Reading Benedict / Reading Mead Dolores Janiewski, Lois W. Banner, 2004 Publisher Description Racism Albert J. Wheeler, 2005 Of all mankind's vices racism is one of the most pervasive and stubborn Success in overcoming racism has been achieved from time to time but victories have been limited thus far because mankind has focused on personal economic gain or power grabs ignoring generosity of the soul This bibliography brings together the literature Expeditionary Anthropology Martin Thomas, Amanda Harris, 2018-01-29 The origins of anthropology lie in expeditionary journeys But since the rise of immersive fieldwork usually by a sole investigator the older tradition of team based social research has been largely eclipsed Expeditionary Anthropology argues that expeditions have much to tell us about anthropologists and the people they studied The book charts the diversity of anthropological expeditions and analyzes the often passionate arguments they provoked Drawing on recent developments in gender studies indigenous studies and the history of science the book argues that even today the science of man is deeply inscribed by its connections with expeditionary travel Margaret Mead Nancy C. Lutkehaus, 2018-06-26 Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful committed citizens can change the world Margaret Mead This quotation found on posters and bumper stickers and adopted as the motto for hundreds of organizations worldwide speaks to the global influence and legacy of the American anthropologist Margaret Mead 1901-78 In this insightful and revealing book Nancy Lutkehaus explains how and why Mead became the best known anthropologist and female public intellectual in twentieth century America Using photographs films television appearances and materials from newspapers magazines and scholarly journals Lutkehaus explores the ways in which Mead became an American cultural heroine Identifying four key images associated with her the New Woman the Anthropologist Adventurer the Scientist and the Public Intellectual Lutkehaus examines the various meanings that different segments of American society assigned to Mead throughout her lengthy career as a public figure The author shows that Mead came to represent a new set of values and ideas about women non Western peoples culture and America's role in the twentieth century that have significantly transformed society and become generally accepted today Lutkehaus also considers why there has been no other anthropologist since Mead to become as famous Margaret Mead is an engaging look at how one woman's life and accomplishments resonated with the issues that shaped American society and changed her into a celebrity and cultural icon

Transcending Capitalism Howard Brick, 2015-09-25 Transcending Capitalism explains why many influential midcentury American social theorists came to believe it was no longer meaningful to describe modern Western society as capitalist but instead preferred alternative terms such as postcapitalist postindustrial or technological Considering the discussion today of capitalism and its global triumph it is important to understand why a prior generation of social theorists imagined the future of advanced societies not in a fixed capitalist form but in some course of development leading beyond capitalism Howard Brick locates this postcapitalist vision within a long history of social theory and ideology He challenges the common view that American thought and culture utterly succumbed in the 1940s to a conservative cold war consensus that put aside the reform ideology and social theory of the early twentieth century. Rather, expectations of the shift to a new social economy persisted and cannot be disregarded as one of the elements contributing to the revival of dissenting thought and practice in the 1960s. Rooted in a politics of social liberalism, this vision held influence for roughly a half century from its interwar origins until the right turn in American political culture during the 1970s and 1980s. In offering a historically based understanding of American postcapitalist thought, Brick also presents some current possibilities for reinvigorating critical social thought that explores transitional developments beyond capitalism. Generations of Women Historians Hilda L. Smith, Melinda S. Zook, 2018-07-11

This collection focuses on generations of early women historians seeking to identify the intellectual milieu and professional realities that framed their lives. It moves beyond treating them as simply individuals and looks to the social and intellectual forces that encouraged them to study history and at the same time would often limit the reach and define the nature of their study. This collection of essays speaks to female practitioners of history over the past four centuries that published original histories, some within a university setting and some outside. By analysing the values these early women scholars faced, readers can understand the broader social values that led women historians to exist as a unit apart from the career path of their male colleagues. The Trashing of Margaret Mead Paul Shankman, 2009-12-03

In 1928 Margaret Mead published Coming of Age in Samoa, a fascinating study of the lives of adolescent girls that transformed Mead herself into an academic celebrity. In 1983 anthropologist Derek Freeman published a scathing critique of Mead's Samoan research, badly damaging her reputation. Resonating beyond academic circles, his case against Mead tapped into important public concerns of the 1980s, including sexual permissiveness, cultural relativism, and the nature/nurture debate. In venues from the New York Times to the TV show Donahue, Freeman argued that Mead had been hoaxed by Samoans whose innocent lies she took at face value. In The Trashing of Margaret Mead, Paul Shankman explores the many dimensions of the Mead-Freeman controversy as it developed publicly and as it played out privately, including the personal relationships, professional rivalries, and larger-than-life personalities that drove it. Providing a critical perspective on Freeman's arguments, Shankman reviews key questions about Samoan sexuality, the alleged hoaxing of Mead, and the meaning of the controversy. Why were Freeman's arguments so readily accepted by pundits outside the field of anthropology? What did Samoans themselves think? Can Mead's reputation be salvaged from the quicksand of controversy? Written in an engaging, clear style and based on a careful review of the evidence, The Trashing of Margaret Mead illuminates questions of enduring significance to the academy and beyond. 2010 Distinguished Lecturer in Anthropology at the American Museum of Natural History, The Trashing of Margaret Mead reminds readers of the pitfalls of academia. It urges scholars to avoid personal attacks and to engage in healthy debate. The book redeems Mead while also redeeming the field of anthropology. By showing the uniqueness of the Mead-Freeman case, Shankman places his continued confidence in academia, scholars, and the field of anthropology. H-Net Reviews Margaret

