Crossing the Color Line Carina E. Ray, 2015-10-15 Interracial sex mattered to the British colonial state in West Africa In Crossing the Color Line Carina E Ray goes beyond this fact to reveal how Ghanaians shaped and defined these powerfully charged relations The interplay between African and European perspectives and practices argues Ray transformed these relationships into key sites for consolidating colonial rule and for contesting its hierarchies of power With rigorous methodology and innovative analyses Ray brings Ghana and Britain into a single analytic frame to show how intimate relations between black men and white women in the metropole became deeply entangled with those between black women and white men in the colony in ways that were profoundly consequential Based on rich archival evidence and original interviews the book moves across different registers shifting from the micropolitics of individual disciplinary cases brought against colonial officers who kept local women to transatlantic networks of family empire and anticolonial resistance In this way Ray cuts to the heart of how interracial sex became a source of colonial anxiety and nationalist agitation during the first half of the twentieth century

Abortion and the Christian Tradition Margaret D. Kamitsuka,2019-10-29 Abortion remains the most contested political issue in American life Poll results have remained surprisingly constant over the years with roughly equal numbers supporting and opposing it A common perception is that abortion is contrary to Christian teaching and values While some have challenged that perception few have attempted a comprehensive critique and constructive counterargument on Christian ethical and theological grounds Margaret Kamitsuka begins with a careful examination of the churchs biblical and historical record refuting the assumption that Christianity has always condemned abortion or that it considered personhood as beginning at the moment of conception She then offers carefully crafted ethical arguments about the pregnant womans authority to make reproductive decisions and builds a theological rationale for seeing abortion as something other than a sin
