Temporary Cities Yasser Elsheshtawy, 2019-03-28 Are Arab Gulf cities the likes of Dubai Abu Dhabi or Doha on their way to extinction Is their fate obsolescence Or are they the model for our urban future Can a city whose very existence is predicated on an imported labour force who build and operate these gleaming urban centres remain a viable urban entity Could the transient nature of this urban model its temporariness and precariousness also be its doom In this wide ranging book Yasser Elsheshtawy takes on these tough but necessary questions aiming to examine the very nature of the Arab Gulf city and whether it can sustain its existence throughout the twenty first century Having lived in the region for more than two decades he researched its marginalized and forgotten urban settings trying to understand how a temporary people can live in a place that inherently refuses to give them the possibility of becoming citizens By being embedded in these spaces and reconciling their presence with his own personal encounters with transience he discovered a resilience and defiance against the forces of the hegemonic city Using subtle acts of resistance these temporary inhabitants have found a way to sustain and create a home to set down roots in the midst of a fast changing and transient urbanity Their stories recounted in this book through case studies and in depth analysis give hope to cities everywhere Transience is not a fait accompli rather the actions of citizens residents and migrants even in the highly restrictive spaces of the Gulf show us that the future metropolis may very well not turn out to be a utopia of the few and a dystopia of the many This could be an illusion but it is a necessary illusion because the alternative is irrelevance

The Vekaiyun D.L. Nighly, 2019-09-04 It exists At least it has to exist right Somewhere between the wild expanse of the unknown and teetering on the scale of unrestrained innovation and morality must exist a specimen capable of complete and utter submission to the Vekaiyun Ideal Maybe there exists more than one specimen Perhaps these specimens if they exist merely need to be conditioned controlled and taught from an early age to bend to the wills and wants of the state Azsur Venavle and his array of like minded generals longed for such devoted subjects therefore it was made so One such individual Ikrisia Levinile known as Number Eight is among such rootless specimens and is a peculiar study Though a child she is quick to grasp advanced concepts and like her groupmates she is a capable tactician She was made that way after all Any vestige of compassion or emotional weaknesses appears to have been corrected leaving a clean slate ready to accept the dogma of the all important Vekaiyun state under Venavle's rule thereby ensuring his regime and those like his will remain intact for years to come Or so it appears Specimens can have souls They are more than a simple line of data tested against an algorithm of conditioned responses Perhaps there's something more to this Ikrisia Levinile that the analysts missed Perhaps there's another side that the cold hands of Azsur Venavle's subordinates haven't grasped Perhaps a change is slowly forming against the horizon Somewhere between the lines and existing only as harmless anomalies an independent soul an entity apart from the supplements and indoctrinations exists It exists At least it has to exist right

The Human Elder In Nature, Culture, And Society David Gutmann, 2019-07-11 Chronicling the evolution of David Gutmann's cross cultural empirical studies on which his developmental theories of aging are based this volume reveals how descriptions of the developmental sequences as they show themselves in older men and women lead to identification of the psychological forces that drive these processes across the years This book of new and previously published work first reports on the research that buttressed the more hopeful view of aging as a period of growth and then sets forth the broad unifying ideas that came out of the empirical work These concepts include the theory of the Parental Imperative the engine of human development in early and later adulthood observations on the gentling of the older man and the increased assertiveness of the older woman essays about the unique qualities of aging leaders and the special role of the aged as representatives of the community to its gods and ideas about the evolutionary basis of the third age aging as a human adaptation a legitimate life stage rather than the grim prelude to death The last group of selections focuses on the clinical perspective applying developmental insights to the psychological disorders of later life ultimately leading to a more hopeful view of these conditions as well as more effective approaches to their treatment Each section contains original commentary placing the material in the context of current research This text is for gerontologists for all students of human development and for all thoughtful readers who are concerned with the great themes of the human life cycle in cluding their own

Karl Marx David McLellan,1973-12-01 Urban Confrontations in Literature and Social Science, 1848-2001 Edward J. Ahearn,2016-02-11 In an innovative contribution to the challenging of disciplinary boundaries Edward J Ahearn juxtaposes works of literature with the writings of social scientists to discover how together they illuminate city life in ways that neither can accomplish separately Ahearn s argument spans from the second half of the nineteenth century in Western Europe to the present day United States and encompasses a wide range of literary genres and sociological schools For example Charles Baudelaire s essays on the city are viewed alongside the work of Emile Durkheim and Georg Simmel Bertolt Brecht s Jungle of Cities heightens the arguments of Louis Wirth and Robert Park Richard Wright s Native Son and Saul Bellow s The Adventures of Augie March are re visioned in tandem with works by William Julius Wilson and others Herman Melville s Bartleby the Scrivener poses a challenge to James Q Wilson s Bureaucracy Toni Morrison s historical novel Jazz is buttressed by the career of Robert Moses and the revisionist work of historians Hilary Ballon and Kenneth T Jackson and Don DeLillos s Cosmopolis comes into brilliant focus in the light of arguments on world cybercities by David Harvey Saskia Sassen and Manuel Castells Resisting the temptation to ignore contradictions for the sake of interpretation Ahearn instead offers the reader a view of the modern city as complex as his subject matter Here the methodologies and knowledge generated by the social sciences are both complemented and subverted by the experience of city life as portrayed in literature With its diverse narrative tactics and shifting points of view which can be as disorienting to the reader as a foreign city is to an arriving immigrant literature reinforces the importance of method and outlook in the social sciences Ultimately Ahearn suggests neither literature nor the social sciences can capture the experience of urban misery
