Rome A New Planning Strategy:

Rome Franco Archibugi, 2005 Rome A New Planning Strategy looks at the problems of a city over the last one hundred years and suggests a totally new planning strategy. The book examines the stages that have marked the increase of population and change in land use and analyses the masterplans with which there has been an attempt to control these evolving conditions. Using Rome as a case study, the book deals with the socio-economic effect of an absence of planning strategy during the recent growth of the city. The author presents the characters and features of a new masterplan based on his many years of experience in theoretical and practical planning. Rome Franco Archibugi, Seymour J. Mandelbaum, 2002

The Ecological City and the City Effect Franco Archibugi, 2019-05-23 First published in 1997, this volume responds to the increasingly urgent issue of degradation of the urban environment. It moves beyond the indirect environmentalism up until the 1990s, examining urban degradation and how urban planning can be directly applied to the concept of an ecological city. Particular focus is given to the Italian government's Urban Environment Programme, a 10-year plan for the environment. Archibugi's study forms part of an international monograph publishing series covering new research into the green issues such as government corporate and public responses to environmental hazards, the economics of green policies and the effectiveness of environmental protection programmes.

Planning Theory Franco Archibugi, 2008-01-29 Planning Theory expresses a sound unease about the direction taken by the current analysis and criticism of planning experiences both in the field of economics and in urban and regional planning. Instead of seriously revising the technical and scientific shortcomings, marking the various problems encountered in the planning experience in both fields, academic debates and reflection have instead led to a kind of political interpretation. On the basis of the hopelessness of improving the governance of managerial and political planning initiatives, planning theory has been reduced to a generic sociological debate on planning itself, a debate that freezes planning as a permanently declining engagement. To oppose this, the present book aims to identify the essential guidelines of a re-launch of planning processes and techniques, configuring a kind of neo-discipline called planology by the author, which builds upon a multi-disciplinary integration never seen and experimented with until now of economic, environmental and sociological approaches, a crucial element missing in previous unsuccessful planning attempts.

Italy's Margins David Forgacs, 2014-03-27 Italy's Margins explores how certain places and social groups in Italy have been defined as marginal or peripheral since unification. This marginalization involves not only concrete policies but also ways of perceiving people and places as outside society's centre. The author looks closely at how photography and writing have supported political and social exclusion and conversely how they have been enlisted to challenge it. Five cases are examined: the peripheries of Italy's major cities after unification, its East African colonies in the 1930s, the less developed areas of its south in the 1950s, its psychiatric hospitals before the reforms of the late 1970s, and its nomad camps after 2000. Each chapter takes its lead from a symptomatic photograph and is followed by other pictures and extracts from written texts. These allow the reader to examine how social marginalization is discursively performed by cultural products

Strategy and Defence Planning Colin S. Gray, 2014-06-26 Strategy and Defence Planning Meeting the Challenge of Uncertainty explores and examines why and how security communities prepare purposefully for their future defence The author explains that defence planning is the product of interplay among political process historical experience and the logic of strategy The theory of strategy best reveals both the nature and the working of defence planning Political ends strategic ways and military means all fed by reigning if not always recognized assumptions organize the subject well with a template that can serve any time place and circumstance The book is designed to help understanding of what can appear to be a forbiddingly complex as well as technical subject A good part of the problem for officials charged with defence planning duties is expressed in the second part of the book s title The real difficulty which rarely is admitted by those tasked with defence planning duty is that defence planning can only be guesswork But because defence preparation is always expensive not untypically is politically unpopular yet obviously can be supremely important claims to knowledge about the truly unknowable persist In truth we cannot do defence planning competently because our ignorance of the future precludes understanding of what our society will be shown by future events to need The challenge faced by the author was to identify ways in which our problems with the inability to know the future in any detail in advance the laws of nature in other words may best be met and mitigated Professor Gray argues that our understanding of human nature of politics and of strategic history does allow us to make prudent choices in defence planning that hopefully will prove good enough

A Morphological Interpretation of a Northern Chinese Traditional Village Kun Li, 2024-04-23 This book challenges the definition of a new approach for integrating protection and enhancing the Chinese heritage category of Traditional Villages. By applying a specific case study in the Hancheng context Shaanxi Province which lacks sound studies the book formulates new theoretical prerequisites for future researches an in depth knowledge path and sound methodological principles. By working in a multiple scales approach the object of preservation and enhancement is first of all redefined in its ontology as a unity formed by the courtyard type the morphology of the village and the related landscape structures. All these three levels of study have been deeply investigated put into the relationship and resulting in a new methodology which overcomes the inadequacy and ineffectiveness of the notion of setting deriving from conservation Charters to embrace the structural notion of context and a knowledge approach to rural settlements form. The innovative and original features of this book are both in the reading villages in their landscape dimension which in turn is studied as a context made of several interrelated structures. Another original feature of the book is the integration of Italian historic structural and morphological methodologies with specific Chinese cultural aspects. The author's work dug deeply and interdisciplinary in all those dimensions to account for the complex issues that are related and embodied in both the physical and intangible meaning of human settlements opening a novel scientific methodology for Chinese studies as a sound base to define three key integrated project actions what why how to preserve enhance develop.

A New Force at a New Frontier Kevin Madders, 2006-11-02 This book will provide a comprehensive source of information for space specialists and others having a close interest in European space affairs. Written by an acknowledged expert and former space agency official the work opens up a vital component of Europe's technostucture and the world's space programs. Its mass of information will serve the insider as a handy reference while its lively analysis will assist public judgment of European space efforts. The book first explores the Space Age's origins and Europe's response up to the 1970s. It then devotes its bulk to the present scene by investigating ESA Eutelsat Arianespace Eumetsat ASTRA national agencies and other bodies. How this scene works what has been achieved how space technology is made and used and how policy is formed are main concerns but of interest too are various crises including recently Europe's man in space program. The book identifies challenges for the space community business and the EU and how they may be met.

The School of Mathematics at Rome's University Campus Simona Salvo, 2022-09-28 The School of Mathematics is a masterpiece of the early 1930s by Gio Ponti who is today regarded as a master of Italian Modernism. Although World War II bombings shattered the coloured stained glass window that once adorned the balanced and harmonious white travertine facade the building remains a striking and significant piece of architecture Although it underwent a series of transformations over the years before its historical and artistic relevance was recognised it can still be appreciated and admired for its magnificent expressivity Its uniqueness derives from its complexity such as is often found in Italian monuments of all ages a rare synthesis of urban design architecture art industrial design historical archives and perhaps the first of its kind scientific production in the field of mathematics This illustrated report is a synopsis of the extensive technical research documents produced by the research team for each step of the work It is also a premise for the conservation management plan proposed at the end of the full report As in any area of science knowledge is at the basis of future action we need to understand today how to take care of the historical buildings of our campus tomorrow buildings recognised worldwide as architectural and historical monuments
