Reflections in Black, 2000 Reflection-in-Motion Jaclyn Fiscus-Cannaday, 2025-05-23 Reflection in Motion considers how reflective practice is embedded in daily course happenings centering the experiences of students and teachers in Minority Serving Institutions to amplify underrepresented viewpoints about how reflection works in the writing classroom Jaclyn Fiscus Cannaday examines how its availability is subject to teacher student power dynamics the literacies welcomed or not in the class the past and present pedagogies that students are engaging with and attending to and the interactions among humans materials and emotions within the rhetorical context She adopts an intersectional feminist perspective for an inclusive view of how practitioners name identify and practice reflection in the everyday moments of writing classrooms Fiscus Cannaday invokes a Black feminist qualitative research method that Venus Evans Winters calls a mosaic When researchers collect both traditional and nontraditional texts to create a full view of students and teachers interviews at three institutions a Hispanic Serving Institution a Historically Black College and University and an Asian American Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution she finds that practitioners often build definitions from past experiences with reflection and then use those definitions as terministic screens to decide if an activity can be named identified and practiced as reflection These definitions hold different rhetorical effects reflection for introspection reflection for learning reflection for mindfulness and reflection for awareness Reflection is used for these different rhetorical effects but because classrooms so often focus on the Westernized view and its emphasis on growth reflection has the underused and undertheorized potential rhetorical effect of helping students investigate their identities and positionalities acknowledge deep rooted ideologies and consider new perspectives so they can better work across difference Reflection in Motion will inspire teachers and writing program administrators to listen to how students define and practice reflection and why thus making room for more capacious definitions of reflection and student centered practices of what reflection can do and be Reflection in

The Landscape in Black and White Oliver Schuchard, 2005 In this magnificent book Oliver Schuchard provides more than sixty five exquisite black and white photographs spanning his thirty eight years of photography In addition he explains the aesthetic rationale and techniques he used in order to produce these photographs emphasizing the profound differences between yet necessary interdependence of craft and content Although Schuchard believes that craft is important he maintains that the idea behind the photograph and the emotional content of the image are equally vital and are in fact functions of one another The author also shares components of his life experience that he believes helped shape his development as an artist and a teacher He chose the splendid photographs included in this book from among nearly 5 000 negatives that had been exposed all over the world from Missouri to Maine California Alaska Colorado France Newfoundland and Hawaii among many other locations Approximately 250 negatives survived the initial review and each of those was printed before a final decision was made on which photographs were to be featured in the book The final choices are representative of Schuchard s work and serve to substantiate his belief that craft concept and self must be fully understood and carefully melded for a good photograph to occur This amazing work by award winning photographer Oliver Schuchard will be treasured by professional and amateur photographers alike as well as by anyone who simply enjoys superb photography

Study in Black and White Tanya Sheehan, 2019-05-06 In this volume Tanya Sheehan takes humor seriously in order to trace how photographic comedy was used in America and transnationally to express evolving ideas about race black emancipation and civil rights in the mid 1800s and into the twentieth century Sheehan employs a trove of understudied materials to write a new history of photography one that encompasses the rise of the commercial portrait studio in the 1840s the popularization of amateur photography around 1900 and the mass circulation of postcards and other photographic ephemera in the twentieth century She examines the racial politics that shaped some of the most essential elements of the medium from the negative positive process to the convention of the photographic smile The book also places historical discourses in relation to contemporary art that critiques racism through humor including the work of Genevieve Grieves Adrian Piper Lorna Simpson Kara Walker and Fred Wilson By treating racial humor about and within the photographic medium as complex social commentary rather than a collectible curiosity Study in Black and White enriches our understanding of photography in popular culture Transhistorical and interdisciplinary this book will be of vital interest to scholars of art history and visual studies critical race studies U S history and African American studies
