The Virtual Community, revised edition Howard Rheingold,2000-10-23 Howard Rheingold tours the virtual community of online networking Howard Rheingold has been called the First Citizen of the Internet In this book he tours the virtual community of online networking He describes a community that is as real and as much a mixed bag as any physical community one where people talk argue seek information organize politically fall in love and dupe others At the same time that he tells moving stories about people who have received online emotional support during devastating illnesses he acknowledges a darker side to people s behavior in cyberspace Indeed contends Rheingold people relate to each other online much the same as they do in physical communities Originally published in 1993 The Virtual Community is more timely than ever This edition contains a new chapter in which the author revisits his ideas about online social communication now that so much more of the world s population is wired It also contains an extended bibliography

Violence And The Media

Carter, Cynthia,2003-01-01 Why is there so much violence portrayed in the media What meanings are attached to representations of violence in the media Can media violence encourage violent behaviour and desensitize audiences to real violence Does the everydayness of media violence lead to the normalization of violence in society Violence and the Media is a lively and indispensable introduction to current thinking about media violence and its potential influence on audiences Adopting a fresh perspective on the media effects debate Carter and Weaver engage with a host of pressing issues around violence in different media contexts including news film television pornography advertising and cyberspace The book offers a compelling argument that the daily repetition of media violence helps to normalize and legitimize the acts being portrayed Most crucially the influence of media violence needs to be understood in relation to the structural inequalities of everyday life Using a wide range of examples of media violence primarily drawn from the American and British media to illustrate these points Violence and the Media is a distinctive and revealing exploration of one of the most important and controversial subjects in cultural and media studies today

New Reproductive Technologies and Disembodiment Carla

Lam,2016-04-22 With attention to the ways in which new reproductive technologies facilitate the gradual disembodiment of reproduction this book reveals the paradox of women s reproductive experience in patriarchal cultures as being both and often simultaneously empowering and disempowering A rich exploration of birth appropriation in the West New Reproductive Technologies and Disembodiment investigates the assimilation of women's embodied power into patriarchal systems of symbolism culture and politics through the inversion of women's and men's reproductive roles. Contending that new reproductive technologies represent another world historical moment both in their forging of novel social relations and material processes of reproduction and their manner of disembodiment, this volume locates the roots of this disembodiment in western political discourse. A call to feminist political theory to re-member the material dimensions of bodies and their philosophical significance, New Reproductive Technologies and Disembodiment will appeal to scholars of sociology, gender studies, political and social theory, and the study of science, technology, and health.

Feminist Utopianism & Education
 Christine Forde, 2007-01-01 This book looks to feminist utopian thinking to seek alternative conceptualisations of the issue of gender and education. We are currently faced with a situation where the issue of gender has become one of competing needs. Debates on gender have swung from a concern for the progress of girls and women to a moral panic about the lack of engagement of boys in education. The formulation of policy that swings from concerns and initiatives to support the educational progress of girls and women to a crisis about the engagement of boys and young men in education is ultimately to the detriment of both genders to the educational system and to society as a whole. There is an urgent need for us to consider alternative approaches to the issue of gender and education. In utopian writing, education has been constructed as one of the means of bringing about the good society, but importantly within feminist utopian writing and thinking, what we understand as education is itself being transformed. In feminist utopian thinking, side by side with a critique of formal educational institutions, there is an attempt to think more holistically about the relationship between the educative process and the achievement of girls and women's self-determination, both individually and collectively, to bring about a realignment of gender relationships in the sociopolitical order. This book draws from the debates about gender in the visions of alternative sociopolitical orders found in feminist utopian thinking to explore the issue of gender and education. This book will be of special relevance to those interested in feminism, gender studies, educational futures, and utopian thinking.

Challenging Democracy
 Madeleine Arnot, Jo-Anne Dillabough, 2014-02-04 This collection establishes a highly topical new international field of study, that of gender, education, and citizenship. It brings together for the first time important cutting-edge research on the contribution of the educational system to the formation of male and female citizens. It shows how gender relations operate behind apparently neutral concepts of liberal democratic citizenship and citizenship education. The editors asked leading international educationalists to describe the theoretical frameworks and methodologies they used to research gender and citizenship. Challenging Democracy suggests ways in which the educational system could help develop genuinely inclusive democratic societies in which men and women play an equal role in shaping the meaning of citizenship.

Heaven's Gate George D. Chryssides, 2016-12-05 On March 26 1997 the bodies of 39 men and women were found in an opulent mansion outside San Diego all victims of a mass suicide Messages left by the Heaven's Gate group indicate that they believed they were stepping out of their physical containers in order to ascend to a UFO that was arriving in the wake of the Hale Bopp comet The Heaven's Gate suicides were part of a series of major incidents involving New Religions in the 1990s as the new millennium approached. Despite the major attention that Heaven's Gate attracted at the time of the suicides, there have been relatively few scholarly studies. This anthology on Heaven's Gate includes a combination of articles previously published in academic journals, some new writings from experts in the field, and some original Heaven's Gate documents. All the material is expertly brought together under the editorship of George D. Chryssides. Communication Technology Darin Barney, 2011-11-01

When the Internet began to emerge as a popular new mode of communication, many political scientists and social commentators believed that it would revolutionize our democratic institutions. Today, voter turnout is at an historic low and Internet usage is at an all-time high. Can we still make the claim that new information and communication technologies (ICTs) enhance democratic life in Canada? What effect does the technological mediation of political communication have on the practice of Canadian politics? How have such technologies affected the distribution of power in society? Darin Barney investigates the links between ICTs and democratic processes, arguing that the potential of digital technologies to contribute to a more democratic political system will remain largely untapped unless the more conventional dimensions of Canadian politics, the economy, and modes of governance are reoriented. Television and New Media Audiences Ellen Seiter, 1998-12-17

Why is talk about television forbidden at certain schools? Why does a mother feel guilty about watching Star Trek in front of her four-year-old child? Why would retired men turn to daytime soap operas for entertainment? Cliches about television mask the complexity of our relationship to media technologies. Through case studies, the author explains what audience research tells us about the uses of technologies in the domestic sphere and the classroom, the relationship between gender and genre, and the varied interpretation of media technologies and media forms. Television and New Media Audiences reviews the most important research on television audiences and recommends the use of ethnographic, longitudinal methods for the study of media consumption and computer use at home as well as in the workplace. The book discusses reactions of audiences to many internationally known television programmes, including The Flintstones, The Jetsons, Street Fighter, Mighty Morphin Power Rangers, X-Men, Sesame Street, Dallas, Star Trek, The Cosby Show, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, National Geographic, etc. Online Belongings Debra Ferreday, 2009

In her reading of cyberculture studies after the affective turn, the author argues for a new cyberculture studies that goes beyond dominant cultural narratives of the Internet as dystopian or utopian space and pays attention to the ways in which online culture has become embedded in everyday lives. The book intervenes in narratives of virtual reality to propose that the Internet can be re-read as a space of fantasy. Most Bitten Bytes on Techno-Pedagogy Chandrasekharan Praveen, 2021-02-16

This collection includes award-winning papers, innovative research, and enticing ideas which would tickle the palate of the specialist, the teacher, and the curious reader.