Mead Paul Shankman, 2021-07-16 This short volume is an ideal starting point for anyone wanting to learn about arguably the most famous anthropologist of the twentieth century Since her death a steady drip of books about Mead one of the most significant women in twentieth century social science and American society has appeared some interesting many quite a bit less so While Shankman's biography makes use of them it nevertheless stands out among the better ones not only for its well informed and balanced view of Mead but also for its concision Times Literary Supplement Tracing Mead's career as an ethnographer as the early voice of public anthropology and as a public figure this elegantly written biography links the professional and personal sides of her career The book looks at Mead's early career through the end of World War II when she produced her most important anthropological works as well as her role as a public figure in the post war period through the 1960s until her death in 1978 The criticisms of Mead are also discussed and analyzed From the introduction After her death she was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom by President Jimmy Carter On the other side of the world Mead's passing was remembered in a very different context On the island of Manus off the coast of New Guinea the people of Pere village also mourned her death Mead first studied the people of Pere in the late 1920s returning in the 1950s with further visits thereafter Over a span of five decades she touched their lives and they touched hers Such was Mead's stature that they commemorated her death with a ceremony befitting a great leader Boasians at War Anthony Q. Hazard, Jr., 2020-04-20

This volume seeks to recover a specific historical moment within the tradition of anthropologists trained in the United States under Franz Boas arguably the father of modern American anthropology Focusing on Boasians Ashley Montagu Margaret Mead Melville Herskovits and Ruth Benedict Anthony Hazard highlights the extent to which the Boasians offer historicized explanations of racism that move beyond a quest to reshape only the discipline Boasian war work pointed to the histories of chattel slavery and colonialism to theorize not just race but the emergence of racism as both systemic and interpersonal The realities of race that continue to plague the United States have direct ties to the anthropological work of the figures examined here particularly within the context of the 20th century black freedom struggle Ultimately Boasians at War offers a detailed glimpse of the long troubled history of the concept of race along with the real life realities of racism that have carried on despite the harnessing of scientific knowledge to combat both

Race and Ethnicity in America Russell M. Lawson, Benjamin A. Lawson, 2019-10-11 Divided into four volumes Race and Ethnicity in America provides a complete overview of the history of racial and ethnic relations in America from pre contact to the present The five hundred years since Europeans made contact with the indigenous peoples of America have been dominated by racial and ethnic tensions During the colonial period from 1500 to 1776 slavery and servitude of whites blacks and Indians formed the foundation for race and ethnic relations After the American Revolution slavery labor inequalities and immigration led to racial and ethnic tensions after the Civil War labor inequalities immigration and the fight for civil rights dominated America's racial and ethnic experience From the 1960s to the present the unfulfilled promise of civil rights for all ethnic and racial groups in America

