Roman London:

Londinium: A Biography Richard Hingley, 2018-08-23 Winner of the PROSE Award 2019 for Classics This major new work on Roman London brings together the many new discoveries of the last generation and provides a detailed overview of the city from before its foundation in the first century to the fifth century AD Richard Hingley explores the archaeological and historical evidence for London under the Romans assessing the city in the context of its province and the wider empire He explores the multiple functions of Londinium over time considering economy industry trade status and urban infrastructure but also looking at how power status gender and identity are reflected through the materiality of the terrain and waterscape of the evolving city A particular focus of the book is the ritual and religious context in which these activities occurred Hingley looks at how places within the developing urban landscape were inherited and considers how the history and meanings of Londinium built upon earlier associations from its recent and ancient past As well as drawing together a much needed synthesis of recent scholarship and material evidence Hingley offers new perspectives that will inspire future debate and research for years to come This volume not only provides an accessible introduction for undergraduate students and anyone interested in the ancient city of London but also an essential account for more advanced students and scholars

The Origin of Roman London Lacey M. Wallace, 2014 Drawing on both published and archived archaeological evidence this copiously illustrated book revolutionises our understanding of early Roman London Roman London Ralph Merrifield, 1969

Roman London Dominic Perring, 2002-11-01 First Published in 2004 Precious little of Roman London survives and the destruction of Roman levels continues fast as new office foundations are sunk ever deeper into ancient levels In recent years the close attention of the archaeologists of the Museum of London encouraged by the cooperation of City developers has allowed the detailed recording of much that is being lost In just four years from 1986 to 1989 work was started on about 200 archaeological sites in the City and many others were dug in the neighbouring boroughs Every year a mountain of new information and material is added to the stores of the Museum of London The first purpose of this book is to bring together as much as possible of this new information in the hope that it will allow progress to be assessed and new questions asked
