Researching Young Children's Perspectives

Deborah Harcourt,Bob Perry,Tim Waller,2011-03-08 What ethical dilemmas face researchers who work with young children Researching Young Children s Perspectives critically examines the challenges and complexities of rights based participatory research with children Rather than approaching these dilemmas as problematic issues this book positions them as important topics for discussion and reflection Drawing from their own rich experiences as research collaborators with young children in internationally diverse settings the authors consider the ethical methodological and theoretical frameworks that guide best practice in research with young children Each chapter poses points for consideration that will inform and challenge both the novice and experienced researcher such as How participatory can research be with infants under eighteen months When should listening through observation stand alone What is the distinction between methodologies and methods How can all young children be assured of a voice in research The authors also present seven separate case studies which demonstrate exemplary research with young children Each study is accompanied by insightful commentary from the authors who highlight the issues or difficulties faced and propose potential solutions If you are a student at undergraduate level and above this book will give you all the confidence you need to conduct your own high quality research with children

Doing Research with Children and Young People Sandy Fraser,Open University,2004 Doing Research with Children and Young People introduces researchers to the key considerations involved in working with children and young people

Understanding the Under 3s and the Implications for Education Sylvie Rayna,Ferre Laevers,2016-04-08 This book originated from an awareness of the persistent lack of knowledge supporting a more respectful reception and approach to the youngest in our changing societies It follows initiatives of networks of researchers from several countries sharing insights from current studies carried out in their different cultures Introduced by a state of art review like chapter on birth to 3 literature the book which can be pictured as a composition begins with a journey inside the creativity of these young persons and a picture of a companionable learning It deals with the role of the spatial and physical dimensions of the setting and pictures how the educator can create meaningful participation and launch early exercises in democracy with respect for diversities It provides a deeper understanding of a pedagogical accompaniment based on participatory alliance and of the development of communication and language The text will be a useful addition to researchers practitioners and other stakeholders This book was originally published as a special issue of the European Early Childhood Education Research Journal

Shaping Early Childhood: Learners, Curriculum and Contexts Glenda Mac Naughton,2003-12-16 This should be essential reading for anyone involved in the training and professional development of early years practitioners It is an impressive analysis of the historical and contemporary big ideas that have influenced societies and practitioners views of children and the nature of the curriculum There are powerful sections on parents and communities I particularly liked the stimulating ideas galleries with their statements from researchers policy makers and practitioners around the world Nursery World October 2004 This key textbook introduces students and practitioners to a wide range of different approaches to early childhood It provides practical strategies for developing and implementing early learning experiences that promote excellence and equity for children The book presents the latest research and thinking about good practice discusses how various philosophies and beliefs influence decisions in early childhood education and identifies the key thinkers behind each approach By examining different perspectives the book helps early childhood practitioners to navigate their way through competing views make informed choices and be critically reflective in their work In an accessible lively and user friendly way it explores issues such as What constitutes an appropriate early childhood curriculum How best to study and assess children Involving parents and children in early childhood learning The book features a range of pedagogical devices to inspire early childhood workers to reflect critically on their work and the ideas underpinning it including Boxed definitions of key terms Ideas summary charts and ideas galleries Clarification exercises Case studies Further reading lists This essential textbook is ideal for students undertaking early childhood qualifications at degree level Masters courses in early childhood education and for practitioners who work with children from birth to eight in early childhood settings Key Concepts in Early Childhood Education and Care Cathy Nutbrown, 2011-01-18 This new edition of Cathy Nutbrown's much loved book explains the key ideas and issues in Early Childhood clearly and concisely keeping students up to date with the latest developments in the field There are brand new entries on Attachment Babies learning and development Children's Centres Citizenship Digital Technologies Early Years Foundation Stage Early Years Professional Status Neuroscience Sexualities The rest of the book has also been thoroughly updated and revised and includes coverage of heuristic play Early Literacy Development and Parental Involvement The book offers starting points which provide a clear focus further reading and discussion of research on thirty five key topics It is a must for students following courses in early childhood education and care Professor Cathy Nutbrown directs and teaches on Masters and Doctoral programmes in Early Childhood Education at the University of Sheffield

Early Childhood Grows Up Linda Miller, Carmen Dalli, Mathias Urban, 2011-11-08 Once the Cinderella of the education system early years education has evolved into a much more substantially funded sector with staff experiencing greater opportunities for higher level training and education as well as increasing demands This book reflects practitioner debates about fundamental questions such as whether or not their field of work is a profession at all Two key arguments are presented The first is that early years education has matured to the point that pedagogical and regulatory frameworks have been introduced and linked to a terminology of professionalism This has opened up a space for early years practitioners as insiders of this historically undervalued sector to question the nature of their practice The questioning leads to the second argument the need for a new future for early years education marked by a critical ecology of the profession This is a future in which educators maintain an attitude of critical enquiry in all aspects of their role assessing the genuine needs of the sector factoring in the different political and cultural milieux that influence it and acting to transform it In exploring the issues this book begins by recording in detail the daily work of early years educators from six countries Australia England Finland Germany New Zealand and Sweden These case studies explore what it means to act professionally in a particular context perceptions of what being a professional in early childhood education means including practitioners self perceptions and external perspectives and common features of practice in each context It moves on to analyse the wider socio political forces that affect this day to day practice and recommends that practitioners act as transformative agents informed by the political and social realities of their time Working with Parents and Families in Early Childhood Education Ute Ward,Bob

Perry,2020-05-21 This book reports initiatives to listen to parents and families to ascertain what families believe and do as they seek to engage collaboratively with their children s educators and what educators and educational systems might do to facilitate and or establish barriers to such engagement Parental engagement in children s learning and development has many positive benefits However in the current environments of accountability and performativity which are pervading early childhood education in many countries the opportunities for parents and other family members to be part of the development of respectful collaborative relationships with their children s early childhood educators are becoming more and more restricted Many educators feel forced to choose between curriculum outcomes and parental engagement as both involve their time There is a danger that the voices of parents and families in their children s early learning and development will not always be heard seen or fully understood This volume addresses this important issue Researchers educators and families will all benefit from this book to the ultimate benefit of the young children who are the future This book was originally published as a special issue of the European Early Childhood Education Research Journal Key Concepts in Early Childhood

Education and Care Professor Cathy Nutbrown,2005-11-15 In this engaging text author Dr Cathy Nutbrown a leading academic in early childhood education identifies and explains key terms and practices central to the work and study of early childhood in this accessible reference text Key Concepts in Early Childhood Education and Care is a must read for practitioners working with children from birth to the end of the foundation stage and for students following courses in early childhood education and care It details key issues identified in a survey of over 300 practitioners in the field and provides reading and reference sources to assist practitioners and students in identifying further material to support their work