To Cherish the Life of the World Margaret Caffrey, Patricia Francis, 2009-04-29 Often far from home and loved ones famed anthropologist Margaret Mead was a prolific letterwriter always honing her writing skills and her ideas To Cherish the Life of the World presents for the first time her personal and professional correspondence which spanned sixty years These letters lend insights into Mead's relationships with interconnected circles of family friends and colleagues and reveal her thoughts on the nature of these relationships In these letters drawn primarily from her papers at the Library of Congress Mead ruminates on family friendships sexuality marriage children and career In midlife at a low point she wrote to a friend What I seem to need most is close aware human relationships which somehow reinstate my sense of myself as no longer living in the season of the narrow heart This collection is structured around these relationships which were so integral to Mead's perspective on life With a foreword by her daughter Mary Catherine Bateson a renowned author and anthropologist in her own right this volume of letters from Mead to those who shared her life and work offers new insight into a rich and deeply complex mind Intertwined Lives Lois W. Banner, 2004-12-07 A uniquely revealing biography of two eminent twentieth century American women Close friends for much of their lives Ruth Benedict and Margaret Mead met at Barnard College in 1922 when Mead was a student Benedict a teacher They became sexual partners though both married and pioneered in the then male dominated discipline of anthropology They championed racial and sexual equality and cultural relativity despite the generally racist xenophobic and homophobic tenor of their era Mead's best selling Coming of Age in Samoa 1928 and Sex and Temperament in Three Primitive Societies 1935 and Benedict's Patterns of Culture 1934 Race 1940 and The Chrysanthemum and the Sword 1946 were landmark studies that ensured the lasting prominence and influence of their authors in the field of anthropology and beyond With unprecedented access to the complete archives of the two women including hundreds of letters opened to scholars in 2001 Lois Banner examines the impact of their difficult childhoods and the relationship between them in the context of their circle of family friends husbands lovers and colleagues as well as the calamitous events of their time She shows how Benedict inadvertently exposed Mead to charges of professional incompetence discloses the serious errors New Zealand anthropologist Derek Freeman made in his famed attack on Mead's research on Samoa and reveals what happened in New Guinea when Mead and colleagues engaged in a ritual aimed at overturning all gender and sexual boundaries In this illuminating and innovative work Banner has given us the most detailed balanced and informative portrait of Mead and Benedict individually and together that we have had Readings for A History of Anthropological Theory Paul A. Erickson, Liam Donat Murphy, 2010-01-01 This comprehensive anthology presents 40 readings that are critical to an understanding of anthropological theory and the development of anthropology as an academic discipline The readings have broad anthropological appeal emphasizing social and cultural anthropology The third edition has been completely revised throughout and organized to work more closely alongside the companion overview text A History of Anthropological Theory It includes six new readings as well as two original essays written by contemporary anthropologists on Why Theory Matters These new essays help ground the more abstract readings in the collection The glossary has been significantly expanded and the discussion questions have been revised The result is a volume that offers not only a strong foundation in the history of the discipline but also a good overview of developments in twentieth and twenty first century anthropological theory including feminist anthropology postmodernity medical anthropology globalization postcolonialism and public anthropology On Creating a Usable Culture Maureen A. Molloy, 2008-02-20 Margaret Mead's career took off in 1928 with the publication of Coming of Age in Samoa Within ten years she was the best known academic in the United States a role she enjoyed all of her life In On Creating a Usable Culture Maureen Molloy explores how Mead was influenced by and influenced the meanings of American culture and secured for herself a unique and enduring place in the American popular imagination She considers this in relation to Mead's four popular ethnographies written between the wars: Coming of Age in Samoa, Growing Up in New Guinea, The Changing Culture of an Indian Tribe, and Sex and Temperament in Three Primitive Societies, and the academic middle brow and popular responses to them. Molloy argues that Mead was heavily influenced by the debates concerning the forging of a distinctive American culture that began around 1911 with the publication of George Santayana's The Genteel Tradition. The creation of a national culture would solve the problems of alienation and provincialism and establish a place for both native born and immigrant communities. Mead drew on this vision of an integrated culture and used her primitive societies as exemplars of how cultures attained or failed to attain this ideal. Her ethnographies are really about America, the peoples she studied serving as the personifications of what were widely understood to be the dilemmas of American selfhood in a materialistic individualistic society. Two themes subtend Molloy's analysis. The first is Mead's articulation of the individual's relation to his or her culture via the trope of sex. Each of her early ethnographies focuses on a character and his or her problems as expressed through sexuality. This thematic ties her work closely to the popularization of psychoanalysis at the time with its understanding of sex as the key to the self. The second theme involves the change in Mead's attitude toward and definition of culture from the cultural determinism in Coming of Age to culture as the enemy of the individual in Sex and Temperament. This trend parallels the consolidation and objectification of popular and professional notions about culture in the 1920s and 1930s. On Creating a Usable Culture will be eagerly welcomed by those with an interest in American studies and history, cultural studies and the social sciences, and most especially by readers of American intellectual history, the history of anthropology, gender studies, and studies of modernism.

William Alexander Percy Benjamin E. Wise, 2012 William Alexander Percy Boasian Verse Philipp Schweighauser, 2022-11-30 Boasian Verse explores the understudied poetic output of three major twentieth century anthropologists: Edward Sapir, Ruth Benedict, and Margaret Mead. Providing a comparative analysis of their anthropological and poetic works, this volume explores the divergent representations of cultural others and the uses of ethnographic studies for cultural critique. This volume aims to illuminate central questions including: Why did they choose to write poetry about their ethnographic endeavors? Why did they choose to write the way they wrote? Was poetry used to approach the objects of their research in different, perhaps ethically more viable ways? Did poetry allow them to transcend their own primitivist even evolutionist tendencies, or did it much rather refashion or even amplify those tendencies? This in-depth examination of these ethnographic poems invites both cultural anthropologists and students of literature to reevaluate the Boasian legacy of cultural relativism, primitivism, and residual evolutionism for the twenty-first century. This volume offers a fresh perspective on some of the key texts that have shaped twentieth and twenty-first century discussions of culture and cultural relativism and a unique contribution to readers interested in the dynamic area of multimodal anthropologies.
