Roots Of The Earth Crops In The Highlands Of Papua New Guinea:

Roots of the Earth Paul Sillitoe, 1983 Science in the Forest, Science in the Past Geoffrey E. R. Lloyd, Aparecida Vilaça, 2020-12-31 This collection brings together leading anthropologists historians philosophers and artificial intelligence researchers to discuss the sciences and mathematics used in various Eastern Western and Indigenous societies both ancient and contemporary The authors analyze prevailing assumptions about these societies and propose more faithful sensitive analyses of their ontological views about reality a step toward mutual understanding and translatability across cultures and research fields Science in the Forest Science in the Past is a pioneering interdisciplinary exploration that will challenge the way readers interested in sciences mathematics humanities social research computer sciences and education think about deeply held notions of what constitutes reality how it is apprehended and how to investigate it Managing Animals in New Guinea Paul Sillitoe, 2004-06-02 Managing Animals in New Guinea analyzes the place of animals in the lives of New Guinea Highlanders Looking at issues of zoological classification hunting of wild animals and management of domesticated ones notably pigs it asks how natural parameters affect people s livelihood strategies and their relations with animals and the wider environment Environment and Development Amitava Mukherjee, V. K. Agnihotri, 1993 Contributed articles The Social Life of Trees Laura Rival, 2021-03-10 The passionate response of the British public to the Newbury Bypass is a revealing measure of how strongly people feel about trees and the environment Similarly in the United States the giant sequoia of California is an enduring national symbol that inspires intense feelings As rainforests are sacrificed to the interests of multi national corporations and traditional ways of life disappear the status of forests the cultural significance of trees and the impact of conservation policies are subjects that have inspired intense engagement Why do people feel so strongly about trees With this explosion of interest in environmental issues a serious study of what trees mean to people has long been overdue This interdisciplinary book responds to this need by providing the first cross cultural analysis of tree symbolism Drawing on rich case studies contributors explore the processes through which trees are used as metaphors of identity and continuity Political struggles over forest resources feature prominently and the perceptions of trees in various cultures provide telling insights into the ways in which human societies conceptualize nature As well as being a major contribution to the field of symbolic anthropology this comprehensive study will be essential reading for students in a wide range of courses and for anyone with a keen interest in the politics of ecology the occult and neo paganism and the history and sociology of environmentalism in its widest sense Pueraria Wing Ming Keung, 2002-08-08 Traditionally pueraria has been utilized by traditional Chinese medicine practitioners to treat hangovers allergies indigestion diabetes and angina as well as neck and shoulder pain thirst and fever A more recent study showed that both daidzin and daidzein may be useful in reducing the urge for alcohol and treating alcoholism This comprehe From Land to Mouth Paul Sillitoe, 2010-01-01 After 35 years of research in the New Guinea Highlands esteemed anthropologist Paul Sillitoe offers a comparison of the apparently incomparable our capitalist economy to the subsistence cum exchange order of the Wola people in the Was Valley This is a seminal work intent on reinstating certain core values in anthropological scholarship Landscape, Process and Power Serena Heckler, 2009-04-01 In recent years the field of study variously called local indigenous or traditional environmental knowledge TEK has experienced a crisis brought about by the questioning of some of its basic assumptions This has included reassessing notions that scientific methods can accurately elicit and describe TEK or that incorporating it into development projects will improve the physical social or economic well being of marginalized peoples The contributors to this volume argue that to accurately and appropriately describe TEK the historical and political forces that have shaped it as well as people's day to day engagement with the landscape around them must be taken into account TEK thus emerges not as an easily translatable tool for development experts but as a rich and complex element of contemporary lives that should be defined and managed by indigenous and local peoples themselves Development and Local Knowledge Alan Bicker, Paul Sillitoe, Johan Pottier, 2004 There is a revolution happening in the practice of anthropology A new field of indigenous knowledge is emerging which aims to make local voices heard and ensure that development initiatives meet the needs of indigenous people Development and Local Knowledge focuses on two major challenges that arise in the discussion of indigenous knowledge its proper definition and the methodologies appropriate to the exploitation of local knowledge These concerns are addressed in a range of ethnographic contexts Ecology of a Tool Pierre Perequin, Anne-Marie Petrequin, 2020-04-30 