Reading For Concepts H H:

Reading Nietzsche through the Ancients Matthew Meyer, 2014-06-18 Nietzsche's work was shaped by his engagement with ancient Greek philosophy. Matthew Meyer analyzes Nietzsche's concepts of becoming and perspectivism and his alleged rejection of the principle of non-contradiction and he traces these views back to the Heraclitean Protagorean position that Plato and Aristotle critically analyze in the Theaetetus and Metaphysics IV respectively. At the center of this Heraclitean Protagorean position is a relational ontology in which everything exists and is what it is only in relation to something else. Meyer argues that this relational ontology is not only theoretically foundational for Nietzsche's philosophical project in that it is the common element in Nietzsche's views on becoming, perspectivism, and the principle of non-contradiction but also textually foundational in that Nietzsche implicitly commits himself to such an ontology in raising the question of opposites at the beginning of both Human All Too Human and Beyond Good and Evil.

Putting it into Practice Paula Jones, Debbie Haydon, 2012-02-01 Most teachers would agree that they teach reasoning skills in their classes. However, are they explicitly incorporating strategies that teach students to think critically? If so, how do they know these methods are effective? The purpose of this book is to summarize and share a variety of methods for developing students' critical thinking skills. Each chapter focuses on a select teacher education class where the instructor implemented components of the Paul and Elder Model of Critical Thinking. Written from the instructor's point of view, each chapter details how each instructor utilized components of the Paul and Elder Model to support students in the development of their critical thinking skills. Importantly, each instructor's use of the model varied, and those variations are shared in detail. Chapter authors found that utilizing components of the Paul and Elder Model resulted in more consistent use of critical thinking skills by students within their teacher education classes. In this practice-based book, interested teachers will be challenged to think through the methods they currently use in their own classes and will be provided new ideas or strategies to try.

Self-Concept John Hattie, 2014-03-05 The aim of this book is to discuss the notions of self-concept, self-esteem, and related terms from an educational and psychological perspective. Specifically, this book is concerned with developing a model of self-concept and corollaries to this model that assesses the dimensionality of self-concept, reviews tests of self-concept, discusses the relationship between self-concept and other variables, particularly achievement, describes the development of self-concept, and evaluates programs to enhance self-concept. Throughout this volume, emphasis is placed on ordering the many studies using recent methodological advances such as meta-analysis and the analysis of covariance structures. After detailing a conceptual model of self-concept, the book offers various experimental and statistical discussions of the model. Unlike many other models, the claim is not that this model is the correct one but that it may serve as a useful coathanger until a better one is devised.

The Moral Psychology of Contempt Michelle Mason, 2018-03-28. The eye roll, the smirk, the unilateral lip curl. These psychologists tell us are typical expressions of contempt. Across cultures, such expressions manifest an emotional response to norm violations among them, moral norms. As such, contempt is of tremendous personal and social significance, whether in the context of a marriage on the rocks or a country in the grips of racial unrest. Scholarship on contempt, however, lags far behind that of other emotional responses to norm violations, such as anger, disgust, and shame. Introducing original work by philosophers and psychologists, this volume addresses empirical questions concerning contempt's emotional, cognitive, and behavioural signature. It invites the general reader to reflect on whether contempt is something to be embraced and cultivated as an emotional safeguard of valued norms, or rather an emotion from which we have good reason, perhaps overriding moral reason, to distance ourselves so far as is psychologically possible. Advancing the nascent literature on contempt while setting future research agendas, the volume is a resource for advanced students and scholars of both empirical and normative moral psychology.
