Biological Approaches for Controlling Weeds Ramalingam Radhakrishnan,2018-09-05 Weed populations in agriculture are a major cause of yield loss Conventionally crop rotation and tillage practices limit the number of weed flora Several chemical herbicides are being applied to control weed growth but the long term use of those chemicals does not effectively control weeds due to the development of resistant germplasms which cause hazardous effects in living organisms The global interest in organic farming endorses the alternative way of weed control against chemical herbicides Recently biological agents have been added to integrated weed management strategies Several studies reveal that plant extracts bacteria fungi and their products effectively control weed seed germination and growth The aim of this book is to discuss the current understanding of bioherbicides and strategies to weed control      Biological Control of Weeds in Australia M. H. Julien,R. E. McFadyen,Jim Cullen,2012 Biological control of weeds has been practiced for over 100 years and Australia has been a leader in this weed management technique The classical example of control of prickly pears in Australia by the cactus moth Cactoblastis cactorum which was imported from the Americas helped to set the future for biocontrol of weeds in many countries Since then there have been many projects using Classical Biological Control to manage numerous weed species many of which have been successful Importantly there have been no serious negative non target impacts the technique when practiced as it is in Australia is safe and environmentally friendly Economic assessments have shown that biocontrol of weeds in Australia has provided exceedingly high benefit to cost ratios This book reviews biological control of weeds in Australia to 2011 covering over 90 weed species and a multitude of biological control agents and potential agents Each chapter has been written by practicing biological control of weeds researchers and provides details of the weed the history of its biological control exploration for agents potential agents studied and agents released and the outcomes of those releases Many weeds were successfully controlled some were not many projects are still underway some have just begun however all are reported in detail in this book Biological Control of Weeds in Australia will provide invaluable information for biological control researchers in Australia and elsewhere Agents used in Australia could be of immense value to other countries that suffer from the same weeds as Australia The studies reported here provide direction to future research and provide examples and knowledge for researchers and students KEY FEATURES A unique collation of information for Australian weed research and management Contains all the information about biological control of weeds in Australia in one book Provides key references for further information Will become a well cited publication

Urban Services to Ecosystems

Chiara Catalano, Maria Beatrice Andreucci, Riccardo Guarino, Francesca Bretzel, Manfredi Leone, Salvatore Pasta, 2021-09-15 The aim of this book is to bring together multidisciplinary research in the field of green infrastructure design construction and ecology The main core of the volume is constituted by contributions dealing with green infrastructure vegetation science nature based solutions and sustainable urban development The green infrastructure and its ecosystem services indeed are gaining space in both political agendas and academic research However the attention is focused on the services that nature is giving for free to and for human health and survival What if we start to see things from another perspective Our actions shall converge for instance to turn man made environment like cities from heterotrophic to autotrophic ecosystems From landscape ecology to urban and building design like bricks of a wall from the small scale to the bigger landscape scale via ecological networks and corridors we should start answering these questions what are the services that are we offering to Nature What are we improving How to implement our actions This book contains three Open Access chapters which are licensed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License CC BY 4.0

Area-wide Integrated Pest Management

Jorge Hendrichs, Rui Pereira, Marc J.B. Vreysen, 2021-02-01 Over 98% of sprayed insecticides and 95% of herbicides reach a destination other than their target species including non target species air water and soil The extensive reliance on insecticide use reduces biodiversity contributes to pollinator decline destroys habitat and threatens endangered species This book offers a more effective application of the Integrated Pest Management IPM approach on an area wide AW or population wide AW IPM basis which aims at the management of the total population of a pest involving a coordinated effort over often larger areas For major livestock pests vectors of human diseases and pests of high value crops with low pest tolerance there are compelling economic reasons for participating in AW IPM This new textbook attempts to address various fundamental components of AW IPM e g the importance of relevant problem solving research the need for planning and essential baseline data collection the significance of integrating adequate tools for appropriate control strategies and the value of pilot trials etc With chapters authored by 184 experts from more than 31 countries the book includes many technical advances in the areas of genetics molecular biology microbiology resistance management and social sciences that facilitate the planning and implementing of area wide strategies The book is essential reading for the academic and applied research community as well as national and regional government plant and human animal health authorities with responsibility for protecting plant and human animal health

Colonial Childhoods Satadru Sen,2005 Colonial Childhoods is about the politics of childhood in India between the 1860s and the 1930s It examines not only the redefinition of the child in the cultural and intellectual climate of colonialism but also the uses of the child the parent and the family in colonizing and nationalizing projects It investigates also the complications of transporting metropolitan discourses of childhood adulthood and expertise across the lines of race Focused on reformatories and laws for juvenile delinquents and boarding schools for aristocratic children it illuminates a vital area of conflict and accommodation in a colonial society A key addition to Anthem s South Asian series and also to the growing discipline of Childhood and Colonial Childhood studies
