many other forms of loving interaction we live in a time when relationships between two or more people it seems need more understanding and more accurate research However studying love scientifically is a hard task because of methodological difficulties and conceptual improprieties intrinsically related to this type of investigation Because it can be considered such a familiar concept many researchers should agree on what love is and how it can be measured But this is not what occurs After all what is love Is it as a psychological phenomenon capable of being scientifically studied by psychology The goal of this Research Topic is to Promote and disseminate publications related to what is conceived scientifically as the Psychology of Love differing from conceptions related to self help and common sense Conceptualize love through psychological science Systematize knowledge about the nature of love and related phenomena such as jealousy shyness inhibition infidelity and other related topics Understand conceptualizations of love and relationship dynamics of people in monogamous and consensually non monogamous relationships Research the establishment and maintenance of romantic relationships and try to understand scientifically the role of love in marital satisfaction

Identity in Culture and Society Ncube conceptualises twin identity as a multi layered dynamic that changes through performance and explores twin identity through a social constructionist approach Until now mainstream twin studies have mostly sought to explain social phenomena about twins from inside the person providing their explanations in terms of internal entities such as personality structures with an obvious underlying essentialist assumption By examining the theories of Michel Foucault and Judith Butler Ncube shows that the identity of twins is managed in both an academic and cultural context and in relation to specific audiences Relocating the explanations that we gather in social research including in qualitative research in psychology the book focuses its enquiry on the social practices and interactions that people engage in with each other not delving inside the person Using real world twin accounts the book maps out the social construction of twin identity and allows for the twins own voices to be examined in relation to twin experiences Also addressing aspects of being misunderstood as well as the idea of misunderstanding oneself this is fascinating reading for students and researchers in critical and cultural psychology and anyone interested in twin studies
