Scenographic Imagination Darwin Reid Payne,1993 In this enlarged and thoroughly revised third edition of his widely used text Darwin Reid Payne explores the principles and philosophies that shape the visual elements of theatre Payne sets out to discover who scenographers are and to define their responsibilities He sees scenographers as not merely craftspersons but artists with a special vision that spans all the arts Such artists are in a position to extend and amplify underlying meanings of the production The proper goal of beginning scenographers according to Payne is one day to be able to approach the job as artists in full command of their craft Payne seeks to instill in beginning scenographers a basic core of knowledge an understanding of theatre history and the development of drama a knowledge of art history and an understanding of periods and styles of architecture painting sculpture furnishings and costume and a familiarity with the principles techniques and materials of pictorial and three dimensional design This new edition contains 248 illustrations 38 more than the second edition Payne s goal certainly is to teach students what to do and how to do it equally important however is Payne s view that scenographers must know why To

Payne Scenography is an art whose scope is nothing less than the whole world outside the theatre Scenographers must read not only in their own field but in others as well Payne has incorporated into his text many suggestions for outside readings quoting passages and even entire chapters from important works Stressing research Payne argues that without knowledge of the literature of their own and related arts scenographers cannot grow And that is the emphasis of this book to present aspiring scenographers with an approach and a set of concepts that will enable them to grow Toward that end Payne establishes five priorities the first of which is to develop in students what he calls time vision or the ability to see the historical past as a living place with living inhabitants The second priority is to bring about an awareness that allows students to see beneath the surface of objects and events Third students must be helped to recognize and appreciate the difference between the concept of space as it exists outside the theatre and the concept of space as it is used within the theatre The fourth priority is to ingrain in students an understanding of the importance of imagery to the scenographer and the final priority is to teach those technical skills necessary to carry out the concepts of the scenographer

Anecdotal Shakespeare Paul Menzer, 2015-10-22 Shakespeare's four hundred year performance history is full of anecdotes ribald trivial frequently funny sometimes disturbing and always but loosely allegiant to fact Such anecdotes are nevertheless a vital index to the ways that Shakespeare's plays have generated meaning across varied times and in varied places Furthermore particular plays have produced particular anecdotes stories of a real skull in Hamlet superstitions about the name Macbeth toga troubles in Julius Caesar and therefore express something embedded in the plays they attend Anecdotes constitute then not just a vital component of a play's performance history but a form of vernacular criticism by the personnel most intimately involved in their production actors These anecdotes are therefore every bit as responsive to and expressive of a play's meanings across time as the equally rich history of Shakespearean criticism or indeed the very performances these anecdotes treat Anecdotal Shakespeare provides a history of post Renaissance Shakespeare and performance one not based in fact but no less full of truth

The Prince's Mistress, Perdita Hester Davenport, 2011-10-21 Mary Robinson nicknamed Perdita by the Prince of Wales after her role on the London stage was a woman in whom showmanship and reckless behaviour contrasted with romantic sensibility and radical thinking Born in Bristol in 1758 she moved to London with her family at a young age and was trained by Garrick for the theatre After a royal command performance as Perdita in The Winter's Tale she was hotly pursued by George the 17 year old Prince of Wales and she became his first mistress He gave her GBP 20 000 a house in Berkeley Square and another in Old Windsor the popular press followed the affair with glee and gusto But when he left her she blackmailed him for the return of his letters A string of other high profile lovers followed including Lord Malden Charles James Fox and most notably Lt Col Tarlton However a miscarriage left Mary semi paralysed and when her last lover deserted her to marry someone else she wrote two novels in revenge Her growing literary reputation brought in many friends including Coleridge but her death saw the bailiffs trying to evict her from her cottage This lively account of one of the most extraordinary women of her age is set against the social literary political and military background of the times
