How to Read Chinese Ceramics Denise Patry Leidy, 2015-09-01. Among the most revered and beloved artworks in China are ceramics: sculptures and vessels that have been utilized to embellish tombs, homes, and studies; to drink tea and wine; and to convey social and cultural meanings such as good wishes and religious beliefs. Since the eighth century, Chinese ceramics, particularly porcelain, have played an influential role around the world as trade introduced their beauty and surpassing craft to countless artists in Europe, America, and elsewhere. Spanning five millennia, the Metropolitan Museum's collection of Chinese ceramics represents a great diversity of materials, shapes, and subjects. The remarkable selections presented in this volume, which include both familiar examples and unusual ones, will acquaint readers with the prodigious accomplishments of Chinese ceramicists from Neolithic times to the modern era. As with previous books in the How to Read series, How to Read Chinese Ceramics elucidates the works to encourage deeper understanding and appreciation of the meaning of individual pieces and the culture in which they were created. From exquisite jars, bowls, bottles, and dishes to the elegantly sculpted Chan Patriarch Bodhidharma and the gorgeous Vase with Flowers of the Four Seasons, How to Read Chinese Ceramics is a captivating introduction to one of the greatest artistic traditions in Asian culture.

How to Read Chinese Paintings Maxwell K. Hearn, 2008. Together, the text and illustrations gradually reveal many of the major themes and characteristics of Chinese painting. To read these works is to enter a dialogue with the past. Slowly perusing a scroll or album, one shares an intimate experience that has been repeated over the centuries. And it is through such readings that meaning is gradually revealed.

Gaffney, J. Packard, 2012-12-06 Published research and conference presentations on the Chinese language in the last decade have tended to focus on adult language processing This book provides a comprehensive resource for the critical discussion of major issues in learning to read Chinese from a child acquisition perspective The combined contributions from researchers in Asian studies linguistics psycholinguistics psychology cognitive psychology reading and education inform international comparative studies of literacy by making apparent the features of the Chinese culture language writing system and pedagogy that may facilitate or impede the acquisition of literacy      Reading Development in Chinese Children Catherine McBride-Chang, Hsuan-Chih Chen, 2003-12-30 This text reviews both similarities and unique cultural linguistic and script differences of Chinese relative to alphabetic reading and even across Chinese regions Chinese reading acquisition relies upon children's strongly developing analytic skills as highlighted here These 16 chapters present state of the art research on diverse aspects of Chinese children's reading development This edited volume presents research on Chinese children's reading development across Chinese societies Authors from China Hong Kong Singapore and Taiwan among others present the latest findings on how Chinese children learn to read Reading acquisition in Chinese involves some parameters typically not encountered in some other orthographies such as English. For example, Chinese readers in different regions might speak different mutually unintelligible languages, be taught to read with or without the aid of a phonetic coding system, and learn different scripts. This book both implicitly and explicitly considers these and other contextual issues in relation to developmental and cognitive factors involved in Chinese literacy acquisition. One of the clearest themes to emerge from this volume is that across regions, Chinese children, despite lack of explicit teaching of phonetic or semantic character components, learn to read largely by integrating visible print-sound and print-meaning connections. Rather than learning to read Chinese characters by rote as is sometimes mistakenly believed, these children are analytic learners. Chapters in this book also cover such topics as Chinese children's reading comprehension, cognitive characteristics of good and poor readers, and reading strategies of bilingual and bicultural readers. This book is a useful reference for anyone interested in understanding either developing or skilled reading of Chinese or for those interested in literacy learning across cultures.

Cognitive and Neural Foundations of Chinese Reading Denise Hsien Wu, 2025-08-22. This book provides a comprehensive and concise introduction of experiments on contemporary issues of language processing and the brain. It covers a wide range of neurolinguistic and neuroscience topics including but not limited to word recognition, reading acquisition, and dyslexia in typically developed children, foreign language learners, and deaf people; comprehension of sentences and fictional narratives; the interplay of language processing acquisition with other cognitive domains; and aging of language comprehension and Chinese reading. This book showcases the significance of empirical studies on language and cognitive processing, particularly those emerging from the Taiwan research community, to illuminate the intricate nature of the language faculty enabled by the sophisticated computations of the brain. This book informs readers of crucial issues in the neurolinguistic literature and advances in neuroimaging technology and provides perspectives inspired by evolution and neuroscience.

and The Chinese John L. Nevius, 2020-05-21. Reprint of the original first published in 1869. Reading Chinese Script Jian Wang, Hsuan-Chih Chen, Ralph Radach, Albrecht

The Acquisition of Chinese Pinyin and Hanzi Haiwei Zhang, 2025-07-11. The Acquisition of Chinese Pinyin and Hanzi focuses on the learning of Pinyin and Hanzi among learners of Chinese as a second language (CSL) from Egypt and the United Kingdom. The objectives of this book are to explore the roles of L1 writing system background, individual differences, and meta-linguistic awareness in the acquisition of Pinyin and Hanzi. This book presents a unique comparison of the performance in learning Chinese between two groups of CSL learners using L1 scripts with different writing directions, namely the right-to-left Arabic and the left-to-right English. It provides a comprehensive analysis of the orthographic and phonological features of Arabic, Chinese, and English, illustrating how L1 background and individual differences such as foreign language aptitude and experience of study abroad impact CSL learners' performance in Chinese meta-linguistic awareness e.g. phonological awareness and phonetic radical awareness and literacy skills e.g. Hanzi reading and writing. Furthermore, it examines the contribution of meta-linguistic awareness to literacy skills. The book also discusses the theoretical implications for understanding the significance of phonological skills for the development of literacy skills and the pedagogical considerations for designing instructional activities for Pinyin and Hanzi in the CSL classroom. This book is intended for researchers, graduate students and practitioners interested in CSL teaching and learning.
