Native Life in South Africa Solomon Tshekisho Plaatje, 2017-12-17 The first piece of major legislation presented to the whites only parliament of South Africa was the Natives Land Act eventually passed in 1913 which was designed to entrench white power and property rights in the countryside as well as to solve the native problem of African peasant farmers working for themselves and denying their labour power to white employers The main battle ground for the implementation of the new legislation was the Orange Free State White farmers took the cue from the Land Act to begin expelling black peasants from their land as squatters while the police began to rigorously enforce the pass laws which registered the employment of Africans and prescribed their residence and movement rights , Native Life in South Africa Sol T Plaatje,2020-01-26 impracticable to make fresh contracts some Natives unwittingly went to search for new places of abode which some farmers ignorant of the law quite as unwittingly accorded them It was only when they went to register the new tenancies that the law officers of the Crown laid bare the cruel fact that to provide a landless Native with accommodation was forbidden under a penalty of 100 Pounds or six months imprisonment Then only was the situation realized Other Natives who had taken up fresh places on European farms under verbal contracts which needed no registration actually founded new homes in spite of the law neither the white farmer nor the native tenant being aware of the serious penalties they were exposed to by their verbal contracts
