Nation Building And Common Values In Russia:

Nation-Building and Common Values in Russia Pål Kolstø, Helge Blakkisrud, 2005-11 Vladimir Putin has explicitly based his nation building initiatives on the assumption that there exists a vast pool of common values in Russia that cut across ethnic and regional divides Nation Building and Common Values in Russia explores whether Putin is correct in his assumption and to what degree a commonality of values among the citizens of a country is a crucial element in the establishment of a common identity among them The study raises two basic questions Which values are actually common among various groups in Russia's population And which nation building strategies are the Russian authorities actually pursuing centrally and locally Sociological and political approaches to the study of nation building and national cohesion in Russia are employed to answer these questions and the findings contribute to a better understanding of nation building processes in post Communist Russia in general and of Putin's strategies in particular

State against Civil Society Cameron Ross, 2017-10-02 Over the period December 2011 July 2013 a tidal wave of mass protests swept through the Russian capital and engulfed scores of cities and regions These demonstrations came as a great shock to the Russian political establishment After decades of passive acceptance of the status quo it appeared that civil society was at last awakening The protests came in the wake of the Arab

Spring revolts which toppled authoritarian dictators in Tunisia Egypt and Libya However by the end of 2013 the number of mass protests in Russia and their size had declined precipitously President Putin on returning to office in 2012 had quickly regained the upper hand over the protestors This book examines the reasons for the rise and fall of the mass protests in the Russian Federation Internationally renowned experts in the field of Russian politics from Russia and the UK provide important new insights into the nature of the mass opposition movement the non systemic opposition its strengths and its weaknesses A key novel aspect of the study is its focus on the national and regional dimensions of the protest movement and its class and ethnic dimensions This book was published as a special issue of Europe Asia Studies Narrating the Soviet Era in Russian School History Textbooks Olga Konkka, 2025-09-03 This study focuses on how Russian history textbooks published between 1992 and 2021 dealt with the topic of the Soviet period 1917 1991 Representations of this part of Russia's past in school manuals have provoked vivid debates and bolstered government intervention in the field while a gradual shift towards a less critical narrative of the USSR in more recent textbooks is often presented as directed by Vladimir Putin This study combines research into these texts and inquiry into those who write publish approve or criticize them Bringing together these perspectives provides a more complex view of school textbooks as final products of both top down and bottom up processes This volume is aimed at postgraduates researchers and academics specializing in Soviet history contemporary Russian politics and society and history education and textbooks

Informal Nationalism After Communism Abel Polese, Oleksandra Seliverstova, Emilia Pawlusz, Jeremy Morris, 2018-03-20 Since the collapse of the Soviet Union nation building and identity construction in the post socialist region have been the subject of extensive academic research The majority of these studies have taken a top down approach focusing on the variety of ways in which governments have sought to define the nascent nation states and in the process have often oversimplified the complex and overlapping processes at play across the region Drawing on research on the Balkans Central Asia the Caucasus and Eastern Europe this book focuses instead on the role of non traditional non politicised and non elite actors in the construction of identity Across topics as diverse as school textbooks turbofolk and home decoration contributors each an academic with extensive on the ground experience identify and analyse the ways that individuals living across the post socialist region redefine identity on a daily basis often by manipulating and adapting state policy In the process Nation Building in the Post Socialist Region demonstrates the necessity of holistic trans national and inter disciplinary approaches to national identity construction rather than studies limited to a single state territory This is important reading for all scholars and policymakers working on the post socialist region

Pedagogies of Culture Dilyara Suleymanova, 2020-02-14 Through an ethnographic study of schooling in the Republic of Tatarstan this book explores how competing notions of nationhood and belonging are constructed articulated and negotiated within educational spaces Amidst major political and ideological moves toward centralization in Russia under the Putin presidency this small provincial town in Tatarstan provides a unique case of local attempts to promote and preserve minority languages and cultures through education and schooling Ultimately the study reveals that while schooling can be an effective instrument of the state to transform individuals as well as society as a whole school also encompasses various spaces where the agency of local actors unfolds and official messages are contested Looking at what happens inside schools and beyond in classrooms hallways and playgrounds to private households or local Islamic schools Dilyara Suleymanova here offers a detailed ethnographic account of the way centrally devised educational policies are being received negotiated and contested on the ground

Constructing Grievance Elise Giuliano, 2011-03-15 Demands for national independence among ethnic minorities around the world suggest the power of nationalism Contemporary nationalist movements can quickly attract fervent followings but they can just as rapidly lose support In Constructing Grievance Elise Giuliano asks why people with ethnic identities throw their support behind nationalism in some cases but remain quiescent in others Popular support for nationalism Giuliano contends is often fleeting It develops as part of the process of political mobilization a process that itself transforms the meaning of ethnic identity She compares sixteen ethnic republics of the Russian Federation where nationalist mobilization varied widely during the early 1990s despite a common Soviet inheritance Drawing on field research in the republic of Tatarstan socioeconomic statistical data and a comparative discourse analysis of local newspapers Giuliano argues that people respond to nationalist leaders after developing a group grievance Ethnic grievances however are not simply present or absent among a given population based on societal conditions Instead they develop out of the interaction between people's lived experiences and the specific messages that nationalist entrepreneurs put forward concerning ethnic group disadvantage In Russia Giuliano shows ethnic grievances developed rapidly in certain republics in the late Soviet era when messages articulated by nationalist leaders about ethnic inequality in local labor markets resonated with people's experience of growing job insecurity in a contracting economy In other republics however where nationalist leaders focused on articulating other issues such as cultural and language problems facing the ethnic group group grievances failed to develop and popular support for nationalism stalled People with ethnic identities Giuliano concludes do not form political interest groups primed to support ethnic politicians and movements for national secession

Mitchell, Monica Duffy Toft, 2018-07-04 While migration and population settlement have always been an important feature of political life throughout the world the dramatic changes in the pace direction and complexity of contemporary migration flows are undoubtedly unique Despite the economic benefits often associated with global regional and internal migration the arrival of large numbers of migrants can exacerbate tensions and give rise to violent clashes between local populations and recent arrivals This volume takes stock of these trends by canvassing the globe to generate new conceptual empirical and theoretical contributions The analyses ultimately reveal the critical role of the state as both an actor and arena in the migration conflict nexus
