National Civic Review Summer 2000:

National Civic Review, Summer 2000 Jossey-Bass Publishers, NCR Staff, 2000-08-01 Accompanying the National Civic League's 105th Conference on Governance entitled New Politics for a New Century this issue is an impassioned argument against the common assumptions of citizen apathy as a reason for decreasing public engagement in the democratic process. Instead contributors reveal a sophisticated citizenry with just cause for anger over the obstacles to good government and social change and their growing media fed presumption of bad intent from our political leadership. In the face of these daunting factors this issue examines positive trends in rising politics of volunteerism and philanthropy while demonstrating that these are not the sole solution to collectively effecting social change in our country. Instead chapters demonstrate methods that the whole tradition of the good government movement can be reengaged to make government more responsive and explore the promise of merging traditional good government movement goals with the active and successful empowerment and poverty movements emerging from communities of color. Other topics discussed include outreach to youth, media accountability and linking political processes to specific outcomes. Even the concept of political reform initially developed as a tool to place barriers against the types of fraud and abuses common in voter participation over a hundred years ago is subject to reform itself. With this issue the National Civic League offers a powerful resource for those up to facing the task. She shows how a vast number of policy innovations have arisen from the most important foundations lessening the destructive impact of global marketization. Conversely groups and movements that might challenge the status

Building Strong Nations Eran Vigoda-Gadot,2016-04-22 In the face of global challenges and changes some may even say because of them one major dilemma looms large for citizens and leaders worldwide how can we ensure that our countries address these challenges successfully This book demonstrates that the answer can be found in a better match between the nature of modern bureaucracy and the spirit of modern democracy as well as by improving methods and ideas for what the author terms cleaver governance and better governability Moreover it suggests potential directions for improving governability and public management against the backdrop of the tension between bureaucracy and democracy that has given rise to increasing mistrust of and lack of confidence in public institutions Building Strong Nations enriches the discussion about moving modern nations forward despite major problems such as the clash of ideologies the overburdening of and expectations from public administration and the growing instability in world economics and international relations
