Teaching Reading in the Secondary Schools Geoff Dean,2013-02-01 Being able to read well is one of the most important literacy requirements in our society It is fundamental to almost all secondary school subjects and the English programme in particular The new Key Stage 3 focus on teaching reading compels us to find exciting ways to engage young people with texts that they will continue with and develop themselves This book outlines several approaches to reading which challenge former classroom practices It is through these approaches that all students from reluctant boys to the most able of either gender can continue to grow as readers and develop their readiness to seek meaning in texts This second edition adds to the original ideas in Geoff Dean s first book and includes new methods of teaching reading including guided reading and using increased grammatical student knowledge Reading and Interpreting the Works of John Steinbeck Gerald

Reading/Teachers' Lives Mary Kay Rummel,1997-01-01 Investigates teachers classroom personal reading histories and how they influence the development of one becoming a resisting reader teacher The premise of this book is important that teachers literacy experiences not only make a difference in their literacy instruction but also in their professional judgment and actions related to curriculum decisions and their resistance to prescribed methods and materials which do not allow children s literacy to flourish The teachers own words in the autobiographical chapters offer powerful testimony supporting approaches to literacy that encourage and support the job of reading and writing rather than pedantic and meaningless curriculum methods that emphasize isolated skills and drills There is currently a backlash against the whole language approach which through the years has had other titles but has always emphasized the creative responsive teaching described in meaningful individual integrated and joyful approaches to the teaching of reading and writing This book could have a positive influence on the current discussions about the teaching of literacy Reading the West Michael
