Romance En Cuba:

Sexual Revolutions in Cuba Carrie Hamilton, 2012 Chronicling the history of sexuality in Cuba since the 1959 revolution this book frames the relationship between passion and politics in the revolution's wider history and argues that the Cuban revolutionary regime intervened in the sexual lives of Cubans in a variety of ways and transformed key areas of Cuban life including the family reproduction sexual values and sexual relationships Drawing from a major oral history project the Memories of the Revolution oral history project conducted by a team of British and Cuban researchers Hamilton was one of the British researchers on the team between 2003 and 2007 Hamilton explores the experiences and perceptions of sexuality among Cubans across generations and social groups She contextualizes the oral histories within an array of archival and secondary sources relating them to issues of race class and gender as well as to social economic and political change Organized thematically the volume opens with a historical overview that points out that after 1959 revolutionary values continued to coexist with pre revolutionary ideologies in a potent and often contradictory mix Succeeding chapters examine discourse on love romance and passion on both personal and national levels male and female homosexuality sexual repression and changing gender roles and service to the revolution Hamilton explores conflicting notions of Cuba as a site of desire on the one hand and as a place of intense sexual repression especially with regard to homosexuality on the other She identifies many ways in which revolutionary policy affected sexual behavior including changes to policy and laws mass education programs leaders pronouncements on the relationship between good revolutionaries and private life and the provision of incentives to encourage certain forms of sexual union and repressive measures to discourage and punish others Hamilton argues that sexual politics were central to the construction of a new revolutionary society

Race, Romance, and Rebellion Colleen C. O'Brien, 2013-10-07 As in many literatures of the New World grappling with issues of slavery and freedom stories of racial insurrection frequently coincided with stories of cross racial romance in nineteenth century U S print culture Colleen O'Brien explores how authors such as Harriet Jacobs Elizabeth Livermore and Gertrudis Gomez de Avellaneda imagined the expansion of race and gender based rights as a hemispheric affair drawing together the United States with Africa Cuba and other parts of the Caribbean Placing less familiar women writers in conversation with their more famous contemporaries Ralph Waldo Emerson Margaret Fuller and Lydia Maria Child O'Brien traces the transnational progress of freedom through the antebellum cultural fascination with cross racial relationships and insurrections Her book mines a variety of sources fiction political rhetoric popular journalism race science and biblical treatises to reveal a common concern a future in which romance and rebellion engender radical social and political transformation

Cuba's Racial Crucible Karen Y. Morrison, 2015-05-26 This prize winning study examines the historical interplay of racial identity nationality and family formation in Cuba from the 18th century to today Since the 19th century there have been two opposing perspectives on Cuban racial identity one that frames Cubans as white and one that sees them as racially mixed based on acceptance of African descent For the past two centuries these competing views of have remained in continuous tension while Cuban women and men make their own racially oriented decisions about choosing partners and family formation Cuba's Racial Crucible explores the historical dynamics of Cuban race relations by highlighting the role race has played in reproductive practices and genealogical memories associated with family formation Karen Y Morrison reads archival oral history and literary sources to demonstrate the ideological centrality and inseparability of race nation and family in definitions of Cuban identity Morrison also analyzes the conditions that supported the social advance and decline of notions of white racial superiority nationalist projections of racial hybridity and pride in African descent Winner NECLAS Marissa Navarro Best Book Prize Cuba's Romantic Poet Frederick Sparks Stimson,1964

Pérez Jr.,2012-09-01 With this masterful work Louis A P rez Jr transforms the way we view Cuba and its relationship with the United States On Becoming Cuban is a sweeping cultural history of the sustained encounter between the peoples of the two countries and of the ways that this encounter helped shape Cubans identity nationality and sense of modernity from the early 1850s until the revolution of 1959 Using an enormous range of Cuban and U S sources from archival records and oral interviews to popular magazines novels and motion pictures P rez reveals a powerful web of everyday bilateral connections between the United States and

Cuba and shows how U S cultural forms had a critical influence on the development of Cubans sense of themselves as a people and as a nation He also articulates the cultural context for the revolution that erupted in Cuba in 1959 In the middle of the twentieth century Prez argues when economic hard times and political crises combined to make Cubans painfully aware that their American influenced expectations of prosperity and modernity would not be realized the stage was set for revolution

The Tourism Encounter Florence Babb,2010-08-30 In recent decades several Latin American nations have experienced political transitions that have caused a decline in tourism In spite of or even because of that history these areas are again becoming popular destinations This work reveals that in post conflict nations tourism often takes up where social transformation leaves off and sometimes benefits from formerly off limits status Comparing cases in Cuba Mexico Nicaragua and Peru Babb shows how tourism is a major force in remaking transitional nations While tourism touts scenic beauty and colonial charm it also capitalizes on the desire for a brush with recent revolutionary history In the process selective histories are promoted and nations remade This work presents the diverse stories of those linked to the trade and reveals how interpretations of the past and desires for the future coincide and collide in the global marketplace of tourism
