Natl Portrait Gallery An Architectural History:

The National Portrait Gallery Geoffrey Hulme, Graham Hulme, Brian Buchanan, Ken Powell, 2000 Reading Architectural History Dana Arnold, 2003-09-02 Architectural history is more than just the study of buildings Architecture of the past and present remains an essential emblem of a distinctive social system and set of cultural values and as a result it has been the subject of study of a variety of disciplines But what is architectural history and how should we read it Reading Architectural History examines the historiographic and socio cultural implications of the mapping of British architectural history with particular reference to eighteenth and nineteenth century Britain Discursive essays consider a range of writings from biographical and social histories to visual surveys and guidebooks to examine the narrative structures of histories of architecture and their impact on perception and understanding of the architecture of the past Alongside this each chapter cites canonical histories juxtaposed with a range of social and cultural theorists to reveal that these writings are richer than we have perhaps recognised and that architectural production in this period can be interrogated in the same way as that from more recent past and can be read in a variety of ways The essays and texts combine to form an essential course reader for methods and critical approaches to architectural history and more generally as examples of the kind of evidence used in the formation of architectural histories while also offering a thematic introduction to architecture in Britain and its social and cultural meaning

Museum Architecture Suzanne MacLeod, 2013-04-12 Recent decades have witnessed an explosion of museum building around the world and the subsequent publication of multiple texts dedicated to the subject Museum Architecture A new biography focuses on the stories we tell of museum buildings in order to explore the nature of museum architecture and the problems of architectural history when applied to the museum and gallery Starting from a discussion of the key issues in contemporary museum design the book explores the role of architectural history in the prioritisation of specific stories of museum building and museum architects and the exclusion of other actors from the history of museum making These omissions have contemporary relevance and impact directly on the ways in which the physical structures of museums are shaped Theoretically the book places a particular emphasis on the work of Pierre Bourdieu and Henri Lefebvre in order to establish an understanding of buildings as social relations the outcome of complex human interactions and relationships The book utilises a micro history an in depth case study of the National Gallery of the North the Walker Art Gallery in Liverpool to expose the myriad ways in which museum architecture is made Coupled with this detailed exploration is an emphasis on contemporary museum design which utilises the understanding of the social realities of museum making to explore ideas for a socially sustainable museum architecture fit for the twenty first century

A Guide to Smithsonian Architecture Heather Ewing, Amy Ballard, 2009-03-01 The buildings of the Smithsonian Institution not only contain impressive collections they are themselves icons of great cultural significance many of them part of the historic National Mall The Smithsonian's unique buildings illustrate the changing styles and sensibilities of America as an evolving nation Representing the work of major architects each building evokes a specific time in history the mid 19th century turreted Castle the sky reflecting mid century modern Air and Space Museum and the golden undulating 21st century American Indian Museum

Spaces for Shaping the Nation Marina Beck, Christina Strunck, 2024-04-02 As spaces of knowledge the national museums and galleries of nineteenth century Europe played an important role both in the shaping of nation states and the education of their populations In this context such institutions sought to convey the history of the people for example by displaying pictorial cycles of important scenes from their history exhibiting objects associated with certain formative events or arraying period rooms to promote a specific impression of the past The contributions to this volume examine the purposes and educational strategies of national museums and national galleries via case studies from Denmark France Germany Great Britain Italy the Netherlands Poland Sweden and Switzerland The British Architect, 1901 History's Beauties Lara Perry, 2006 The beauties women of note who were welcomed to the National Portrait Gallery's early collection were those whose lives and portraits were recognized as significant to the civil ecclesiastical and literary history of the nation This brief was interpreted to include figures as diverse as the devout Lady Margaret Beaufort and the entertaining Lady Emma Hamilton History's Beauties the first detailed study of this collection maps a culture of femininity that reframes the Victorian fascination with women's domestic and sentimental presence by locating it within a Parliament centred national culture
