Market-Driven Politics Colin Leys, 2020-05-05 With the globalisation of the capitalist economy the economic role of national governments is now largely confined to controlling inflation and facilitating home grown market performance This represents a fundamental shift in the relationship between politics and economics it has been particularly marked in Britain but is relevant to many other contexts Market Driven Politics is a multi level study moving between an analysis of global economic forces through national politics to the changes occurring week by week in two fields of public life that are both fundamentally important and familiar to everyone television broadcasting and health care Public services like these play an important role because they both affect the legitimacy of the government and are targets for global capital This book provides an original analysis of the key processes of commodification of public services the conversion of public service workforces into employees motivated to generate profit and the role of the state in absorbing risk Understanding the dynamics of each of these trends becomes critical not just for the analysis of market driven politics but also for the longer term defence of democracy and the collective values on which it depends Movement-Driven Development Christopher L. Gibson, 2019-01-08 In the late twentieth and early twenty first centuries Brazil improved the health and well being of its populace more than any other large democracy in the world Long infamous for its severe inequality rampant infant mortality and clientelist politics the country ushered in an unprecedented twenty five year transformation in its public health institutions and social development outcomes declaring a striking seventy percent reduction in infant mortality rates Thus far the underlying causes for this dramatic shift have been poorly understood In Movement Driven Development Christopher L. Gibson combines rigorous statistical methodology with rich case studies to argue that this transformation is the result of a subnationally rooted process driven by civil society actors namely the Sanitarist Movement He argues that their ability to leverage state level political positions to launch a gradual but persistent attack on health policy implementation enabled them to infuse their social welfare ideology into the practice of Brazil's democracy In so doing Gibson illustrates how local activists can advance progressive social change more than predicted and how in large democracies like Brazil activists can both deepen the quality of local democracy and improve human development outcomes previously thought beyond their control      Local Maladies, Global Remedies Lamprea-Montealegre, Everaldo, 2022-06-16 This forward looking book provides an in depth analysis of the major transformations of the right to health in Latin America over the past decades marked by the turn towards the pharmaceuticalisation of health care Everaldo Lamprea Montealegre investigates how health based litigation has deepened inequalities in the global South exploring the practices of key actors that are reclaiming the right to health in the region

Women, Motherhood and Living with HIV/AIDS Pranee Liamputtong, 2013-03-12 There are about 34 million people worldwide living with HIV AIDS Half are women There has been a dramatic global increase in the rates of women living with HIV AIDS Among young women especially in developing countries infection rates are rapidly increasing Many of these women are also mothers with young infants When a woman is labeled as having HIV she is treated with suspicion and her morality is being questioned Previous research has suggested that women living with HIV AIDS can be affected by delay in diagnosis inferior access to health care services internalized stigma and a poor utilization of health services This makes it extremely difficult for women to take care of their own health needs Women are also reluctant to disclose their HIV positive status as they fear this may result in physical feelings of shame social ostracism violence or expulsion from home Women living with HIV AIDS who are also mothers carry a particularly heavy burden of being HIV infected This unique book attempts to put together results from empirical research and focuses on issues relevant to women motherhood and living with HIV AIDS which have occurred to individual women in different parts of the globe The book comprises chapters written by researchers who carry out their projects in different parts of the world and each chapter contains empirical information based on real life situations This can be used as evidence for health care providers to implement socially and culturally appropriate services to assist individuals and groups who are living with HIV AIDS in many societies The book is of interest to scholars and students in the domains of anthropology sociology social work nursing public health medicine and health professionals who have a specific interest in issues concerning women who are mothers and living with HIV AIDS from cross cultural perspective

Autism in Translation Elizabeth Fein, Clarice Rios, 2018-08-28 Autism is a complex phenomenon that is both individual and social Showing both robust similarities and intriguing differences across cultural contexts the autism spectrum raises innumerable questions about self subjectivity and society in a globalized world Yet it is often misrepresented as a problem of broken bodies and disordered brains So in 2015 a group of interdisciplinary scholars gathered in Rio de Janeiro Brazil for an intellectual experiment a workshop that joined approaches from psychological anthropology to the South American tradition of Collective Health in order to consider autism within social historical and political settings This book is the product of the ongoing conversation emerging from this event It contains a series of comparative histories of autism policy in Italy Brazil and the United States focuses on issues of voice narrative and representation in autism and examines how the concept of autism shapes both individual lives and broader social and economic systems Featuring contributions from Michael Bakan Benilton Bezerra Pamela Block M Ariel Cascio
