Zo Irving Journal of Social Policy This volume represents a valuable contribution to debates on welfare states public policy poverty and social exclusion It is an empirically rich and analytically robust comparative collection highlighting the variations between and contradictions of in work poverty across Europe

Patricia Kennett University of Bristol UK For a long time in work poverty was not associated with European welfare states Recently the topic has gained relevance as welfare state retrenchment and international competition in globalized economies has put increasing pressures on individuals and families This book provides explanations as to why in work poverty is high in certain countries and low in others Much of the present concern about the working poor has to do with recent changes in labour market policies in Europe However this book is not primarily about low pay Instead it questions whether gainful employment is sufficient to earn a living both for oneself and for one's family members There are however great differences between European countries This book argues that the incidence and structure of the working poor cannot be understood without a thorough understanding of each country's institutional context This includes the system of wage setting the level of decommmodification provided by the social security system and the structure of families and households Combining cross country studies with in depth analyses from a national perspective the book reveals that in work poverty in Europe is a diverse multi faceted phenomenon occurring in equally diverse institutional economic and socio demographic settings With its rich detail and conclusions this genuinely comparative study will be of

The Economics of Rising Inequalities Daniel Cohen,Thomas Piketty,Gilles Saint-Paul,2002-10-24 This book is an in depth discussion of rising inequalities in the western world It explores the extent to which rising inequalities are the mechanical consequence of changes in economic fundamentals such as changes in technological or demographic parameters and to what extent they are the contingent consequences of country specific and time specific changes in institutions Both the fundamentalist view and the institutionalist view have some relevance For instance the decline of traditional manufacturing employment since the 1970s has been associated in every developed country with a rise of labor market inequality the inequality of labor earnings within the working age population has gone up in all countries which lends support to the fundamentalist view But on the other hand everybody agrees that institutional differences minimum wage collective bargaining tax and transfer policy etc between Continental European countries and Anglo Saxon countries explain why disposable income inequality trajectories have been so different in those two groups of countries during the 1980s 90s which lends support to the institutionalist view The chapters in this volume show the strength of both views Through empirical evidence and new theoretical insights the contributors argue that institutions always play a crucial role in shaping inequalities and sometimes preventing them but that inequalities across age sex and skills often recur From Sweden to Spain and Portugal from Italy to Japan and the USA the volume explores the diversity of the interplay between market forces and institutions
