Women and Politics in the Third World Haleh Afshar,2005-07-26 Women and Politics in the Third World is the first comprehensive textbook on women's political activities in the third world It provides a feminist analytical perspective on the specific forms of resistance organisation and negotiation by women in third world states Using case studies the book focuses on difference as a theoretical basis for investigating feminine political activism Though Western analysts have attributed weakness to terms such as motherhood marriage and domesticity as choices made by non Western women the contributors show that such strategies are used by women to pursue particular goals such as seeking resources welfare or freedom from oppression for their children These strategies the book suggests should not be classified as unimportant or temporary and can be highly effective even within such discourses as Islamic fundamentalism The contributors highlight differing political approaches in regions as diverse as Latin America South East Asia China and the Middle East

Higher Education, Meritocracy and Inequality in China Ye Liu, 2016-10-08 This book investigates the changing opportunities in higher education for different social groups during China's transition from the socialist regime to a market economy The first part of the book provides a historical and comparative analysis of the development of the idea of meritocracy since its early origins in China and in more recent western thought The second part then explores higher education reforms in China the part played by supposedly meritocratic forms of selection and the implications of these for social mobility Based on original empirical data Ye Liu sheds light on the socio economic gender and geographical inequalities behind the meritocratic facade of the Gaokao Liu argues that the Chinese philosophical belief in education based meritocracy had a modern makeover in the Gaokao and that this ideology induces working class and rural students to believe in upward social mobility through higher education When the Gaokao broke the promise of status improvement for rural students they turned to the Chinese Communist Party and sought political connections by actively applying for its membership This book reveals a bleak picture of visible and invisible inequality in terms of access to and participation in higher education in contemporary China Written in an accessible style it offers a valuable resource for researchers and non specialist readers alike

Western Perspectives on Chinese Higher Education Xiuwu R. Liu, 1996 This book argues that constructivism and realism two prominent theories of scholarly inquiry in a variety of fields both have their strengths and weaknesses as descriptive models of how research is conducted and written up and as normative models for improving inquiry

Obedient Autonomy Erika E.S. Evasdottir, 2007-10-01 In the west the idea of autonomy is often associated with a sense of freedom a self interested state of being unfettered by rules or obligations to others This original anthropological study explores a type of obedient autonomy that thrives on setbacks blossoms as more rules are imposed and flourishes in adversity Obedient Autonomy analyzes this model and explains its precepts through examining the specialized and highly organized discipline of archaeology in China The book follows Chinese students on their journey to becoming full fledged archaeologists in a bureaucracy saturated environment Often required to travel in teams to the countryside archaeologists are uniquely obliged to overcome divisions among themselves between themselves and their peasant workers and between themselves and bureaucratic officials This analysis reveals how these interactions provide teachers of archaeology with stories used to foster obedient autonomy in their students Moreover it demonstrates how this form of autonomy enables a person to order and control their future careers in what appears to be a disorderly and uncertain world A masterly contextualization of archaeology in China Obedient Autonomy shows how the discipline has accommodated itself to a Chinese social structure and uncovers the moral ethical political and economic underpinnings of that context It will be accessible to students of anthropology even as it will provoke Euro American archaeologists and interest social theorists of science philosophers gender theorists and students of Chinese society

The Implementation of Inclusive Education in Beijing Kai Yu,2014-02-27 The education implementation process in China remains uncharted by researchers The Implementation of Inclusive Education in Beijing Exorcizing the Haunting Specter of Meritocracy puts forth a general theory on China s education programs encompassing policy processes actions and interactions and grounded on the views of street level bureaucrats in China Kai Yu investigates these processes and presents teachers reflections on the change process as well as implementation stories from four Beijing schools He reports on their attitudes their beliefs and their pedagogical practices for implementing the innovative education program Yu argues that the imperatives of meritocratic ideology have undermined the detracking policy and its practice The strength of a program of change rests not so much on the power of the ideas purposes and values as on the reinterpretation of the implementers based on their personal understandings of institution and practice