New Guinea and especially Papua New Guinea is the last country in the world where ethnologists were able to closely observe film and photograph the whole manufacturing chain of polished stone felling tools from quarry extraction to finished tool use Research on the polished blades of PNG has evolved over the years following changing philosophies and research agendas While it is clear that an exceptional sum of information has been gathered it remains centered on that small part of the Highlands where conditions for field research were more pleasant than elsewhere This presentation of Irian Jaya axes therefore tackles a topic that remains mostly unexplored Until now stone tool research in New Guinea has followed an anthropocentric approach in which tools are seen more as vectors for social exchanges than as means of acting on the environment This monograph takes a different approach Here polished stone blades are placed at the center of the world between on one side the transformed natural environment and on the other the social and economic environment This approach allows for a suggestion of new avenues of inference in archaeology as well as to test and abandon existing ones In this volume the stone blade is considered as a living being existing in balance within its biotope This idea is not far removed from the beliefs of Irian Jaya farmers for whom life animates certain objects of their material culture Following a brief presentation of Irian Jaya the function of polished stone blades in Irian Jaya societies and the distribution of hafting styles is described defined and studied along with the quarrying zones and the areas of diffusion and use of their production The different trends in each area of polished blade production and exchanges are also noted Finally it concludes with a discussion of the ethnoarchaeological potential of these contemporary observations Ancestors for the Pigs Sarah M. Nelson, 1998-01-29 This book brings together several new ways of thinking about pigs in the past creating a dialogue by drawing on several kinds of approaches from geography ethnography zoology history and archaeology to enrich the way we all understand the evidence found in archaeological sites MASCA Research Papers in Science and Archaeology 15 CRC World Dictionary of Palms Umberto Quattrocchi, 2017-08-03 From the Foreword Umberto Quattrocchi has brought us some amazing and useful works through the various dictionaries that he has compiled This time it is for two very important plant families the palms and the cycads that are synthesized here in these two volumes Each entry is fascinating not just for the botany and full nomenclature of the plant species but for all the associated uses folklore and interactions with other organisms These entries are fascinating glimpses of natural history Botanists conservationists ethnobotanists anthropologists geographers bird watchers naturalists historians and those of many other disciplines will find these volumes a most valuable and useful resource It is the sort of book that will be in frequent use in my library Professor Sir Ghilleen Prance FRS VMH Former Director Royal Botanic Gardens Kew Following the same format as Umberto Quattrocchi's highly praised and well used previous works The CRC World Dictionary of Palms Common Names Scientific Names Eponyms Synonyms and Etymology brings together the vast and scattered literature on palms and cycads to provide better access to information on these economically important plants Each genus and species has a detailed morphological description and includes a list of synonyms and vernacular names in many languages Bibliographies accompany each entry which are comprehensive up to date and multi lingual The detailed information for every entry on habitats economic uses historical and biographical data botanical exploration and linguistics will be useful for any library involved with botany herbal medicine pharmacognosy medicinal and natural product chemistry ecology ethnobotany systematics general plant science agriculture or horticulture Umberto Quattrocchi is the author of the bestselling CRC World Dictionary of Plant Names winner of the prestigious Hanbury Botanical Garden Award His most recent multi volume work CRC World Dictionary of Medicinal and Poisonous Plants received strong praise as being an unparalleled starting place a tool of first resort for any thoughtful researcher Quattrocchi and CRC have delivered a dictionary like no other a learned finger pointing in the right direction John de la Parra Northeastern University Boston Massachusetts USA from Economic Botany Vol 68 2014 From Foragers to Farmers Ehud Weiss, 2009-08-01 This volume celebrates the career of archaeobotanist Professor Gordon C Hillman Twenty eight papers cover a wide range of topics reflecting the great influence that Hillman has had in the field of archaeobotany Many of his favourite research topics are covered the body of the text being split into four sections Personal reflections on Professor Hillman's career archaeobotanical theory and method ethnoarchaeological and cultural studies and ancient plant use from sites and regions around the world The collection demonstrates as Gordon Hillman believes that the study of archaeobotany is not only valuable but vital for any study of humanity The Routledge Handbook of Indigenous Environmental

