Does this Sound Familiar?

Jayden, age 9 months, has been happily putting cereal pieces into his mouth. He pauses for a moment and then uses his hands to scatter the food across his high chair tray. He catches his father's eye, gives him a big smile, and drops a piece of cereal on the floor. When his father picks it up, Jayden kicks his legs, waves his arms, and laughs. He throws another piece of cereal. His dad smiles and says, "Jayden, it looks like you are all done eating. Is that right?" He picks Jayden up and says, "How about we throw a ball instead of your food, okay?"

Help Your Child to Read Better James Schiavone, 2000-05-12 What parent hasn't been shocked by accounts of students entering college as functional illiterates? When newspapers publish the yearly reading scores revealing that across the nation youngsters are reading below grade level the problem strikes very close to home and suddenly the reading difficulties of one own first grader become a matter of considerable importance. The author believes that the parent still has a primary responsibility for seeing that a child makes the most of his or her capabilities. Having done this most parents can spare themselves a lot of needless anxiety if they will just relax and let their children learn to read when they are ready as they learned to walk and talk. Reading readiness will help ease and speed the process and set the stage for learning by encouraging the child's curiosity and natural desire to learn. Obviously the teacher's job is made easier when the child comes to school ready and eager to learn. Help Your Child to Read Better is a parent's guide to reading readiness. Use this author bio. James Schiavone is a leading authority on reading skills and has written widely on the subject. He is the author of You Can Read Faster, Seven Keys to a Richer Vocabulary and How to Pass Exams. Since 1971 he has been assistant professor of development skills and coordinator for remediation of the Borough of Manhattan community college of The City University of New York. His work on the psychology of reading has appeared in many professional journals including Education, Literary Discussion Journal, Journal of Reading Science, Education School Counselor, Florida Education Forum for Reading and University Teaching.
