But as institutions museums have never been stable or singular and neither has the discipline of museum studies Museum studies as a field of academic inquiry has received little critical attention One result of this neglect has arguably been a lack of invention in museum studies another is the distancing of academic museum studies from museum practice Doing Museology Differently charts a different course A critical creative reflection on academic practice the book takes the form of a narrative account of museological fieldwork A research story unfolds challenging academic conventions at the level of its own presentation the book combines critical museum visiting with an autobiographical voice The identification of a previously underexplored interdisciplinary space leads the author to experiment with museum studies using contemporary developments in the theory and practice of human geography The new approaches to museological research and representation that emerge from this unique inquiry challenge assumed institutional and intellectual boundaries and act as a call to further creative experimentation

E. Lewis, 2010-05 In this absorbing exploration of technological creativity throughout the ages E E Lewis professor of mechanical engineering at Northwestern University eloquently tells the story of how science and engineering which had little in common until a few hundred years ago came together to create the technological world of the 21st century Today's technology is the product of a fascinating synergy of science's search for comprehension of the material universe and engineering's drive to build things and make them work In the 20th century this synergy achieved many unprecedented successes the most spectacular of which is arguably the first moon landing of the Apollo program Rocket science now symbolic of humanity's most complex technological endeavors is the culmination of centuries of achievements by architects of pyramids and cathedrals medieval craft guilds and pioneering inventors and scientists from the Renaissance through the Industrial Revolution Melding his own personal experiences from visiting Chartres Cathedral to flying aboard a Boeing 777 with vivid historical vignettes the author skillfully demonstrates the importance of craft tradition scientific method production organization economics and more to the creation of modern technology The many topics that Lewis illuminates include the slow evolution of the wheelwright's craft the background and training of the architect engineers who undertook the construction of medieval cathedrals the importance of patronage and venture capitalists in realizing the big ideas of past and present the increasing use of visualization as seen in Leonardo's notebooks Galileo's immense contribution of bringing science and engineering together the increasing importance of basic science as the seedbed of engineering and design innovations the challenge of attempting unprecedented feats while minimizing risk as exemplified by space flight and much more Whether Lewis is discussing the distribution of weight along flying buttresses the challenges faced by Morse in engineering the telegraph or the Apollo program's monumental team effort the author's deep knowledge of and enthusiasm for his subject and his gift for engaging lively prose make for a fascinating exploration of science and engineering through the ages E. E. Lewis Evanston, IL the former chair of the Department of Mechanical Engineering is professor of mechanical engineering at the McCormick School of Engineering and Applied Science at Northwestern University He is the author of three engineering textbooks and numerous journal articles