Knowledge Thomas F. Thornton, Shonil A. Bhagwat, 2020-11-29 This volume provides an overview of key themes in Indigenous Environmental Knowledge IEK and anchors them with brief but well grounded empirical case studies of relevance for each of these themes drawn from bioculturally diverse areas around the world It provides an incisive cutting edge overview of the conceptual and philosophical issues while providing constructive examples of how IEK studies have been implemented to beneficial effect in ecological restoration stewardship and governance schemes Collectively the chapters in the Routledge Handbook of Indigenous Environmental Knowledge cover Indigenous Knowledge not only in a wide range of cultures and livelihood contexts but also in a wide range of environments including drylands savannah grassland tropical forests mountain landscapes temperate and boreal forests Pacific and Indian Ocean islands and coastal environments The chapters discuss the complexities and nuances of Indigenous cosmologies and ethno metaphysics and the treatment and incorporation of IEK in local national and international environmental policies Taken together the chapters in this volume make a strong case for the potential of Indigenous Knowledge in addressing today s local and global environmental challenges especially when approached from a perspective of appreciative inquiry using cross cultural methods and ethical collaborative approaches which limit bias and inappropriate extraction of IEK The book is a guide for graduate and advanced undergraduate teaching and a key reference for academics in development studies environmental studies geography anthropology and beyond as well as anyone with an interest in Indigenous Environmental Knowledge How Materials

Matter Graeme Were, 2019-03-27 How does design and innovation shape people s lives in the Pacific Focusing on plant materials from the region How Materials Matter reveals ways in which a variety of people from craftswomen and scientists to architects and politicians work with materials to transform worlds Recognizing the fragile and ephemeral nature of plant fibres this work delves into how the biophysical properties of certain leaves and their aesthetic appearance are utilized to communicate information and manage different forms of relations It breaks new ground by situating plant materials at the centre of innovation in a region Bones of the Ancestors Brian Egloff, 2008 The 3 500 year old Ambum Stone from Papua

New Guinea is the focus of several archaeological stories The stone itself is an interesting artifact an important piece of art history that tells us something about the ancient Papuans The stone is also at the center of controversies over the provenance and ownership of ancient artifacts as it was excavated on the island of New Guinea transferred out of the country and sold on the antiquities market In telling the story of the Ambum Stone Brian Egloff raises questions about what can be learned from ancient works of art about cultural property and the ownership of the past about the complex and at times shadowy world of art dealers and collectors and about the role ancient artifacts can play in forming the identities of modern peoples Book jacket Islands, Islanders and the World Tim Bayliss-Smith, Richard Bedford, Harold Brookfield, 2006-11-02 Fiji is a country whose recent political instability can be directly traced to its distinctive colonial and post colonial experience For one particular region of Fiji the authors examine the environmental social and economic aspects of this experience at scales ranging from national and regional to island village and household Discussions in Third World geography regional economics and development planning have been full of rhetoric about underdevelopment centre periphery relations and dependency but seldom are the actual processes which give rise to these phenomena examined in detail In this book the authors explore in depth the interrelations between the island landscape the cultural geography of the islanders and the intrusive values and opportunities of the market economy Some important lessons are to be learnt from the gap between what might be predicted from abstract theories of development and what is actually happening in the real world of politicians planners farmers and fishermen

The Wet and the Dry Patrick Vinton Kirch,1994 Scholars and researchers have long believed that the ability to irrigate is crucial to the development of civilizations In this book archaeologist Patrick Kirch challenges this hydraulic hypothesis and provides a more accurate and detailed account of the role of wet and dry cultivation systems in the development of complex sociopolitical structures Examining research on cultural adaptation and ecology in Western Polynesia and utilizing extensive data from a variety of important South Pacific sites Kirch not only reveals how particular systems of production developed within the constraints imposed by environmental conditions but also explores the tension that arises between contrasting productive systems with differential abilities to produce surplus He shows that the near total neglect of short fallow dryland cultivation as well as arboriculture or tree cropping has seriously distorted the picture that archaeologists and anthropologists have of agricultural intensification and its relation to complex social structure This work likely to become a classic will be central to all future discussions of the ecology and politics of agricultural intensification
