously polluted. Sewage, oil, plastics, industrial effluents, radioactive waste have been added to uncontrolled development, all of which are busily destroying otherwise robust inshore ecosystems. Hinrichsen basing his work on United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) research and his own extensive travels has described the situation in the Mediterranean, the Gulf, the Indian Ocean, the South East Asian Seas and the Eastern Pacific. He covers both the disasters and the growing successes in dealing with them and he points the way to the sort of international deal needed to rescue a vast resource in danger of complete destruction. His book is both a call to action
