the complex practical and ethical issues facing older people and those who conduct research on ageing in the 21st century. The contributions extend the critical gerontological approach conceptually, methodologically and practically. Special attention is paid to feminist contributions and new approaches to working in partnership with older people, age discrimination and ageism, the impact of neo liberal policies and the passage of various human rights instruments, the re-medicalisation of later life, the participation of older people in research and justice between generations. Cowan,2024-04-11 The inter war period 1918 1939 is still remembered as a period of mass deprivation the hungry thirties But how did this impression emerge Thousands of conversations about life in the inter war period between parents and children around the dinner table among workmates at the pub shaped these understandings In turn these fed into popular politics Stories about the embryonic welfare system in the early twentieth century informed how people felt towards the National Health Service memories of the Great Depression shaped arguments about state intervention in the economy Challenging accounts of widespread political disengagement in the twentieth century Politics of the Past shows how re telling

Gender and Ageing Sara Arber, Kate Davidson, Jay Ginn, 2003 This book is a follow up to Arber and Ginn's award winning Connecting Gender and Ageing 1995 It contains original chapters from eminent writers on gender and ageing addressing newly emergent areas within gender and ageing including gender identity and masculinity in later life Early work on gender and ageing was dominated by a focus on older women The present collection breaks with this tradition by emphasizing changing gender roles and relationships gender identity and an examination of masculinities in midlife and later life A theme running through the book is the need to reconceptualize partnership status in order to understand the implications of both widowhood and divorce for older women and men as well as new forms of relationships such as Living Apart Together LAT relationships There is also an underlying focus on how socio economic circumstances influence the experiences of ageing and the ways transitions are negotiated Written with undergraduate students and researchers in mind Gender Ageing will be an invaluable text for those studying social gerontology sociology of later life gender studies health and community care and social policy Social Work Practice with Older People Rory Lynch, 2013-11-13 Older people are the biggest service user group for social workers and an increasing proportion of the population In this refreshingly positive and practical textbook Rory Lynch draws on years of practice and teaching experience to show how to achieve best social work practice with older adults He takes a person centred approach which fosters respect by valuing the fact that elderly people have more lived experience than others Exploring the key theoretical approaches and methods of intervention this book helps social workers to identify understand and facilitate their service users wishes for well being and a fulfilling older age Chapters are practice driven containing case studies drawn from a range of care settings reflective questions and exercises Mapping directly onto the key modules on the social work degree this is essential reading for all student social workers especially as they prepare to go on their practice placement It is also valuable reading for qualified social workers Rory Lynch is Lecturer in Social Work at Robert Gordon University Growing Old with the Welfare State Nick Hubble, Jennie Taylor, Philip Tew, 2019-05-16 The combined effect of the welfare state and medical advances means that more people now live longer lives than ever before in history As a consequence the experience of ageing has been transformed Yet our cultural and social perceptions of ageing remain governed by increasingly dated images and narratives Growing Old with the Welfare State challenges these stereotypes by bringing together eight previously unpublished stories of ordinary British people born between 1925 and 1945 to show contemporary ageing in a new light These biographical narratives six of which were written as part of the Mass Observation Project reflect on and compare the experience of living in two post war periods of social change after the first and second world wars In doing so these stories along with their accompanying contextual chapters provide a valuable and accessible resource for social historians and expose both historical and contemporary views of age and ageing that challenge modern assumptions Cultural Gerontology Lars Andersson,2002-11-30 The concept of culture has gained considerable attention within the humanities and social sciences in general and this is certainly true in the field of gerontology The new perspectives thus gained widen the scope of gerontology In this study chapter authors examine the growth of gerontology as a discipline the phenomenon of ageism as a socio cultural concept identity politics in which older persons are perceived as belonging to a subculture and images of the older body in cultural perspective The manner in which gerontology emerged as a discipline was embedded in culturally defined views of aging that had consequences for how it was seen to vary between cultures One consequence was a perception of ageism as a cultural construction Since the 1980s much of the politics of older people is a form of identity politics in which groups are mobilized to further their interests Questions of cultural meanings ascribed to the gendered aging body is a central question for ageism social identity and self image These questions become especially relevant in confrontations with bodily decline and negotiations of intimacy in institutions for older people Aging in Slavic Literatures Dagmar Gramshammer-Hohl,2017-07-15 In Slavic studies aging and old age have thus far been only marginal concerns This volume brings together the scattered research that has been done up to now on aging as represented and narrated in Slavic literatures The essays investigate Bosnian Croatian Serbian Polish Russian Slovak Slovene and Ukrainian representations of age aging in various literary genres and epochs and analyze age as a powerful marker of difference and as constitutive of social relations and personal identity Routledge
