Love in the Time of Self-Publishing Christine M. Larson, 2025-09-16 Lessons in creative labor solidarity and inclusion under precarious economic conditions As writers musicians online content creators and other independent workers fight for better labor terms romance authors offer a powerful example and a cautionary tale about self organization and mutual aid in the digital economy In Love in the Time of Self Publishing Christine Larson traces the forty year history of Romancelandia a sprawling network of romance authors readers editors and others who formed a unique community based on openness and collective support Empowered by solidarity American romance writers once disparaged literary outcasts became digital publishing s most innovative and successful authors Meanwhile a new surge of social media activism called attention to Romancelandia s historic exclusion of romance authors of color and LGBTQ writers forcing a long overdue cultural reckoning Drawing on the largest known survey of any literary genre as well as interviews and archival research Larson shows how romance writers became the only authors in America to make money from the rise of ebooks increasing their median income by 73 percent while other authors plunged by 40 percent The success of romance writers Larson argues demonstrates the power of alternative forms of organizing influenced by gendered working patterns It also shows how networks of relationships can amplify or mute certain voices Romancelandia s experience Larson says offers crucial lessons about solidarity for creators and other isolated workers in an increasingly risky employment world Romancelandia s rise and near meltdown shows that gaining fair treatment from platforms depends on creator solidarity but creator solidarity in turn depends on fair treatment of all members

Tears of Love Anna Hudson, 1986 A Secret Stirring Terri Herrington, 1986 Days of Desire Saranne Dawson, 1986 Take-charge Lady Alison Tyler, 1986

Love Lines Rosemary Guiley, 1983 Desperate Yearning Dallas Hamlin, 1984 Writing Romance Fiction for Love and Money Helene Schellenberg Barnhart, 1987 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1997 Bearing Witness Wendy Griswold, 2018-06-05 Greed frustrated love traffic jams infertility politics polygamy These together with depictions of traditional village life and the impact of colonialism made familiar to Western readers through Chinua Achebe's writing are the stuff of Nigerian fiction. Bearing Witness examines this varied content and the determined people who against all odds write, publish, sell, and read novels in Africa's most populous nation. Drawing on interviews with Nigeria's writers, publishers, booksellers, and readers, surveys, and a careful reading of close to 500 Nigerian novels from lightweight romances to literary masterpieces, Wendy Griswold explores how global cultural flows and local conflicts meet in the production and reception of fiction. She argues that Nigerian readers and writers form a reading class that unabashedly believes in progress, rationality, and the slow but inevitable rise of a reading culture. But they do so within a society that does not support their assumptions and does not trust literature, making them modernists in a country that is simultaneously premodern and postmodern. Without privacy, reliable electricity, political freedom, or even social toleration of bookworms, these Nigerians write and read political satires, formula romances, war stories, complex gender fiction, blood and sex crime capers, nostalgic portraits of village life, and profound explorations of how decent people get by amid urban chaos. Bearing Witness is an inventive and moving work of cultural sociology that may be the most comprehensive sociological analysis of a literary system ever written. Interior

Designs Carla Neggers, 1985 Theorizing Feminism Anne C. Herrmann, Abigail J. Stewart, 2018-05-04 In the past three decades, feminist scholars have produced an extraordinary rich body of theoretical writing in humanities and social science disciplines. This revised and updated second edition of Theorizing Feminism: Parallel Trends in the Humanities and Social Sciences is a genuinely interdisciplinary anthology of significant contributions to feminist theory. This timely reader is creatively edited and contains insightful introductory material. It illuminates the historical development of feminist theory as well as the current state of the field. Emphasizing common themes and interests in the humanities and social sciences, the editors have chosen topics that remain relevant to current debates, reflect the interests of a diverse community of thinkers, and have been central to feminist theory in many disciplines. The contributors include leading figures from the fields of psychology, literary criticism, sociology, philosophy, anthropology, art history, law, and economics. This is the ideal text for any advanced course on interdisciplinary feminist theory, one that fills a long-standing gap in feminist pedagogy. Words of Love Eileen Fallon, 1984 Books in Print, 1987
