Roman Art And Architecture:

The Oxford Handbook of Greek and Roman Art and Architecture Clemente Marconi, 2014-10-07 The study of Greek and Roman Art and Architecture has a long history that goes back to the second half of the 18th century and has provided an essential contribution towards the creation and the definition of the wider disciplines of Art History and Architectural History This venerable tradition and record are in part responsible for the diffused tendency to avoid general discussions addressing the larger theoretical implications methodologies and directions of research in the discipline This attitude is in sharp contrast not only with the wider field of Art History but also with disciplines that are traditionally associated with the study of Greek and Roman Art and Architecture like Classics and Classical Archaeology In recent years the field has been characterized by an ever increasing range of approaches under the influence of various disciplines such as Sociology Semiotics Gender Theory Anthropology Reception Theory and Hermeneutics In light of these recent developments this Handbook seeks to explore key aspects of Greek and Roman Art and Architecture and to assess the current state of the discipline The Handbook includes thirty essays in addition to the introduction by an international team of leading senior scholars who have played a critical role in shaping the field and by younger scholars who will express the perspectives of a newer generation After a framing introduction written by the editor which compares ancient and modern notions of art and architecture the Handbook is divided into five sections Pictures from the Inside Greek and Roman Art and Architecture in the Making Ancient Contexts Post Antique Contexts and Approaches Together the essays in the volume make for an innovative and important book one that is certain to find a wide readership

Roman Art Eve D'Ambra, 1998 In this refreshing reappraisal of the art and architecture of ancient Rome Eve D'Ambra focuses on the personal social and cultural identity of its subjects The acquisition of art whether the purchase of copies of Greek statuary the construction of a sumptuous villa or the commissioning of a portrait head played a crucial role in Roman society in which displays of wealth and culture were necessary to gain and maintain power The question of identity is key to understanding the nature of the Roman empire which seemed infinitely expandable at its peak welcomed foreigners to become Romans freed slaves to citizen status and allowed social mobility within a strictly hierarchical social order D'Ambra discusses patronage on different social levels from that of the emperor and his court to those of shopkeepers and of artisans in diverse regions of the empire and in distinct ethnic groups She compares the imagery of the state and of military victory with the humblest funerary reliefs Many provincial artworks were based on imperial models but others were created in resistance to prevailing imperial standards D'Ambra draws on a range of sculpture wall paintings decorative arts coins and architecture from Italy to the edges of the empire evoking the traditionalism and the adaptability of Roman art She also looks ahead to the art and architecture of the fourth century AD which despite the emergence of Christianity as the dominant religion continued to be influenced by Roman styles and themes Eve D'Ambra is Associate Professor in the Department of Art at Vassar College Poughkeepsie New York She has taught and published widely in the field of Roman art and society

Roman Art in the Private Sphere Elaine K. Gazda, Anne E. Haeckl, 1991 This is a stimulating book and should be compulsory reading for all students of Roman art Classical Review For all the authors attention to the ensemble a sense of the relation between the formal and the iconographic and the desire to historicize their material contribute to making this anthology unusual in its rigorous and creative attention to the way that art and architecture participate in the construction of the image of the Roman elite Art Bulletin Roman Art in the Private Sphere presents an impressive case for the social and art historical importance of the paintings mosaics and sculptures that filled the private houses of the Roman elite The six essays in this volume range from the first century B C E to the fourth century C E and from the Italian peninsula to the Eastern Empire and North African provinces The essays treat works of art that belonged to every major Roman housing type the single family atrium houses and the insula apartment blocks in Italian cities the dramatically sited villas of the Campanian coast and countryside and the palatial mansions of late antique provincial aristocrats In a complementary fashion the essays consider domestic art in relation to questions of decorum status wealth social privilege and obligation Patrons emerge as actively interested in the character of their surroundings artists appear as responsive to the desire of their patrons The evidence in private art of homosexual conduct in high society is also set forth Originality of subject matter sophisticated appreciation of stylistic and compositional nuance and philosophical perceptions of the relationship of humanity and nature are among the themes that the essays explore Together they demonstrate that Roman domestic art must be viewed on its own terms Elaine K Gazda is Professor of the History of Art and Curator of Hellenistic and Roman Antiquities at the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology University of Michigan A
