topics issues and arguments on the role and nature of intellectualism in Canada Duty to Dissent Geoff Keelan, 2019-11-01 During the First World War Henri Bourassa fierce Canadian nationalist politician and journalist from Quebec took centre stage in the national debates on Canada's participation in the war its imperial ties to Britain and Canada's place in the world In Duty to Dissent Geoff Keelan draws upon Bourassa's voluminous editorials in Le Devoir the newspaper he founded in 1910 to trace Bourassa's evolving perspective on the war's meaning and consequences What emerges is not a simplistic sketch of a local journalist engaged in national debates as most English Canadians know him but a fully rendered portrait of a Canadian looking out at the world By situating Bourassa within a larger panorama that connects him to prominent war resisters from around the globe Keelan offers fresh insight into one of Canada's most influential historical figures reshaping our understanding of why Quebec's position on the Great War differed so radically from the rest of Canada Les idées en mouvement Michel Ducharme, Damien-Claude Bélanger, Sophie Coupal, 2004 Nation, Ideas, Identities Ramsay Cook, 2000 These fifteen essays all inspired by the work of Ramsay Cook focus on cultural and intellectual history the impact of race indigenous peoples history and women's history Topics include radio in Canada the Native vote in Saskatchewan the writings of Harold Innis Canadian missionaries in Korea and the role of women in the textile industry and their attitudes toward unions The book provides a rich cross section of the work of contemporary historians in Canada Canadian Multiculturalism and the Far Right Bàrbara Molas, 2022-08-22 Canadian Multiculturalism and the Far Right examines a neglected aspect of the history of 20th century Canadian multiculturalism and the far right to illuminate the ideological foundations of the concept of third force Focusing on the particular thought of ultra conservative Ukrainian Canadian Walter J Bossy during his time in Montreal 1931-1970s this book demonstrates that the idea that Canada was composed of three equally important groups emerged from a context defined by reactionary ideas on ethnic diversity and integration Two broad questions shape this research first what the meaning originally attached to the idea of a third force was and what the intentions behind the conceptualization of a trichotomic Canada were and second whether Bossy's understanding of the third force precedes or is related in any way to postwar debates on liberal multiculturalism at the core of which was the existence of a third force This book will be of interest to students and researchers of multiculturalism radical right ideology and the far right and Canadian history and politics Contemporary Quebec Michael D. Behiels, Matthew Hayday, 2011-11-30 In the last seventy years Quebec has changed from a society dominated by the social edicts of the Catholic Church and the economic interests of anglophone business leaders to a more secular culture that frequently elects separatist political parties and has developed the most comprehensive welfare state in North America In Contemporary Quebec leading scholars raise provocative questions about the ways in which Quebec has been transformed since the Second World War and offer competing interpretations of the reasons for the province's quiet and radical revolutions Clio's Lives Doug Munro, John G. Reid, 2017-10-09 Including contributions from leading scholars in the field from both Australia and North America this collection explores diverse approaches to writing the lives of historians and ways of assessing the importance of doing so Beginning with the writing of autobiographies by historians the volume then turns to biographical studies both of historians whose writings were in some sense nation defining and those who may be regarded as having had a major influence on defining the discipline of history The final section explores elements of collective biography linking these to the formation of historical networks A concluding essay by Barbara Caine offers a critical appraisal of the study of historians biographies and autobiographies to date and maps out likely new directions for future work Clio's Lives is a very good scholarly collection that advances the study of autobiography and biography within the writing of history itself taking theoretical questions in significant new directions The contributors are well known and highly respected in the history profession and write with an insight and intellectual energy that will ensure the book has considerable impact They examine cutting edge issues about the writing of history at the personal level through autobiography and biography in diverse and innovative ways Together the writers have provided reflective chapters that will be widely read for their impressive theoretical advances as well as being inspirational for new entrants to the disciplinary area Patricia Grimshaw University of Melbourne Clio's Lives brings together a most interesting and varied cast of contributors Its chapters contain sophisticated and well penned ruminations on the uses of biography and autobiography among historians These are clearly connected with the general themes of the volume This delightfully mixed bag makes very good reading and as well will serve as a substantial contribution to the study of the biography and autobiography Eric Richards Flinders University

