Cinema of Small Nations Mette Hjort, 2007-11-21 Within cinema studies there has emerged a significant body of scholarship on the idea of National Cinema but there has been a tendency to focus on the major national cinemas Less developed within this field is the analysis of what we might term minor or small national cinemas despite the increasing significance of these small entities with the international domain of moving image production distribution and consumption The Cinema of Small Nations is the first major analysis of small national cinemas comprising twelve case studies of small national and sub national cinemas from around the world including Ireland Denmark Iceland Scotland Bulgaria Tunisia Burkina Faso Cuba Singapore Taiwan Hong Kong and New Zealand Written by an array of distinguished and emerging scholars each of the case studies provides a detailed analysis of the particular cinema in question with an emphasis on the last decade considering both institutional and textual issues relevant to the national dimension of each cinema While each chapter contains an in depth analysis of the particular cinema in question the book as a whole provides the basis for a broader and more properly comparative understanding of small or minor national cinemas particularly with regard to structural constraints and possibilities the impact of globalization and internationalisation and the role played by economic and cultural factors in small nation contexts

Scottish Cinema Now Fidelma Farley, Jonathan Murray, Rod Stoneman, 2009-01-14 Cinema from Scotland has attained an unprecedented international profile in the decade or so since Shallow Grave 1995 and Trainspotting 1996 impinged on the consciousness of audiences and critics around the world Scottish Cinema Now is the first collection of essays to examine in depth the new films and filmmakers that have emerged from Scotland over the last ten years With contributions from both established names and new voices in British Cinema Studies the volume combines detailed textual analysis with discussion of industrial issues scholarship on new movies with historical investigation of unjustly forgotten figures and film from Scotland's cinematic past and a focus on international as well as indigenous images of Scottishness Responding to the ways in which recent Scottish filmmaking has transformed the country's cinematic landscape Scottish Cinema Now reexamines established critical agendas and sets new ones for the study of Scotland's relationship with the moving image in the twenty first century

Ireland's Magdalen Laundries and the Nation's Architecture of Containment James M. Smith, 2007-09-01 The Magdalen laundries were workhouses in which many Irish women and girls were effectively imprisoned because they were perceived to be a threat to the moral fiber of society Mandated by the Irish state beginning in the eighteenth century they were operated by various orders of the Catholic Church until the last laundry closed in 1996 A few years earlier in 1993 an order of nuns in Dublin sold part of their Magdalen convent to a real estate developer The remains of 155 inmates buried in unmarked graves on the property were exhumed cremated and buried elsewhere in a mass grave This triggered a public scandal in Ireland and since then the Magdalen laundries have become an important issue in Irish culture especially with the 2002 release of the film The Magdalene Sisters Focusing on the ten Catholic Magdalen laundries operating between 1922 and 1996 Ireland's Magdalen Laundries and the Nation's Architecture of Containment offers the first history of women entering these institutions in the twentieth century Because the religious orders have not opened their archival records Smith argues that Ireland's Magdalen institutions continue to exist in the public mind primarily at the level of story cultural representation and survivor testimony rather than history archival history and documentation Addressed to academic and general readers alike James M Smith s book accomplishes three primary objectives First it connects what history we have of the Magdalen laundries to Ireland s architecture of containment that made undesirable segments of the female population such as illegitimate children single mothers and sexually promiscuous women literally invisible Second it critically evaluates cultural representations in drama and visual art of the laundries that have over the past fifteen years brought them significant attention in Irish culture Finally Smith challenges the nation church state and society to acknowledge its complicity in Ireland s Magdalen scandal and to offer redress for victims and survivors alike
