Beyond Networks - Interlocutory Coalitions, the European and Global Legal Orders Gianluca Sgueo, 2016-04-06 This book explores the activism promoted by organised networks of civil society actors in opening up possibilities for more democratic supranational governance It examines the positive and negative impact that such networks of civil society actors named interlocutory coalitions may have on the convergence of principles of administrative governance across the European legal system and other supranational legal systems The book takes two main controversial aspects into account the first relates to the convergence between administrative rules pertaining to different supranational regulatory systems Traditionally the spread of methods of administrative governance has been depicted primarily against the background of the interactions between the domestic and the supranational arena both from a top down and bottom up perspective However the exploration of interactions occurring at the supranational level between legal regimes is still not grounded on adequate empirical evidence The second controversial aspect considered in this book consists of the role of civil society actors operating at the supranational level In its discussion of the first aspect the book focuses on the relations between the European administrative law and the administrative principles of law pertaining to other supranational regulatory regimes and regulators including the World Bank the International Monetary Fund the World Trade Organization the United Nations the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development the Asian Development Bank and the Council of Europe The examination of the second aspect involves the exploration of the still little examined but crucial role of civil society organised networks in shaping global administrative law. These interlocutory coalitions include NGOs, think tanks, foundations, universities and occasionally activists with no formal connections to civil society organisations. The book describes such interlocutory coalitions as drivers of harmonized principles of participatory democracy at the European and global levels. However, interlocutory coalitions show a number of tensions, e.g. the governability of coalitions, the competition among them that may hamper the impact they have on the reconfiguration of individuals' rights, entitlements and responsibilities in the global arena.

Digital Formations Robert Latham, Saskia Sassen, 2009-09-19. Computer centered networks and technologies are reshaping social relations and constituting new social domains on a global scale from virtually borderless electronic markets and Internet based large scale conversations to worldwide open source software development communities, transnational corporate production systems and the global knowledge arenas associated with NGO networks. This book explores how such digital formations emerge from the ever changing intersection of computer centered technologies and the broad range of social contexts that underlie much of what happens in cyberspace. While viewing technologies fundamentally in social rather than technical terms, Digital Formations nonetheless emphasizes the importance of recognizing the specific technical capacities of digital technologies. Importantly, it identifies digital formations as a new area of study in the social sciences and in thinking about globalization. The ten chapters by leading scholars examine key social, political and economic developments associated with these new configurations of organization, space and interaction. They address the operation of digital formations and their implications for the development of longstanding institutions and for their wider contexts and fields, and they consider the political, economic and other forces shaping those formations and how the formations in turn are shaping such forces. Following a conceptual introduction by the editors, are chapters by Hayward Alker, Jonathan Bach and David Stark, Lars Erik Cederman and Peter A. Kraus, Dieter Ernst, D. Linda Garcia, Doug Guthrie, Robert Latham, Warren Sack, Saskia Sassen and Steven Weber.

Poverty Reduction Strategy in Bangladesh Palash Kamruzzaman, 2014-01-20. This book aimed at postgraduate level students analyzes government relationships with international financial institutions to evaluate the role of citizen participation in formulating national poverty reduction policies. Palash Kamruzzaman first explores the rhetoric of participation in development policies and goes on to examine how such citizen participation efforts were outlined in the Poverty Reduction Strategy Paper of Bangladesh, where local development brokers play an important economic role. Ultimately, he argues that participatory policies are not enough; we need an entire overhaul of poverty reduction thinking and enough political will from citizens and politicians alike to
