National Capacity Abatement In Tanzania:

Partnership for Capacity Building in Africa S. M. Wangwe, 2002 The research and policy dialogue of Tanzania's National Capacity Assessment Team a World Bank initiated body forms the basis of this analysis The assessment team's remit was to identify strategic capacity needs when capacity is understood as the human and institutional resources necessary for development The study identifies that capacity needs are interlinked and require an integrated approach strengthening government agencies is impossible in the long term without improvement in professional training private sector growth requires access to business information communication and regulatory and judicial institutions Accordingly the analysis provides an overview and formulates strategies for public and private sector institutions and infrastructures civil society and education Particular regard is given to finance and economic management of the public sector the civil service the role of donors and the need for corrective action in local and regional administration and across the education system

Private Health Sector Assessment in Tanzania James White, Barbara O'Hanlon, Grace Chee, Emmanuel Malangalila, Adeline Kimambo, Jorge Coarasa, Sean Callahan, Ilana Ron Levey, Kim McKeon, 2013-10-29 The Tanzania Private Health Sector Assessment provides information on the size location and characteristics of non state health service providers in Tanzania It also identifies challenges and opportunities for the Government of Tanzania and International Community to leverage the potential of these providers to achieve

United Republic of Tanzania - Evaluation for action Mtui-Malamsha, N., Fasina, F., Aguanno, R., 2022-05-06 In response to a request from Members FAO developed the surveillance evaluation tool SET in 2017 to assess animal disease surveillance systems and provide country specific recommendations for improvement SET has been largely used in Africa under funding by the United States Agency for International Development USAID to guide capacity building activities related to animal disease surveillance Following its successful implementation in project countries the tool was made available to other countries and region under specific funding A re evaluation mission to the United Republic of Tanzania was conducted in November 2020 in close partnership with the country's veterinary services This was the first SET re evaluation done and the country was the first to pilot the tool in 2017 Findings from the missions and recommendations were compiled in a report that can be used by governments and partners to identify priority areas to improve animal disease surveillance in the United Republic of Tanzania

Climate Change and Coastal Resources in Tanzania Pius Zebhe Yanda, Ian Bryceson, Haji Mwevura, Claude Gasper Mung'ong'o, 2019-03-06 This volume synthesizes research from a five year program supported by the Norwegian Agency for Development to assess how coastal communities in Tanzania can adapt to climate change impacts such as sea level rise and better assert their rights to implement decisions regarding coastal resource management in the context of global climate change Throughout ten chapters the book deploys a holistic approach to adopt a conceptual model of socio ecological systems and characterize human nature interactions in an integrative way to understand anthropogenic pressures on ecosystems to guide conservation and management The book will be of interest to researchers students studying environmental management and climate change planners and policy makers The book begins by describing the biophysical and socio economic characteristics of the Tanzanian coastal environment then discusses the impacts of climate change on coastal resource governance community vulnerability and livelihood security Then intervention strategies are offered as a means for local communities to not only adapt to climate change impacts but also to engage in decision making processes to assess vulnerabilities and address challenges and limitations through educated measures The final chapters discuss the vulnerability and adaptation of coastal communities to climate change impacts to assess how livelihoods are constructed in response to impacts and summarize the key findings to determine the best adaptation strategies to improve adaptive capacity and reduce socio economic vulnerability

United Republic of Tanzania International Monetary Fund. African Dept.,2024-06-25 Context and outlook Economic growth is recovering from the impact of the unfavorable global economic environment and domestic factors Growth is expected to continue strengthening supported by improvements in the business environment and subsiding global commodity prices Inflation is projected to remain within the central bank s target range Growth friendly fiscal consolidation is underway anchored by the ECF arrangement and the current account deficit is narrowing reflecting fiscal consolidation easing commodity prices and tight external financing conditions The medium term outlook is positive contingent on implementation of the authorities reform agenda anchored by the ECF arrangement Climate change poses a major threat as Tanzania is highly vulnerable but not well prepared to address the effects of climate change

Tanzanian Economic Trends ,1994 Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks Alexander E. Farrell,Jill Professor Jäger,2010-09-30 As environmental challenges grow larger in scale and implications it is increasingly important to apply the best scientific knowledge in the decisionmaking process Editors Farrell and J ger present environmental assessments as the bridge between the expert knowledge of scientists and engineers on the one hand and decisionmakers on the other When done well assessments have a positive impact on public policy the strategic decisions of private firms and ultimately the quality of life for many people This book is the result of an international interdisciplinary research project to analyze past environmental assessments and understand how their design influenced their effectiveness in bringing scientific evidence and insight into the decisionmaking process The case studies in the book feature a wide range of regional and global risks including ozone depletion transboundary air pollution and climate change Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks offers several important contributions It provides a clear account of the choices faced in the design of environmental assessments and a clear description of the lessons learned from past assessments It illustrates why assessments are social processes not simply reports And while they identify no universal one size fits all design the authors find that to be effective environmental assessments must be viewed by those who produce and use them as being salient credible in their scientific support and legitimate or fair in design and execution

The Delusion of Knowledge Transfer Susanne Koch, Peter Weingart, 2016-12-13 With the rise of the knowledge for development paradigm expert advice has become a prime instrument of foreign aid At the same time it has been object of repeated criticism the chronic failure of technical assistance a notion under which advice is commonly subsumed has been documented in a host of studies Nonetheless international organisations continue to send advisors promising to increase the effectiveness of expert support if their technocratic recommendations are taken up This book reveals fundamental problems of expert advice in the context of aid that concern issues of power and legitimacy rather than merely flaws of implementation Based on empirical evidence from South Africa and Tanzania the authors show that aid related advisory processes are inevitably obstructed by colliding interests political pressures and hierarchical relations that impede knowledge transfer and mutual learning As a result recipient governments find themselves caught in a perpetual cycle of dependency continuously advised by experts who convey the shifting paradigms and agendas of their respective donor governments For young democracies the persistent presence of external actors is hazardous ultimately it poses a threat to the legitimacy of their governments if their policy making becomes more responsive to foreign demands than to the preferences and needs of their citizens
