Re Evaluating Residential Care:

Re-evaluating Residential Care Sheila M. Peace, Leonie A. Kellaher, Dianne M. Willcocks, 1997 The authors of this timely book set out to answer this pressing question and offer an explanation as to what makes older people give up their homes Residential care homes provide accommodation for over 300 000 older people in the UK the majority of whom are in their mid eighties More than a quarter of the population over eighty five live in institutional settings most of them in residential care homes

Handbook of the Clinical Psychology of Ageing Robert T. Woods, Linda Clare, 2015-04-13 The first authoritative reference on clinical psychology and aging the Handbook of the Clinical Psychology of Ageing was universally regarded as a landmark publication when it was first published in 1996 Fully revised and updated the Second Edition retains the breadth of coverage of the original providing a complete and balanced picture of all areas of clinical research and practice with older people Contributions from the UK North America Scandinavia and Australia provide a broad overview of the psychology of aging psychological problems including depression anxiety psychosis and dementia the current social service context and assessment and intervention techniques

Caring and Coping Anthony Douglas, Terry Philpot, 2002-03-11 Caring and Coping provides a clear and accessible explanation of the history politics management funding and day to day work of the social services in Britain Social Care now encompasses a wide range of increasingly specialised professions Caring and Coping aims to improve the practitioner s and the general public s understanding not only of what these various professions do but also what the legal political ethical and financial constraints are upon them It succinctly addresses issues such as the terms and effects of the Children Act and the Community Care Act the role of charities in the modern welfare state the role of management relationships with other agencies and the place of social work within the community Social services are so often portrayed in the media in a sensationalist way and this book counterbalances the hype by providing solid research and a more down to earth picture It is an ideal introductory text for those training to be social workers

Inclusive housing in an ageing society Peace, Sheila, Holland, Caroline, 2001-10-24 The housing problems of older people in our society are highly topical because of the growing number of retired people in the population and especially the yet to come increasing number of very old people Government policies on the care of older people have been forthcoming from Whitehall but the issue of housing is just beginning to be seriously addressed This book represents a first attempt at bringing together people from the worlds of architecture social science and housing studies to look at the future of living environments for an ageing society Projecting thinking into the future it asks critical questions and attempts to provide some of the answers It uniquely moves beyond the issues of accommodation and care to look at the wider picture of how housing can reflect the social inclusion of people as they age Inclusive housing in an ageing society will appeal to a wide audience housing health and social care workers including housing officers architects planners and designers community regeneration workers care managers social workers and social care assistants registered managers and housing providers health improvement staff and of course current and future generations of older people      Medical Identities

Kent Maynard, 2007 Illness and misfortune more broadly are ubiquitous thus healing roles or professions are also universal Ironically however little attention has been paid to those who heal or promote wellbeing These come in many different guises in some societies healing is highly professional and specialized in some cases it is more preventative in others more interventionist Based on rich and wide ranging ethnographic data and especially written for this volume these essays look at how a great variety of health providers are perceived from traditional healers to physicians from diviners to nursing home providers Conversely the authors also ask how healers or those concerned with wider matters of well being view themselves and to what degree social attitudes differ in regard to who these people are as well as their power prestige and activities As these essays demonstrate class gender sexuality ethnicity or state policy may all play formative roles in shaping the definition of health and wellbeing how they are delivered and the character and prestige of those who provide for our health and welfare in society      Changing Britain Susan McRae, 1999 Major changes have happened in households and people's lives in most countries in the developed world Marriage rates have fallen divorce has risen women are having fewer children and later in life and there has been a rise in childbearing outside marriage One in four families is headed by a lone parent We are all getting older These changes have significance that goes beyond the individual families with implications for housing demand social security benefits labour force participation health and social services Changing Britain provides a comprehensive portrait of British families and households at the end of the 20th Century The book examines more generally the nature of economic and labour market change Britain's place in Europe and changing attitudes towards family life Specifically the book also deals with issues such as older people's lives non heterosexual families one person households young mothers and single parents and divorce      Social Work Practice with Older People Rory Lynch, 2013-11-13 Older people are the biggest service user group for social workers and an increasing proportion of the population In this refreshingly positive and practical textbook Rory Lynch draws on years of practice and teaching experience to show how to achieve best social work practice with older adults He takes a person centred approach which fosters respect by valuing the fact that elderly people have more lived experience than others Exploring the key theoretical approaches and methods of intervention this book helps social workers to identify understand and facilitate their service users wishes for well being and a fulfilling older age Chapters are practice driven containing case studies drawn from a range of care settings reflective questions and exercises Mapping directly onto the key modules on the social work degree this is essential reading for all student social workers especially as they prepare to go on their practice placement It is also valuable reading for qualified social workers Rory Lynch is Lecturer in Social Work at Robert Gordon University      Older People and the Law McDonald, Ann, Taylor, Margaret, 2006-11 This book is a revised and updated edition of Elders and the Law PEPAR Publications 1993 It describes the legal framework for working with older people following the modernising agenda in health and social care and the length has been considerably expanded to enable topics to be dealt with more comprehensively It covers the range of legal issues affecting the welfare and financial security of older people in the community and residential settings and emphasises the empowering nature of legal knowledge It also describes and explains the application of law and policy relating to older people in the context of social work practice Older People and the Law is aimed at all professionals working with older people but particularly social workers Its clarity of style means that older people themselves and carers will find it accessible BOOK JACKET

There's No Place Like Home: Place and Care in an Ageing Society Christine Milligan, 2016-02-17 Against a background of debate around global ageing and what this means in terms of the future care need of older people this book addresses key concerns about the nature and site of care and care giving Following a critical review of research into who cares where and how it uses geographical perspectives to present a comprehensive analysis of how the intersection of informal care giving within domestic community and residential care homes can create complex landscapes and organizational spatialities of care Drawing on contemporary case studies largely but not exclusively from the UK the book reviews and develops a theoretical basis for a geographical analysis of the issue of care By relating these theoretical concepts to empirical data and case studies it illustrates how formal and informal care giver responses to the changing landscape of care can act to facilitate or constrain the development of inclusionary models of care
