Gaile, Cort J. Willmott, 2005 Geography in America at the Dawn of the 21st Century surveys American geographers current research in their specialty areas and tracks trends and innovations in the many subfields of geography As such it is both a state of the discipline assessment and a topical reference It includes an introduction by the editors and 47 chapters each on a specific specialty The authors of each chapter were chosen by their specialty group of the American Association of Geographers AAG Based on a process of review and revision the chapters in this volume have become truly representative of the recent scholarship of American geographers While it focuses on work since 1990 it additionally includes related prior work and work by non American geographers The initial Geography in America was published in 1989 and has become a benchmark reference of American geographical research during the 1980s This latest volume is completely new and features a preface written by the eminent geographer Gilbert White The Rural Richard Munton, 2017-05-15 The rural has long been regarded as an important site of geographical inquiry even if our understanding of it has not always been treated as conceptually different from the urban That said rural research has pursued a number of distinct empirical agendas ranging from the operation and impacts of agribusiness to local resistance to global food supply chains to differing representations of the rural In doing so rural geographers have critically examined the relevance and significance of ideas drawn from numerous traditions including political economy ecological modernization and cultural theory amending them as appropriate in their search to understand the nature and trajectory of rural areas Up until the 1980s attention remained largely focused upon agriculture as the primary land use but increasingly new forms of rural consumption housing recreation nature conservation have taken centre stage as the primacy of local agricultures has been undermined by reduced state protection and new rural populations which have migrated out from the city More recently research has been dominated by the cultural turn with particular emphases upon society nature relations interpretations of landscape marginalised others and analyses of the relations between representation and practice In the last decade a more holistic view of the rural bringing together different aspects of the two previous themes has emerged through more politically oriented studies of rural governance concerned with the functioning of interest groups participation protest and the allocation and management of resources The volume is thus structured into three sections concerned with agriculture and food the rural and rural governance The great majority of the selected papers combine both empirical material often highly informative case studies and important conceptual arguments about change in the rural condition that can be linked to ideas being employed elsewhere in Geography and the Social Sciences more generally These critical reflections have been drawn very largely from research conducted in advanced economies which at least provide some commonality of experience allowing the transfer of ideas between what otherwise might be seen as very differing geographical contexts 21st

Century Geography Joseph P. Stoltman, 2012 This is a theoretical and practical guide on how to undertake and navigate advanced research in the arts humanities and social sciences Proceedings Regional Agro-tourism Conference , Rural Revitalization Through State-led Programs Mingrui Shen, 2020-02-06 This book seeks to unravel the changes in rural governance sparked by state led programs evaluate the programs implementation and refine the interpretation of governance theory with new empirical material from rural China When it comes to rural issues in contemporary China there is no shortage of national strategies from Coordinating Urban Rural Development in 2003 to Rural Revitalization in 2017 the rejuvenation of the countryside has attracted unprecedented policy interest At the same time rural governance has been subject to significant political social and economic changes However comparatively little research has been conducted on the phenomenal reconnection between the state and rural society and our previous understanding of rural governance is no longer adequate As a result of the programs a new model of governance is now emerging in rural China The programs have accelerated the formation of state private farmer partnerships while also promoting the participation of grassroots society in rural reconstruction In the initial stage the state s role is important to securing non governmental sectors engagement However this does not mean that the model guarantees sustainable governance in terms of land tenure reform infrastructure investment and subsidies the programs merely empower farmers and other stakeholders to engage in rural reconstruction The success of these reconstruction efforts ultimately depends on a suitable pricing mechanism for public goods provision as well as the self organization of grassroots society Multifunctional Agriculture Geoffrey Alan Wilson, 2007 In a time of great agricultural and rural change the notion of multifunctionality has remained under theorized and poorly linked to wider debates in the social sciences This book analyses the extent to which the proposed transition towards post productivist agriculture holds up to scientific scrutiny and proposes a modified productivist non productivist model that better encapsulates the complexity of agricultural and rural change By combining existing notions and concepts this book re conceptualizes agricultural change creating a new transition theory and a new way of looking at the future of agriculture
