The Roman Empire Divided John Moorhead, 2013-11-26 In 400 the mighty Roman Empire was almost as large as it had ever been within three centuries advances by Germanic peoples in western Europe Slavs in eastern Europe and Arabs around the eastern and southern shores of the Mediterranean had brought about the loss of most of its territory Ranging from Britain to Mesopotamia this book explores the changes that resulted from these movements It shows the different paths away from the classical past that were taken and how the relatively unified civilization of the ancient Mediterranean gave place to the very different civilizations that cluster around the sea today This comprehensive and authoritative second edition has been thoroughly revised and updated line by line and contains several new sections dealing for instance with the new evidence provided by recent finds like the Staffordshire Treasure and the widespread effects of the plague As well as a completely new bibliographical essay The Roman Empire Divided now also includes six maps and an expanded selection of illustrations fully integrated in the text

The Roman Empire Divided, 400-700 John Moorhead, 2001 Unmatched in its chronological sweep and with an impressive and unusual geographical range this ambitious history offers a new and vital interpretation of the post Roman world The decline and fall of the Roman Empire has transfixed historians for centuries This important new account looks at what happened after the power of the once mighty empire was swept away Smaller states founded by Slavs Arabs Germanic peoples and others moved in to fill the void and laid the foundations for the later histories of western Europe the Balkans the Middle East and north Africa John Moorhead looks at how these fundamental changes were influenced by other social economic and political developments taking place at the same time Using a fascinating array of evidence he weaves the numerous threads into a convincing and lucid narrative and shows how by the end of the eighth century the civilization of the ancient world had been replaced by a series of units which had very little in common with each other

The Roman Empire Divided, 400-700 John Moorhead, 2012 In 400 the mighty Roman Empire was almost as large as it had ever been within three centuries advances by Germanic peoples in western Europe Slavs in eastern Europe and Arabs around the eastern and southern shores of the Mediterranean had brought about the loss of most of its territory Ranging from Britain to Mesopotamia this book explores the changes that resulted from these movements It shows the different paths away from the classical past that were taken and how the relatively unified civilization of the ancient Mediterranean gave place to the very different civilizations that c

The Forty Sieges of Constantinople John D. Grainger, 2022-07-28

The great city of Byzantium Constantinople Istanbul stands on a commanding cape overlooking a busy waterway It has been the target of repeated attempts to capture it for the past two and a half millennia Most of these attacks failed but some did so in spectacular fashion such as the great Arab sieges The inhabitants fought hard in almost every siege with the result that when the city was captured it was also destroyed or at least suffered a hideous sack Almost every nation between the Atlantic and the Steppes of Asia have made attempts to capture the city some repeatedly but only a few a Roman emperor the Crusaders the Turks have succeeded And there is no sign that some have given up the hope of taking it the last sieges were just before and then during the Great War by the Bulgars and then by the Allies who got no closer than Gallipoli but the city had to submit to enemy occupation when the empire it ruled collapsed It is still surrounded by envious neighbours who wish to control it The city has been besieged forty times and has been captured on three or four occasions it cannot be said to be safe yet It is still The City of the World's Desire

(Re)using Ruins: Public Building in the Cities of the Late Antique West, A.D. 300-600 Douglas R. Underwood, 2019-04-09

In Re using Ruins Douglas Underwood presents a new account of the use and reuse of Roman urban public monuments in a crucial period of transition A.D. 300-600 Commonly seen as a period of uniform decline for public building especially in the western half of the Mediterranean Re using Ruins shows a vibrant yet variable history for these structures Douglas Underwood establishes a broad catalogue of archaeological evidence supplemented with epigraphic and literary testimony for the construction maintenance abandonment and reuses of baths aqueducts theatres amphitheatres and circuses in Italy southern Gaul Spain and North Africa demonstrating that the driving force behind the changes to public buildings was largely a combined shift in urban ideologies and euergetistic practices in Late Antique cities

Reference Humanities Social Sciences PROSE award granted by the Association of American Publishers      Handbook of Medieval Studies Albrecht Classen, 2010-11-29 This interdisciplinary handbook provides extensive information about research in medieval studies and its most important results over the last decades The handbook is a reference work which enables the readers to quickly and purposely gain insight into the important research discussions and to inform themselves about the current status of research in the field The handbook consists of four parts The first large section offers articles on all of the main disciplines and discussions of the field The second section presents articles on the key concepts of modern medieval studies and the debates therein The third section is a lexicon of the most important text genres of the Middle Ages The fourth section provides an international bio bibliographical lexicon of the most prominent medievalists in all disciplines A comprehensive bibliography rounds off the compendium The result is a reference work which exhaustively documents the current status of research in medieval studies and brings the disciplines and experts of the field together      The Routledge Handbook on Identity in Byzantium Michael Stewart, David Parnell, Conor Whately, 2022-03-30 This volume is the first to focus solely on how specific individuals and groups in Byzantium and its borderlands were defined and distinguished from other individuals and groups from the mid fourth to the close of the fifteenth century It gathers chapters from both established and emerging scholars from a wide range of disciplines across history art archaeology and religion to provide an accurate representation of the state of the field both now and in its immediate future The handbook is divided into four subtopics that examine concepts of group and specific individual identity which have been chosen to provide methodologically sophisticated and multidisciplinary perspectives on specific categories of group and individual identity The topics are Imperial Identities Romanitas in the Late Antique Mediterranean Macro and Micro Identities Religious Regional and Ethnic Identities and Internal Others and Gendered Identities Literature Memory and Self in Early and Middle Byzantium While no single volume could ever provide a comprehensive vision of identities on the vast variety of peoples within Byzantium over nearly a millennium of its history this handbook represents a milestone in offering a survey of the vibrant surge of scholarship examining the numerous and oft times fluctuating codes of identity that shaped and transformed Byzantium and its neighbours during the empire's long life      Narbonne and its Territory in Late Antiquity Frank Riess, 2016-04-22 This work centres on the post Roman period of Narbonne and its territory up to its capture by the Arabs in 720 encompassing not only recent archaeological findings but also perspectives of French Spanish and Catalan historiography that have fashioned distinct national narratives Seeking to remove Narbonne from any subsequent birth of France Catalonia and Spain the book presents a geopolitical region that took shape from the late fifth century evolving towards the end of the eighth century into an autonomous province of the nascent Carolingian Empire Capturing this change throughout a 300 year period somewhat lacking in written sources the book takes us beyond an exclusive depiction of the classical city to an examination of settlement in various forms Discourses of literary criticism also lie behind aspects of this study mapped around textual commentaries which highlight a more imaginative biography of a city Narbonne's role as a point of departure and travel across the Mediterranean is examined through a reading of the correspondence of Paulinus of Nola and the writings of Sulpicius Severus enabling the reader to gain a fuller picture of the city and its port The topography of Narbonne in the fifth century is surveyed together with Bishop Rusticus's church building programme Later chapters emphasise the difficulties in presenting a detached image of Narbonne as sources become mainly Visigothic defining the city and its region as part of a centralised kingdom Particular attention is given to the election of Liuva I as king in Narbonne in 568 and to the later division into upper and lower sub kingdoms shared by Liuva and his brother Leovigild a duality that persisted throughout the sixth and seventh centuries The study therefore casts new light on Narbonne and its place within the Visigothic Kingdom of Toledo suggesting that it was the capital of a territory with roots in the post Roman settlement of barbarian successor states
