Beyond restoration ecology: social perspectives in Latin America and the Caribbean Eliane Ceccon & Daniel Roberto Pérez, 2017-09-05. This book invites us to reflect on the restoration of terrestrial ecosystems in the context of a region whose identity is still under construction. Latin America and the Caribbean are immersed in a social, economic, ecological and political crisis whose roots originate historically and politically in colonialism and in the prevailing model of capital accumulation. For the first time, insights and practical experiences on restoration are gathered from most Latin American and Caribbean countries. Furthermore, this book offers a social approach to restoration which will likely become preponderant in this field and in this region. The authors claim that a Latin American knowledge of restoration is under construction and that this discipline can be a significant tool to empower local populations which might in turn lead to a collective action of change. Case studies from 11 countries of the region were compiled involving multiple voices that emerge beyond generalist principles and with a bottom-up approach. The main idea of the book is to open a debate about the identity of ecological and social restoration in this region. This book is targeted to restoration specialists, volunteers, environmental managers, researchers, politicians and NGOs working on the complexity of socioecological restoration in a region with unavoidable social problems. It is intended for people with similar concerns to those of the chapters' authors. This work tries to integrate a movement on the rise, almost silent, born with its own narratives of successes and failures that do not hinder its development. Finally, the determination and commitment of Latin American and Caribbean social actors to restore not only natural values but also social, ethical and cultural ones is remarkable.
