Residential Care:

Geriatric Residential Care Robert D. Hill, Brian L. Thorn, John Bowling, Anthony Morrison, 2013-06-17 This book's main goal is to examine the concept of residential care from a psychological perspective. The chapter authors espouse a psychological approach to long term residential care and an effort is made throughout the text to present a model of care that encompasses the whole individual. Since psychologists are being increasingly asked to provide consultation to long term residential care facilities, the need for psychologically based care models has become apparent. This text offers assistance in developing and maintaining residential care environments that maximize quality of life and personal well being in the presence of declining physical and emotional resources that are associated with the vicissitudes of living into advanced aging. Geriatric Residential Care is divided into four parts. Part I addresses psychological and social issues facing the frail elderly who are candidates for or are living in residential care settings. Part II addresses issues in the assessment of individuals in residential care. Part III highlights the design and execution of intervention strategies in residential care. Part IV addresses how organizational aspects of residential care contexts can optimize the quality and meaningfulness of care.

Residential Care for the Elderly Sharon Baggett, 1989-09-25 Although residential care and assisted living for older adults has expanded rapidly in recent decades, it has done so in a policy environment beset by confusion and conflicting purposes. Sharon A. Baggett traces many of the current problems to insufficient knowledge of the population these policies are designed to serve. In her examination of the frequently neglected interface between policy and people, she provides a comprehensive review of current federal and state policies, a detailed case study of a state residential care program, and an analysis of the needs and characteristics of persons in assisted living facilities. Baggett's policy overview covers such areas as the confusion between housing and care, supply and demand factors in the economics of residential care, conditions contributing to the increase in numbers of assisted living facilities, and current policies that define and limit the choice of residential alternatives. A case study of Oregon's residential care program shows how that state has adapted federal initiatives to local goals and philosophies of long term care. Funding mechanisms, regulations, and the role of state agencies in developing and monitoring compliance are discussed. Following a comprehensive profile of facility residents, the question of using functional assessment measures to determine individual needs is explored. Linking the larger policy issues with an in depth analysis of residents served and actual services provided, this book will be helpful to policy planners and developers, administrators and case managers, as well as students and academics concerned with housing and assisted living services for the elderly.

other children Inconsistency in practice and underperformance against current standards show that there are significant underlying challenges to implementation of the new raft of measures The report examines the crucial elements of relationships stable reliable bonds with key individuals are fundamental to children s security and development placements are in short supply and local authorities need more support to increase availability the performance framework the quality of decision making of relationships and of children s experiences of care Three themes run through the Committee s conclusions First is the importance of a well trained fairly paid well supported workforce in delivering the care Secondly is how local authorities can come to approximate more closely the care of birth parents Thirdly there is the voice of the child and more independent support is needed for children to express their views The care system should not be seen as a sanction against failing parents nor blight children s future prospects Care must be an integral part of a continuum of effective family support services for families under stress and not functioning well Parents should expect that children in care will have stability and personalised attention rather than a life ruled by uncertainty and bureaucracy and will have access to all the health and therapeutic care that they need to enjoy life and develop into independent adults