Education and Its Discontents Mark Moss, 2012 Education and Its Discontents Teaching the Humanities and the Importance of a Liberal Education in the Age of Mass Information by Mark Moss is an exploration of how the traditional educational environment particularly in the post secondary world is changing as a consequence of the influx of new technology. Students come to the classroom or lecture hall expecting to have their habits and tastes gleaned from the online world replicated in an Educational environment. Faculty who do not adapt face enormous obstacles and faculty that do adapt run the risk of eroding the integrity of what they have been trained to teach. Students now have access to myriad of technologies that instead of supplementing the educational process have actually taken it over. Issues that run from plagiarism to the erosion of the humanities are now rampant concerns in the post secondary world. Behavior issues, YouTube videos, cell phones and the incessant clicking of the computer keys are just a few of the technologies altering the educational landscape. Moss discusses that it is now not only how we learn but what we continue to teach and how that enormously important legacy is protected. Education and Its Discontents: Teaching the Humanities and the Importance of a Liberal Education in the Age of Mass Information by Mark Moss argues that education has changed and the supremacy of the book and the lecture is now open for debate. What has been gained over the last five hundred years is now susceptible to the vagaries of technology which compel us to question their continuing relevance.

Imprisoning Our Sisters Stephanie Hayman, 2006-07-11 The federal Prison for Women in Kingston an isolated unsafe penitentiary characterized as unfit for bears much less women finally closed in 2000. Stephanie Hayman charts the development of the five new prisons that replaced it including an Aboriginal healing lodge placing her study within the context of Canadian colonial and political history.

British Atlantic, American Frontier Stephen John Hornsby, 2005 A pioneering work in Atlantic studies that emphasizes a transnational approach to the past.

Working Lives Craig Heron, 2018-11-23 Craig Heron is one of Canada's leading labour historians. Drawing together fifteen of Heron's new and previously published essays on working class life in Canada Working Lives covers a wide range of issues including politics, culture, gender, wage earning and union organization. A timely contribution to the evolving field of labour studies in Canada, this cohesive collection of essays analyzes the daily experiences of people working across Canada over more than two hundred years. Honest in its depictions of the historical complexities of daily life, Working Lives raises issues in the writing of Canadian working class history, especially working class realism and how it is eventually inscribed into Canada's public history. Thoughtfully reflecting on the ways in which workers interact with the past, Heron discusses the important role historians and museums play in remembering the adversity and milestones experienced by Canada's working class.

The Workers' Festival Craig Heron, Steven Penfold, 2005-01-01 The Workers Festival ranges widely into many key themes of labour history: union politics and rivalries, radical movements, religion, race and gender and consumerism, leisure as well as cultural history, public celebration, urban procession, urban space and communication and popular culture.

An Introduction to Government and Politics M. O. Dickerson, Thomas Flanagan, 2002

The Secular Northwest Tina Block, 2016-07-22 The image of a rough frontier where working men were tempted away from church on Sundays by more profane concerns was perpetuated by postwar church leaders who decried

the decline of religious involvement In this pioneering book Tina Block debunks the myth of a godless frontier revealing a Pacific Northwest that consciously rejected the trappings of organized religion but not necessarily spirituality and not necessarily God Secularism was not only the domain of the working man women families and middle class communities all helped to shape the region s secular identity But rejection of religion led to family gender and class tensions Drawing on oral histories census data newspapers and archival sources Block explores the dynamics of Northwest secularity grounded in the cultural permeability of the Canada United States border the independent spirit of those who called the region home and their openness to secular ways of experiencing the world
