Manchester's Military Legacy Steven Dickens, 2020-01-31 The establishment of the Roman fort of Mamucium in AD79 is the first known record of any military construction or presence in the area that is now the Castlefield district of the city. The Roman auxiliary units posted here used the fort as a garrison located at Mamucium for the purpose of protecting the Roman road from Chester Deva Victrix to York Eboracum. The site was previously occupied as a defensive hill fort by the ancient Britons or Brigantes who were native to the area. The next epoch of military activity at Manchester occurred in the Civil War and the Siege of Manchester in 1642. Manchester's declaration as a Parliamentary town had far reaching consequences in terms of its military legacy on the voting rights of Mancunians. Upon his restoration Charles II removed Manchester's two MPs from Parliament and Manchester was not to receive any political representation until the Reform Act of 1832. The Peterloo Massacre of August 1819 was the scene of a mass rally brought about by a desire to repeal the Corn Laws, introduce universal suffrage and reform other repressive legislation. The cavalry charge which resulted in the deaths of an estimated eighteen innocent protesters and the wounding of over 500 took place at St Peter's Field, now Square, in the heart of the city. Its legacy resulted in the establishment of the Manchester Guardian and the rise of radical freethinking in the city, not always welcomed by those in authority. Both World Wars have had a profound influence on the city. The establishment of the Manchester Regiment is detailed and later the Manchester Pals are recalled through the pages of the local press. Heaton Park became their base whilst General Kitchener visited the city in order to boost recruitment. Later the Luftwaffe's bombing campaign of December 1940, the Manchester Blitz, left the city with a legacy that has changed it beyond all recognition into the twenty-first century.
