Redesigning the US Mental Health Care System

Sydney S. Harris, Stephen M. Strakowski, 2024 What is commonly referred to in the U S as the mental health care system is not really a system at all While excellent programs exist in every state in every community across America the system is actually a set of fragmented services provided inequitably by a haphazard array of specialty providers often with inadequate resources and only tenuously connected to health care systems for other health needs Crisis is too often the first point of contact for people experiencing a mental illness while year over year increases in rates of anxiety depression traumatic stress and death from suicide and overdose have led many to characterize the current situation as a pandemic or epidemic of mental illness constituting a national emergency For youth and young adults in late 2021 this emergency was formally recognized by the U S Surgeon General in the first Advisory ever issued regarding the nation s mental health Expanding School Health Services to Serve Families in the 21st Century Judith B.
