Loving Through Bars Cynthia Martone, 2005 Provides a close up examination of the instability and uncertainty that plague the children of prisoners in a collection of personal anecdotal accounts that chronicle their attempts to cope with the unique challenges in their lives The Relationship Rights of Children James G. Dwyer, 2006-04-17 This book presents a sustained theoretical analysis of what rights children should possess in connection with state decision making about their personal relationships which the state does in numerous aspects of family law including paternity adoption custody and visitation termination of parental rights and grandparent visitation It examines the nature and normative foundation of adults rights in connection with relationships among themselves and then assesses the extent to which the moral principles underlying adults rights apply also to children It concludes that the law should ascribe to children rights equivalent though not identical to those which adults enjoy and this would require substantial changes in the way the legal system treats children including a reformation of the rules for establishing legal parent child relationships at birth and of the rules for deciding whether to end a parent child relationship Grief, Loss, and Treatment for Death Row Families Sandra Joy, 2013-12-05 The families of death row inmates are rarely considered in public discourse regarding the death penalty They have largely been forgotten and their pain has not been acknowledged by the rest of society These families experience a unique grief process as they are confronted with the loss of their loved one to death row and brace themselves for the possibility of an execution Death row families are disenfranchised from their grief by the surrounding community and their mental health needs exacerbated as they struggle in isolation with the ambiguous loss that comes with the fear that the state will kill their loved one Grief Loss and Treatment for Death Row Families describes the grief that families experience from the time of their loved one's arrest through his or her execution In each chapter Sandra Joy guides the reader through the grief process experienced by the families offering clinical interventions that can be used by mental health professionals who are given the opportunity to work with these families at various stages of their grief The author conducted over seventy qualitative interviews with family members from Delaware who either currently have a loved one on death row or have survived the execution of their loved one Delaware was chosen because though it has a relatively small death row it is ranked third in the nation with its rate of per capita executions This book provides an in depth awareness of the grieving process of death row families as well as ways that professionals can intervene to assist them in healing With increased awareness and effective clinical treatment we can ensure that the families of death row inmates are forgotten no more Critical Criminology in Canada Aaron Doyle, 2011-01-01 This book presents the work of a new generation of critical criminologists who explore the geographical institutional and political contexts of the discipline in Canada Breaking away from mainstream criminology and law and order discourses the authors offer a spectrum of theoretical approaches to criminal justice from governmentality to feminist criminology from critical realism to anarchism and they propose novel approaches to topics
