Geographies of the Romantic North A. Byrne, 2013-08-28 This book examines British scientific and antiquarian travels in the North circa 1790 1830 British perceptions representations and imaginings of the North are considered part of late eighteenth and early nineteenth century processes of British self fashioning as a Northern nation and key in unifying the expanding North Atlantic empire The Romantic Revolution in America: 1800-1860 Vernon Louis Parrington, 2017-07-12 The development of literature between 1800 and 1860 in the United States was heavily influenced by two wars The War of 1812 hastened the development of nineteenth century ideals and the Civil War uprooted certain growths of those vigorous years The half century between these dramatic episodes was a period of extravagant vigor the final outcome being the emergence of a new middle class Parrington argues that America was becoming a new world with undreamed potential This new era was no longer content with the ways of a founding generation The older America of colonial days had been static rationalistic inclined to pessimism and fearful of innovation During the years between the Peace of Paris 1763 and the end of the War of 1812 older America was dying The America that emerged which is the focal point of this volume was a shifting restless world eager to better itself bent on finding easier roads to wealth than the plodding path
