

A close-up photograph of an elderly couple smiling warmly at the camera. The woman, on the left, has short grey hair and is wearing a light yellow shirt. The man, on the right, has a mustache and is also wearing a light yellow shirt. They are outdoors, with a blurred background of green foliage and a white bird, possibly a dove, in flight. A semi-transparent grey banner is overlaid on the left side of the image, containing the title and subtitle text.

Albright, Julia W. Albright, 2003-06-16 The preparation of Aging Immunity and Infection has been a labor of labor When we began there existed a huge literature but manageable we thought given our years of experience in the area often referred to as immunogerontology However in the time that we have been at work the new relevant literature has increased at a prodigious rate The more we read and tried to assimilate the farther we fell behind In order to have any hope of completing a book on this rapidly evolving topic we have been forced to become increasingly selective in covering new and recent publications We dare to hope that many readers will find the book useful and only a few will dwell on the inevitable inadequacies We consider the book a work in progress and welcome suggestions for future editions Five chapters cover several aspects of infection and the decline of immunity with age The first chapter Human Aging Present and Future is devoted to demographics and theories of senescence Chapter 2 outlines the gradual breakdown of resistance to infection in the aged individual Chapters 3 and 4 cover changes in innate and acquired immunity The final chapter Nutrition Longevity and Integrity of the Immune System discusses such provocative ideas as life span extension and nutritional intervention for the delay of immunosenescence Infectious Diseases of the Respiratory Tract Michael E. Ellis, 1998-02-12 A comprehensive and highly illustrated resource of multidisciplinary information and practical advice The Aging Lungs Richard Bucala, Patty J.
