Roman Countryside:

Villa to Village Riccardo Francovich, Richard Hodges, 2003-09-25 Villa to Village challenges the historical view that hilltop villages in Italy were first founded in the tenth century Drawing upon recent excavations the authors show that the makings of the medieval village lie in the demise of the Roman villa in late antiquity The book describes the lively debate between archaeologists and historians on this issue It also examines the evidence for the first manorial villages of the Carolingian era and describes how these were transformed into the familiar feudal villages that are characteristic of much of Italy Useful maps plans and reconstructions illustrate this useful text

The Roman Countryside Stephen L. Dyson, 2003-08-21

Stephen Dyson provides a new synthesis describing current research on the Roman countryside with a topological framework Focusing on areas where some of the most innovative rural research has been conducted he discusses what happened during the period of transition

Constructing Communities in the Late Roman Countryside Cam Grey, 2011-08-25

This book is the first comprehensive treatment of the small politics of rural communities in the Late Roman world It places the diverse fates of those communities within a generalized model for exploring rural social systems Fundamentally social interactions in rural contexts in the period revolved around the desire of individual households to insure themselves against catastrophic subsistence failure and the need of the communities in which they lived to manage the attendant social tensions inequalities and conflicts A focus upon the politics of reputation in those communities provides a striking contrast to the picture painted by the legislation and the writings of Rome's literate elite when viewed from the point of view of the peasantry issues such as the Christianization of the countryside the emergence of new types of patronage relations and the effects of the new system of taxation upon rural social structures take on a different aspect

The Countryside in the Roman Empire Allison

Lane, 2016-12-15 Even at the empire's peak the majority of ancient Rome's population lived in rural areas The Countryside in the Roman Empire takes a look at the lives of farmers slaves women and children who worked the land to provide food for the entirety of Rome This book includes descriptions of the villages farms and army outposts that served as the backbone of the empire

Slavery in the Late Roman World, AD 275-425 Kyle Harper, 2011-05-12 Capitalizing on the rich historical record of late antiquity and employing sophisticated methodologies from social and economic history this book reinterprets the end of Roman slavery Kyle Harper challenges traditional interpretations of a transition from antiquity to the Middle Ages arguing instead that a deep divide runs through late antiquity separating the Roman slave system from its early medieval successors In the process he covers the economic social and institutional dimensions of ancient slavery and presents the most comprehensive analytical treatment of a pre modern slave system now available By scouring the late antique record he has uncovered a wealth of new material providing fresh insights into the ancient slave system including slavery's role in agriculture and textile production its relation to sexual exploitation and the dynamics of social honor By demonstrating the vitality of slavery into the later Roman empire the author shows that Christianity triumphed amidst a genuine slave society

Tribe and Polity in Late Prehistoric Europe D. Blair Gibson,M.N. Geselowitz,2013-11-11 During HaA HaB many settlements were established in Silesia and in the central part of Poland and their stability seems to be confirmed by the existence of regional groups and subgroups by long lasting colonies and by long used burial grounds located at large settlements At the end of HaB many pre Scythian elements occurred in this area only partly influenced by the Cimmerians During that period the peoples living north of the Carpathian and Sudeten Mountains remained very dependent on the productive and cultural circle south of the Carpathians with which they maintained strong connections The Lusatian settlement zone apart from its increasing internal stability also tended to extend its range A partition of the Lusatian Culture which had appeared earlier became more pronounced under the strong influence of the East Hallstatt cultural and productive center in the eastern Alpine region and the so called amber route The eastern zone of the Lusatian Culture remained under the influence of the Carpathian center while the western zone was strongly influenced by the pre Celtic Bylanska or Horakowska and northern Illyrian Calon denberian cultures In HaD2 ca 520 500 B C this latter area was the site of an armed incursion of Scythian groups coming from the east through the Karpacka Valley The most characteristic features of the western zone include its own varieties of more general Hallstatt traits such as fortified settlements which date from HaA in the Lusatian Culture production of iron done domestically since HaD and decorated pottery

Back to the Garden James H. S. McGregor,2015-02-10 The garden was the cultural foundation of the early Mediterranean peoples they acknowledged their reliance on and kinship to the land and they understood nature through the lens of their diversely cultivated landscape Their image of the garden underwrote the biblical book of Genesis and the region s three major religions In this important melding of cultural and ecological histories James H S McGregor suggests that the environmental crisis the world faces today is a result of Western society s abandonment of the First Nature principle of the harmonious interrelationship of human communities and the natural world The author demonstrates how this relationship which persisted for millennia effectively came to an end in the late eighteenth century when nature came to be equated with untamed landscape devoid of human intervention McGregor's essential work offers a new understanding of environmental accountability while proposing that recovering the original vision of ourselves not as antagonists of nature but as cultivators of a biological world to which we innately belong is possible through proven techniques of the past Italian Historical Rural Landscapes Mauro Agnoletti, 2012-12-09 Sustainable development and rural policies have pursued strategies where farming has been often regarded as a factor deteriorating the ecosystem But the current economic social and environmental problems of the Earth probably call for examples of a positive integration between human society and nature This research work presents more than a hundred case studies where the historical relationships between man and nature have generated not deterioration but cultural environmental social and economic values The results show that is not only the economic face of globalization that is negatively affecting the landscape but also inappropriate environmental policies The CBD UNESCO program on biocultural diversity the FAO Globally Important Agricultural Heritage Systems and several projects of the International Union of Forest Research Organizations as well as European rural policies acknowledge the importance of cultural values associated to landscape This research intends to support these efforts World History Encyclopedia [21 volumes] Alfred J. Rivet, 2024-08-28 The Roman Villa in Britain 1969 is a comprehensive examination of Roman villas in Romano Britain in a series of essays by six specialists H C Bowen well known for his work on early field systems examines the evidence for the native Celtic agriculture which was practised in pre Roman Britain and continued to form the basis of the country's economy after the conquest The ground plans of the villas and their implications are discussed by Sir Ian Richmond while David Smith considers the mosaic pavements both as implications of the wealth of their owners and as evidence for the existence of distinct local schools of mosaicists Joan Liversidge deals with internal decoration and furnishing A L F Rivet reflects on the social and economic implications of the changing fortunes of the villas and Graham Webster discusses the future of villa studies from the standpoint of the modern excavator

