Romantic Readers and Transatlantic Travel Robin Jarvis, 2016-04-08 Why and how did people read literature on North America by explorers travellers emigrants and tourists This is the central question Robin Jarvis takes up as he addresses a significant gap in scholarship on travel writing its contemporary reception Referencing reviews in the periodical press personal journals letters autobiographies marginalia and bibliographical evidence relating to the production distribution and reception of travel literature Jarvis focuses especially on the ideas and perceptions of North America expressed by individuals who never visited the subcontinent Among the issues Jarvis explores are what the British reception of North American travel narratives says about the ways in which the United States was imagined in the Romantic period how poets such as Samuel Taylor Coleridge Felicia Hemans Robert Southey and William Wordsworth all voracious travel readers incorporated their readings of travel books into their works and the ways in which the reception of North American travel writing should be contextualized within the broader contours of British society and culture Significantly Jarvis differentiates between different communities of readers to show the extent to which class or professional status affected the way travel literature was read Of equally crucial importance he discusses the reception of travel literature on Canada and the Arctic as distinct from that on the United States His book constitutes the most thorough exploration to date of the private reading experiences of travel literature during the Romantic period

Science in the Romantic Era David Knight,2016-03-31 First published in 1998 The Romantic Era was a time when society religion and other beliefs and science were all in flux The idea that the universe was a great clock and that men were little clocks all built by a divine watchmaker was giving way to a more dynamic and pantheistic way of thinking A new language was invented for chemistry replacing metaphor with algebra and scientific illustration came to play the role of a visual language deeply involved with theory A scientific community came gradually into being as the 19th century wore on The papers which compose this book have appeared in a wide range of books and journals together with the new introduction they illuminate science and its context in the Romantic Era and follow its effects in the 19th century Imperial Eden

Robert Ratcliffe Taylor,2014-11-14 Imperial Eden is a collection of poems written mainly by citizens of Victoria British Columbia in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries about that city Established in 1843 as a Hudsons Bay Company trading post Victoria became the capital of the province in 1866 Before the opening of the Panama Canal and the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway however its inhabitants were relatively isolated from the rest of North America The citys beautiful location and its semi Mediterranean climate inspired visitors locals and poets to describe it as a paradise But this remote Eden surrounded by mountains forest and the sea was deeply loyal to Great Britain believing that its far flung empire was the repository of freedom and many civic and moral virtues As well local writers exhibited a militarism usually associated with Prussia Eager to defend the British Empire many of its citizens enthusiastically supported England in the remote South African War 1899 1902 and volunteered for service in the Great War 1914 18 Both wars were seen as a defence of decency and civilization embodied by Britain This book shows how local poets lauded the beauty the Britishness of Victoria and the imperial connection but also how confronted with the realities of modern warfare their loyalty to the Empire waned c 1920 The Best Places to Kiss in the Northwest (and the Canadian Southwest) Paula Begoun,1990 The Best
