Jay Samuels, 2017-04-07 In this volume prominent scholars experts in their respective fields and highly skilled in the research they conduct address educational and reading research from varied perspectives and address what it will take to close the achievement gap with specific attention to reading The achievement gap is redefined as a level at which all groups can compete economically in our society and have the literacy tools and habits needed for a good life Bringing valuable theoretical frameworks and in depth analytical approaches to interpretation of data the contributors examine factors that contribute to student achievement inside the school but which are also heavily influenced by out of school factors such as poverty and economics ethnicity and culture family and community stratifications and approaches to measurement of achievement These out of school factors present possibilities for new policies and practice The overarching theme is that achievement gaps in reading are complex and that multiple perspectives are necessary to address the problem The breadth and depth of perspectives and content in this volume and its conceptualization of the achievement gap are a significant contribution to the field      Associations between Reading and Mathematics: Genetic, Brain Imaging, Cognitive and Educational Perspectives Sarit Ashkenazi, Orly Rubinsten, Bert De Smedt, 2017-10-05

Converging evidence demonstrates a strong link between reading and mathematics multiple cognitive processes are shared between reading and mathematics including the representation and retrieval of symbolic information attention working memory and cognitive control Additionally multiple brain networks are involved in both math and reading and last common genetic factors might influence both reading and math Hence it comes as no surprise that there are meaningful associations between aspects of math and reading abilities Moreover comorbidity rates between math learning disabilities MD and reading disabilities RD are high up to 66% and prevalence rate of the comorbid condition is reported to be more common than the prevalence rate of isolated math learning disabilities Accordingly the goal of the research topic is to explore the underline mechanisms of this overlap between reading and math The research topic aims to include the following topics

Genetics it has been found that both RD and MD are based on genetic factors and run in families Moreover math problem solving shares significant genetic overlap with general cognitive ability and reading decoding whereas math fluency shares significant genetic overlap with reading fluency and general cognitive ability Hence this topic will explore the shared and unique genetic risk factors to RD and MD In addition to shared and unique genetic influence on reading and math

Neural perspective converging evidence from both structural and multiple functional imaging studies involving a wide range of numerical tasks points to the intraparietal sulcus IPS as a core region that involve in quantity manipulation However several additional brain areas such as frontoparietal and temporoparietal areas were found to be involved in numerical tasks Individuals with MD show deficits in a distributed set of brain regions that include the IPS fusiform gyrus in posterior brain regions and pre frontal cortex regions Similarly converging evidence indicate that the left hemisphere regions centered in the fusiform gyrus temporoparietal cortex and pre frontal cortex regions are strongly involve in typical reading and present lower activity connectivity or abnormal structure in RD Thus there is a meaningful neural overlap between reading and math Hence the authors can submit empirical studies on the role of several of brain regions that are involved in math and reading commonality and diversity both in the typical and a typical development

Cognitive factors that play role in mathematics and reading and comorbidity between RD and MD There is a long lasting debate whether MD and RD originate from unique cognitive mechanisms or not Multiple cognitive processes are shared between reading and mathematics Therefore impairments in any one of domain general skills could conceivably play an important role in both pure and comorbid conditions Moreover it has been suggested that phonological processing has a significant role in some aspects of numerical processing such as retrieval of arithmetical facts

Education it will be interesting to look at the effect of interventions that aim to improve reading such as phonological awareness and there transfer effect on improving mathematical processing Alternatively it will be good to test whether math interventions will improve reading      Speaking.

Reading, and Writing in Children With Language Learning Disabilities Katharine G. Butler, Elaine R. Silliman, 2001-12-01 The ability to use language in more literate ways has always been a central outcome of education Today however being literate requires more than functional literacy the recognition of printed words as meaningful It requires the knowledge of how to use language as a tool for analyzing synthesizing and integrating what is heard or read in order to arrive at new interpretations Specialists in education cognitive psychology learning disabilities communication sciences and disorders and other fields have studied the language learning problems of school age children from their own perspectives All have tended to emphasize either the oral language component or phonemic awareness The major influence of phonemic awareness on learning to read and spell is well researched but it is not the only relevant focus for efforts in intervention and instruction An issue is that applications are usually the products of a single discipline or profession and few integrate an understanding of phonemic awareness with an understanding of the ways in which oral language comprehension and expression support reading writing and spelling Thus what we have learned about language remains disconnected from what we have learned about literacy interrelationships between language and literacy are not appreciated and educational services for students with language and learning disabilities are fragmented as a result This unique book a multidisciplinary collaboration bridges research practice and the development of new technologies It offers the first comprehensive and integrated overview of the multiple factors involved in language learning from late preschool through post high school that must be considered if problems are to be effectively addressed Practitioners researchers and students professionally concerned with these problems will find the book an invaluable resource     Make Early Learning Standards Come Alive Gaye

Gronlund, 2014-09-09 Updated curriculum planning guide reflecting the continuing evolution of early learning standards for preschool children across the country     Media Rich Instruction Rosemary Papa, 2014-06-27 E learning has brought an enormous change to instruction in terms of both rules and tools Contemporary education requires diverse and creative uses of media technology to keep students engaged and to keep up with rapid developments in the ways they learn and teachers teach Media Rich Instruction addresses these requirements with up to date learning theory and practices that incorporate innovative platforms for information delivery into traditional areas such as learning skills and learner characteristics Experts in media rich classroom experiences and online instruction delve into the latest findings on student cognitive processes and motivation to learn while offering multimedia classroom strategies geared to specific curriculum areas Advances such as personal learning environments gamification and the Massive Open Online Course are analyzed in the context of their potential for collaborative and transformative learning And each chapter features key questions and application activities to make coverage especially practical across grade levels and learner populations Among the topics included Building successful learning experiences online Language and literacy reading and writing Mathematics teaching and learning with and through education technology Learning science through experiment and practice Social studies teaching for learner