English Landscapes and Identities Chris Gosden, Chris Green, Anwen Cooper, Miranda Creswell, Victoria Donnelly, Tyler Franconi, Roger Glyde, Zena Kamash, Sarah Mallet, Laura Morley, Daniel Stansbie, Letty ten Harkel, 2021-05-06 Long before the Norman Conquest of 1066 England saw periods of profound change that transformed the landscape and the identities of those who occupied it The Bronze and Iron Ages saw the introduction of now familiar animals and plants such as sheep horses wheat and oats as well as new forms of production and exchange and the first laying out of substantial fields and trackways which continued into the earliest Romano British landscapes The Anglo Saxon period saw the creation of new villages based around church and manor with ridge and furrow cultivation strips still preserved today The basis for this volume is The English Landscapes and Identities project which synthesised all the major available sources of information on English archaeology to examine this crucial period of landscape history from the middle Bronze Age c 1500 BC to the Domesday survey c 1086 AD It looks at the nature of archaeological work undertaken across England to assess its strengths and weaknesses when writing long term histories Among many other topics it examines the interaction of ecology and human action in shaping the landscape issues of movement across the landscape in various periods changing forms of food over time an understanding of spatial scale and questions of enclosing and naming the landscape culminating in a discussion of the links between landscape and identity The result is the first comprehensive account of the English landscape over a crucial 2500 year period It also offers a celebration of many centuries of archaeological work especially the intensive large scale investigations that have taken place since the 1960s and transformed our understanding of England's past

Settlement, Urbanization, and Population Alan Bowman, Andrew Wilson, 2011-12-22 A collection of essays presenting new analyses of data and evidence for population and settlement patterns particularly urbanization in the Mediterranean world from 100 BC to AD 350

Rural Settlements and Society in Anglo-Saxon England Helena Hamerow, 2012-07-05 The first major synthesis of the evidence for Anglo Saxon settlements from across England and throughout the Anglo Saxon period and a study of what it reveals about the communities who built and lived in them

Late Ancient Knowing Catherine Michael Chin, Moulie Vidas, 2015-05-02 In this collection of essays scholars from a range of disciplines explore the activity of knowing in late antiquity by focusing on thirteen major concepts from the intellectual social political and cultural history of the period They ask two questions about each of these concepts what did late ancient people know about them and how was that knowledge expressed in people's actions Late Ancient Knowing integrates intellectual history post structuralist literary theory and recent trends in cognitive science to examine the ways that historical thought worlds both shaped individual lives and were in turn shaped by the actions of individuals Each chapter treats its main concept as a problem both of knowledge and of practice or behavior The result is a richly imagined description of how people of this time understood and navigated their world from travel through the countryside and encounters with demons to philosophical medicine and the etiquette of imperial courts

The Village in Antiquity and the Rise of Early Christianity Alan Cadwallader, James R.

Harrison, Angela Standhartinger, L. L. Welborn, 2023-12-28 A complete geographical and thematic overview of the village in antiquity and its role in the rise of Christianity The volume begins with a state of question introduction by Thomas Robinson assessing the interrelation of the village and city with the rise of early Christianity Alan Cadwallader then articulates a methodology for future New Testament studies on this topic employing a series of case studies to illustrate the methodological issues raised From there contributors explore three areas of village life in different geographical areas by means of a series of studies written by experts in each discipline They discuss the ancient near east Egypt and Israel mainland and Isthmian Greece Asia Minor and the Italian Peninsula This geographic focus sheds light upon the villages associated with the biblical cities Israel Corinth Galatia Ephesus Philippi Thessalonica Rome including potential insights into the rural nature of the churches located there A final section of thematic studies explores central issues of local village life indigenous and imperial cults funerary culture and agricultural and economic life

Parisi Peter Halkon, 2013-10-01 The Parisi were a tribe located somewhere within the present day East Riding of Yorkshire UK known from a brief reference by Ptolemy They were originally immigrants from Gaul and share their name with the tribe that occupied modern day France Fairly obvious from their name they gave the French capital its name The investigation of the Parisi began in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries following the trend for antiquarian exploration elsewhere in Britain Before that the remains of Roman buildings encountered in medieval East Yorkshire were treated with little respect and used as a resource The Parisi tells this captivating story of the history of the archaeology of The Parisi from the initial investigations in the sixteenth century right through to modern day investigations
