Postsocialist Cinema in Post-Mao China Chris Berry, 2004-06-01 This book argues that the fundamental shift in Chinese Cinema away from Socialism and towards Post Socialism can be located earlier than the emergence of the Fifth Generation in the mid eighties when it is usually assumed to have occurred. By close analysis of films from the 1949-1976 Maoist era in comparison with 1976-81 films representing the Cultural Revolution it demonstrates that the latter already breaks away from Socialism

Love's Philosophy Richard White, 2001-10-09 Love comes in many forms and touches all our lives and despite its changing history it remains constant in human experience. Love's Philosophy explores the basic expressions of love. In this book White looks at friendship, romance, parenthood and humanitarian love in classical and contemporary perspective. He argues that the philosophical oblivion of love has been a mistake. By examining both the historical and contemporary formations of love he proposes alternative models to guide both our thinking and our experience of loving

Personal Relationships Across Cultures Robin Goodwin, 2013-05-13 Is falling in love the same the world over? What makes a happy marriage in different cultures? How does our society influence us in the way we raise our children? Is modern life incompatible with intimacy? In this innovative new text Robin Goodwin challenges many of the established views on relationships by considering how different cultures view different relationships: love, marriage, friendship, the family, sexual relations. By discussing fundamental differences in values between cultures alongside other key influences such as social class and education he explores why these differences occur and how different political and historical events have challenged existing patterns of relationships. Finally drawing on research from all parts of the world he considers how we can use this knowledge to help different communities across the globe cope with their most pressing relational challenges. Dr Robin Goodwin is Reader in Psychology in the Department of Human Sciences at Brunel University London. He publishes widely on relationships and culture and lectures about his work across the world

Connected Worlds Ann Curthoys, Marilyn Lake, 2006-03-01 This volume brings together historians of imperialism and race, travel and modernity, Islam and India, the Pacific and the Atlantic to show how a transnational approach to history offers fresh insights into the past. Transnational history is a form of scholarship that has been revolutionising our understanding of history in the last decade. With a focus on interconnectedness across national borders of ideas, events, technologies and individual lives it moves beyond the national frames of analysis that so often blinker and restrict our understanding of the past. Many of the essays also show how expertise in Australian history can contribute to and benefit from new transnational approaches to history. Through an examination of such diverse subjects as film, modernity, immigration, politics and romance Connected Worlds weaves an historical matrix which transports the reader beyond the local into a realm which re-defines the meaning of humanity in all its complexity. In the New England Fashion Catherine E. Kelly, 2018-08-06 In the first half of the nineteenth century rural New England society underwent a radical transformation as the traditional household economy gave way to an encroaching market culture Drawing on a wide array of diaries letters and published writings by women in this society Catherine E Kelly describes their attempts to make sense of the changes in their world by elaborating values connected to rural life In her hands the narratives reveal the dramatic ways female lives were reshaped during the antebellum period and the women's own contribution to those developments Equally important she demonstrates how these writings afford a fuller understanding of the capitalist transformation of the countryside and the origins of the Northern middle class Provincial women exalted rural life for its republican simplicity while condemning that of the city for its aristocratic pretension The idyllic nature of the former was ascribed to the financial independence that the household economy had long provided those in the farming community Kelly examines how the juxtaposition of rural virtue to urban vice served as a cautionary defense against the new realities of the capitalist market society She finds that women responded to the transition to capitalism by upholding a set of values which point toward the creation of a provincial bourgeoisie

Kahn, 2001-06-15 This penetrating book re-examines the project of modernity. It seeks to oppose the abstract idealized vision of modernity with an alternative ethnographic understanding. The book defends an approach to modernity that situates it as embedded in particular and historical contexts. It examines cases of popular modernism in the United States, Britain, and colonial Malaysia, drawing out the specific cultural and religious assumptions underlying popular modernism and concluding that modernism is implicated in a diversity of forms of cultural and racial exclusion. Handbook of the Sociology of

Emotions Jan E. Stets, Jonathan H. Turner, 2007-10-10 Since the 1970s the study of emotions moved to the forefront of sociological analysis. This book brings the reader up to date on the theory and research that have proliferated in the analysis of human emotions. The first section of the book addresses the classification, the neurological underpinnings, and the effect of gender on emotions. The second reviews sociological theories of emotion. Section three covers theory and research on specific emotions: love, envy, empathy, anger, grief, etc. The final section shows how the study of emotions adds new insight into other subfields of sociology: the workplace, health, and more. Philosophy of Emotion Christine Tappolet, 2022-11-28 In this book Christine Tappolet offers readers a thorough, wide-ranging and highly accessible introduction to the philosophy of emotions. It covers recent interdisciplinary debates on the nature of emotions as well as standard theories of emotions such as feeling theories, motivational theories, and evaluative theories. The book includes discussions of the alleged irrationality of emotions and looks into the question of whether emotions could not in some cases contribute positively to theoretical and practical rationality. In addition, the role of emotions in the theory of virtues and the theory of values receives a detailed treatment. Finally, the book turns to the question of how we can regulate and even educate our emotions by engaging with music and with narrative art. The overall picture of emotions that emerges is one that does justice to the central role that emotions play in our lives, conceiving of emotions as crucial to our grasp of values. As an opinionated introduction, the book doesn't pretend to be neutral but aims to engage readers in contemporary debates. Each chapter closes with questions for further discussion and suggestions for further reading. Key Features Written for advanced undergraduates, suitable as the main text in a philosophy of emotion course or as a complement to a set of primary readings. Includes useful features for student readers like introductions, study questions, and suggestions for further reading in each chapter. Considers whether emotions interfere with our reasoning or whether they can in some cases help us to be more rational. Argues against basic emotion theory and social constructionism that emotions are both shaped by biological forces and social forces. Discusses a variety of subjectivist and objectivist approaches which share the assumption that emotions and values are closely connected
